Meet Anne-Mette - Streak Runners Denmark
By: Anne-Mette Lindgaard with Heidi Kessler

Hello. My name is Anne-Mette, I live in Denmark in Europe. I am 54 years old and married to Martin, and we have 4 children: Andrea 27, Emma 20, Victor 18 and Jacob 16. I started running when the kids were small because it was a sport that was easy to fit into family life. There were no fixed training times for me to show up for. In some periods I ran often, and other times there was a long time in between. I ran my first 10 km in 2008 (age 40), first half marathon in 2009, and both first marathon and first ultra-race in 2010.

Anne-Mette Lindgaard

At Christmas 2013, I got a book written by a Danish runner who had been running a marathon every day for a year. I read the book during the Christmas holidays and was so fascinated that -without thinking - I exclaimed: "I will run every day for the next year" - and the first day of my streak therefore became a local 5 km New Year's race on December 31, 2013.

I hadn't heard of Streak Running, and didn't know anyone else who ran every day, so I just ran. Every day. About 5 km. The family cheered me on, and the kids also thought it was fun that no matter where we were, mom was going for a run. I couldn't stop after 1 year and just kept going. When I reached 1000 days it was celebrated with a trail run in the woods, along with a lot of runners and cake. A runner asked me if I was inspired by Ron Hill, but I didn't know who he was, so I had to go home and Google. Now I know everything about him, and funnily enough, he had his birthday the day I turned 1000 days. It was September 25, 2016. I am deeply impressed by his 52 years of running every day. I found out that he was the founder of the running clothes Ronhill and found the Danish retailer of the clothes. I became an ambassador, and today I don't run in anything else. I have been on a trip to Manchester in 2017, when the Danish importer was prevented from participating in the presentation of next year's collection. Ron Hill, unfortunately, was not there that day due to illness.

Anne-Mette Lindgaard

I love to run and enjoy my daily run, and in 2017 I took a running coach education, and started my own little running club in 2018. There are 12-15 runners on my team.

In my years as a streak runner, I have inspired both my colleagues from work and other runners on my team, and I therefore created the Facebook group Streak Runners Denmark with a ranking list, to see how many people participated. It has become a very nice group and we have met once for running and eating. We will certainly meet again. There are now about 130 members in the group, and about 75 are or have once been streak runners.

The craziest places I've run - to preserve my streak - "streak savers" - are on a ferry on my way from Denmark to Norway at 6 in the morning, - and recently where I had to run 2 km in the corridors of my office, when a colleague's anniversary dragged on a bit and became quite festive. The boss joined my run some of the way, and colleagues made sure to keep the doors open along the way. A lot can be done if you want to keep your streak alive.

My running team runs the Ronhill's #RunEveryDay October Challenge every year and 4 runners continue to run every day after the October Challenge in 2020. Every year we end the #RunEveryDay October Challenge with our own Halloween midnight run.

On the running team, we are good at celebrating when we reach anniversaries, e.g. 1000 days, 1500 days, and we had cake when I reached Forrest Gump Day + Double Forrest Gump Day, e.g. when I turned 54 in October, we ran 5.4 km, and drew the number 54 as a route. Draw with your feet.

In addition to my own running team, me and my 20-year-old daughter coach runners who train for the Royal Run. A race the Danish Crown Prince has organized every year since he turned 50. There are 80,000 participants in the race, which is held in 5 cities in Denmark. It has given me a few good memories, including training with the Crown Prince and being interviewed on live TV. www.royalrun.dk

I love to run, and run all kinds of races, both short and long, and on asphalt and trails in the woods. I am a member of a small running club - Tejn IF - on the Danish rocky island of Bornholm. It takes 5.5 hours to sail there, but there are the most amazing running routes there, as it is the only place in Denmark with rocks. My favorite race is Hammer Trail, which is organized by Tejn IF. I help the club with their Facebook pages. Visit www.hammertrail.dk

Facts: Steak Runner Start 31.12.2013. Shortest run: 1 mile. Longest run 131 km. Avg. 5 km/day. Has run 78 half marathons, 20 marathons, 13 ultra races, including 6 24 hour races.

Anne-Mette Lindgaard and Heidi Kessler

One of the runners, Heidi, who joined my team a few years ago has become my running friend, and we've run a lot together. We now manage the Facebook group Streak Runners Denmark together. Heidi has some details about our races here:

The Easter Tradition

The first race Anne-Mette and Heidi ever did together was Cross Island half marathon in April 2021. It is a fairly open route without much shelter, so the first year it was against the wind and this year it was with the wind. The Cross Island is in the Easter holidays and now we have created a tradition of running the half marathon where we run together following each other across the island. Bornholm is our favorite running island.

The Impulsive Runner

Anne-Mette posted on Facebook one Friday evening in May 2021, where she asked her followers if there was anyone who wanted to get her daughter's ticket to the Bornholmer ferry that evening, because they were going to the Hammer Trail together the next day on the island Bornholm. Heidi immediately wrote that she was fresh to do the trail running, even though she had never run a trail before. Three hours and a negative corona test later they were in the bed on the ferry. The next morning they had to run one of Denmark's toughest trail races, the Hammer Trail, but only the 8K route. Better over the wet, steep rocks than taking the Chicken Route as the two Hens from Køge says.

The Funniest Race

Svaneke Beer Marathon in July 2021 we ran a quarter marathon on Bornholm with beer from the local breweries at all ports. Already after the first mile Heidi was feeling it but quickly regained her spirit after the first port, where the beer was drunk. At the next port, Heidi got another mug of beer, but she overlooked the hole behind her in the grass bed and slipped into the ditch, but the beer was saved and we were all laughing out loud.

In the Long Run

Anne-Mette and Heidi signed up for the 24 hours DM Masters in May 2022. Before then Heidi had only run a half marathon and a single 30K the month before. Heidi's goal was to reach 50K but reached 87K. Anne-Mette beat her previous record and reached 131K. And we got on the podium together, Anne-Mette in second place and Heidi in third place and therefore took home both silver and bronze medals.

Traversing the Tundra with Ted (Corbitt) and Top Streaker States By: Steve DeBoer

Hard to believe it has already been 69 years since the first person in the world began a verified string of running at least one mile every day for one year or more. That would be US Olympic marathoner, Ted Corbitt. Despite being a world-class long-distance runner for over two decades, Ted only represented the United States in the Olympics once, the 1952 Games held in Helsinki, Finland. That was the year the legendary Emil Zatopek did something no one else has ever done. He won the gold medal in the 5000 meters, 10,000 meters, and the marathon. It was the first marathon he had ever run, and he won by 2 1/2 minutes in 2:23:05 over Reinaldo Gorno of Argentina. Ted, in his 7th marathon, finished 44th of 53 finishers in 2:51:09, dealing with a right side stitch the entire race, as Ted told his biographer, John Chodes.

At that time, Ted had only been doing serious training for a couple of years (1098 miles in 1950 and 2604 miles in 1951). Beginning December 1, 1953, he started working out at least once every day. This resulted in yearly mileages of 5144 (1954), 5181 (1955), 7273 (1956, his highest total ever), 5670 (1957), and 5191 (1958). Unfortunately, he came in 4th place at the 1956 Trials, and only the top three went to the Olympics. He ran his personal best marathon time in 1958 (2:26:44).

Concerning Ted's lifetime running mileage, he kept quite detailed records for almost twenty years, but then his recording became inconsistent. It was claimed he ran more than 200,000 miles over his lifetime. He developed bronchial asthma in 1974 and significantly reduced his running, replacing much of it with walking. His son, Gary, has kept all his records. I offered to help tabulate the mileage a couple of times. In January 2021, Gary accepted my offer, since he had too many projects occupying his time.

Keep in mind though Ted ran in high school and college, he did not run mega miles, since his focus was on the 440- and 880-yards events. Before his 30th birthday, Ted estimated his running mileage to that point as 3760 miles. From 1949 to 1954, he tabulated his monthly mileage and how many days he ran each month. By 1955, he started recording daily details of his runs (often two times daily). Over the course of 2021, Gary sent me his diaries and I recorded the mileage. He ran every day from December 1, 1953 to July 25, 1968. However, in the 1960s, he ran less than one mile 10-20 times each year. So, his official USRSA streak ended May 31, 1959.

In the 1980s and 1990s, I did a lot of mileage estimates for Ted, assuming he ran about the same the months he did not write it down as those months he did. Since they are estimates, the truth might be 1000-2000 miles more or less. The total was 140,050 miles, nowhere near the 200,000 estimate I had read from other sources. All but 15,000 of those miles were run in 30 years (1950-1979) which works out to over 4000 miles per year. In comparison, Ron Hill ran 162,400 over 60 years. Since he only covered about 1000 miles per year in his 70s, that left 150,000 the other 50 years, or 3000 miles per year.

Ted included walking in his recording, and walking became the majority of his miles by the 1980s. At the age of 82, he covered 303 miles in a six-day race, setting a record for 80-84 years olds. His lifetime walking estimate is 36,600 miles, though Gary is hopeful he can find additional logs. When the running and walking estimates are combined, the total is 176,650 miles. Though we have documented 14 individuals who had probably run over 200,000 lifetime miles by 2022 (20 over 180,000), only four people (Darryl Beardall, Herb Fred, Gordon Pirie, and Don Ritchie) had likely reached that milestone before the year 2000. So, Ted's achievement was noteworthy, especially when you consider that bronchial asthma interfered with his exercise the last 33 years of his life. He remains the only runner we know of to record a year of daily runs before 1965, when Ron Hill achieved it, but Ted did it ten years before Ron.

Here is a listing of streaking families who have accumulated over 50 years of daily runs amongst them as of December 1, 2022. Of course, Jim Pearson, Steve DeBoer, and Alex Galbraith are over 50 just by themselves.

Making adjustment for that, those states with the highest number of streak runners per million population are shown below. Note that the highest population states (CA, TX, NY, FL) don't show up on these lists, but MN remains in the top three on a population basis:

	TOTAL Nov 2022	Apr 2020	Apr 2018	Apr 2016

2. VT	17.11 (7.78 W)	less than 7.5 per million in 2020
8. ME	11.75 (8.08 W)

MN remains first per million residents. VT and ME climbed into the top 12 with VT going all the way to #2. WY had the biggest drop, from second to 7th.

Internationally, as of 11/1/22, only three countries have more than 100 active run streakers. Canada has 132 (3.47 per million residents). The United Kingdom has 203 (3.03 per million), and Sweden has 691 (66.76 per million). That gives Sweden the highest rate of streak runners in the world compared to all other countries and all other states in the US, MN being second. MN's rate had been the highest since before 1980. In September 2019, Sweden only had 35 daily runners who were active. They have added 656(!) since then, surpassing MN by the end of 2021.

PS. I recently helped my daughter move to Pittsburgh. While there, I met George Hancock for lunch in Blairsville, PA. George is well-known in the streak runner community, having compiled the first list of 51 persons he found who were running daily in December 1994. He is currently on his third string of daily runs. Since we have both written books about our running careers, we took the opportunity to autograph our copies of each other's books.

In my book, "Traversing the Tundra," I include a list of the first 120 Americans I am aware of who ran daily for at least one year. George's first streak began in February 1978 and is number 74 on the list. My dad, Wendell, started his daily runs earlier in February and is number 73, so I pointed that out to George. Our photo after we ate is above.

DARRYL JANE EDWARDS' STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

I have just completed my 2-year running streak - wow I am impressed at my craziness.

I have completed an average of 10km per day covering 7450km, including JFK ultramarathon and a half Ironman, through COVID and a fractured ankle. It may have cost a fortune due to physio bills and running shoes but worth every cent! Long may it last.

ADAM FRITZ'S STREAK HITS 12 YEARS

Pretty much more of the same. Tried to run outside a little more than years past being that late fall through early spring is all pretty much on a treadmill. Happy to be still doing it, and looking for day 4444 in a couple of months. Just hoping I can remember the date so that I can realize it happened before it's a few days late. Seems like that's my style when I hit minor milestones like that. Good luck out there, keep after it. #ClubMAD.

MATTHEW SAVAGE'S STREAK HITS 43 YEARS

The running streak has been great for me mentally and physically. I have had some challenges along the way but I made it.

For example, my wife's family reunion was In Las Vegas in July. It was over a 100-degrees all 7 days with high humidity. I ran at 6:00 am daily with temperatures in the 90's. I ran my MINIMUM every day.

Then went on my annual trip to Hillsboro, Alabama to spend the month of AUGUST with my Dad and had temperatures in the 90's all month.

Things are going well. My plan now is to run every day until age 75.

ERIC THOMPSON'S STREAK HITS 9 YEARS

Has it really been 9 years? It seems to go by quick (unlike my running speed) except when I look in the mirror and see that older looking man staring back at me.

My running streak has been a boon and a bane. It keeps me active and attentive to my physical and mental abilities. My streak really helped me through working the front lines of the pandemic. I had many days of despair on awakening, dreading another onslaught of sick and sometimes antagonistic patients as well as weary overworked staff. My streak forced me to rise early and get it done, always feeling a little better after the run. As I've now moved away from urgent care and have a lifestyle and integrative medicine practice, my mood and step have lightened.

Although I complain of it being a bane, as it robs me of my evenings (since I go to bed around 8:30 PM to rise at 5 AM) and commonly gives me grumbles on hearing the alarm. I know I am investing in the health of my current and future self and follow through with the running shoes. I've also seen and experienced much more during travels near and abroad. You get to know the neighborhood and some glorious sunrises will occasionally greet you.

In my medical practice, I encourage others to start streaks, if not running, try walking, meditation, breathing exercises, yoga etc. Be an inspiration for perspiration and keep on streaking everybody!

LARRY DOOLEY'S STREAK HITS 17 YEARS

Happy to report my streak is entering its 18th year. As my work travel is pretty much back to normal I am still out early every morning. I try to get in about 5 miles a day and have been pretty successful with that goal. I also play tennis at least once a week but usually get in 2-3 times a week during the summer months. Looking forward to another successful streak year!

SETH CARLEY'S STREAK ENDS AFTER 974 DAYS

I was on a stroller run with my two kiddos and hit a pothole. It stopped the stroller suddenly and I slammed into the handlebars which fractured two of my ribs. I'm taking some time off to recover and will hopefully start back again soon!

GUY ALMOG JOINS SRI FROM GERMANY

I am 44 years old, originally from Israel, living in Munich, Germany, married and father of 2.

I started running - at all - on the 14 of March 2017 since a colleague suggest it would help me lose my beer tummy. I realized very quickly that I enjoy it very much. I tried running consequently and did 2 weeks. After that I streaked something like 5 months. Now I am on a new streak which is 1037 days long and going [email dated 1 September 2022].

My longest run was the second MGBU this August (Munich Great Brewery Ultramarathon) with 75 km's and 8 beers. The shortest was about 5 km somewhere back in 2020. Now I am going steady on 10 miles a day and hope to reach 6000 km in 2022...

Miles van der Lugt

MILES VAN DER LUGT'S STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

Seven Hundred and thirty is not a massive number but big enough to count. £730 will not make you rich but you wouldn't turn it down. 730 people is a fair amount to make a crowd. Police Code 730 means to be crazy, according to Urban dictionary.

Well my crazy started on 1st September 2020. It was part of a virtual race where the aim was to run for 28 days out of the next 48. I decided to run all 48 days from practically a standing start.

When you get to 48 days consecutive running it would be rude not to make it 50 and 50 is half way to 100 isn't it? Then 100 just leads to 200, 200 leads to a year. Rinse and repeat, you get my drift.

I have run through coughs, colds and Covid. Through twisted ankles and swollen knees. Through sun, wind and rain. Through the lightest and darkest of times.

An unintended consequence of being a run streaker is to be called an inspiration by my peers. That warms my soul.

But all I have done is run. I have run just for me, to help me get through all of the above, especially the darkest of times.

It has been a challenge to say the least. I doff my cap to all streakers. You are indeed a special bunch.

If my version of crazy and stubbornness helps others in their own journey then more power to them.

As for me, this is me now. I kind of like who I am now, for the most part. Miles is definitely included. ;-)

MIKE BEAVEN'S STREAK HITS 4 YEARS

I have reached the 4-year milestone that has had its challenges. On top of being a high school athletic director, I coach high school football and baseball. Finding the time to run has been a challenge with late nights. Good thing I am an early riser.

Running during the pandemic was my outlet. I came down with COVID twice but still found the strength to keep running everyday...I know it's not recommended.

I have debated on ending my streak but keep finding the motivation to keep getting out the door. I am looking forward to the challenge to run every day for the next year.

BRUCE SHEPHARD'S STREAK HITS 14 YEARS

The STREAK continues. It has been a fun way to stay fit and involved with friends.

The biggest challenge this year was to run the day after inguinal hernia surgery. It went well - a slow mile but doable due to a laparoscopic approach.

My most interesting run this year was on the island of Anaa in the remote Austral Islands, an island group in French Polynesia several hundred miles south of Tahiti. With a dwindling population of several hundred, it sees only the occasional supply ship and ours was a hybrid boat with several hundred tourists along. We much enjoyed this off-the-grid trip. ## CHRIS MYERS' STREAK HITS 5 YEARS

I started my current run streak 5 years ago today [25 September 2022]. One thousand eight hundred and twenty-seven days of at least a mile a day!

10,650 miles
5.82 miles a day
14 marathons
2 50K
1 24-hour race
3 half marathons
A 5K or 10k here and there

I've only made it past a year of streaking once before way back in 2014/2015. That was a 530-day streak. I've got about 5 other streaks over the past 6 years that didn't make it to the year mark. The fact that I made it to 1,827 days just blows my mind! So many things can get in the way of a streak. Somehow, I've managed to avoid them all for so long! I consider myself one lucky guy. Big thank you to David Shannon for putting the idea in my head about 9 years ago. I owe the most thanks to my wife and daughter though for their understanding when I go for a one miler to save my streak on those crazy days when my day is so full that a run is hard to fit in.

I love how streak running takes the guesswork out of when to run. I love how streak running creates consistency in my training. I love how streak running makes me feel like a bad-ass! I love how streak running helps me recover from races faster. I love how streak running makes the miles add up faster.

Keep on keeping on, everyone! You all are awesome!

Mind, body, spirit. Completed my ninth-year averaging 1000 miles a year. Picture is of me running in Iowa in January but then I was able to also run in Hawaii in February. I consider myself very fortunate to be able to continue my streak. And I was able to complete the RAGBRAI bike ride again.

Grateful and blessed to have made it to the 2-year mark of my run streak! The streak is motivating in itself, but what keeps me going is the good health, the stress relief, seeing beautiful landscapes or even just a pretty sunset in the evening sky. With God's grace, I hope to enjoy running for years to come. Thanks!

VERNON HEAVNER'S STREAK HITS A DECADE

Today, September 30, 2022, I celebrate my 10th run streak anniversary! I have been thinking about how to celebrate this crazy journey all month, but as I got closer I decided why not just enjoy my normal Friday routine. Most of my runs happen around 5:30 am when I get to work. It has come to be known as the Manassas Eye. I am fortunate enough to have a shower in my office so I can run before work, beat the traffic, and shower before anyone else gets to the building. So today was no different. I typically only run 2 miles (my daily minimum) on Fridays.

It has been a wonderful 10 years with the best running community and friends a guy could ask for. I cherish all the memories and friendships made along the way. A few highlights of the 10 years.

The latest run was very early in the streak, I think just after I passed the one-month streak. I went to Atlantic City and was gambling most of the day and got up from the table I was playing at around 11:20 pm and went running, just making the midnight cutoff.

In 2016, I broke my collarbone while on an ATV trip but was still able to run with minimal arm movement. Many runs in Mexico while visiting Cancun, running in Europe while on vacation, cruise ships in the wind tunnels while at sea, too many states to count. I have completed 2 50K's, 2 marathons, numerous half marathons, beer miles, 5k's, and countless group runs in Winchester, VA.

I am thankful to continue this craze adventure and can't wait to see where the future takes me.

Going strong after 4 years! This past year's accomplishments include running the Goggins 4x4x48 (run 4 miles every 4 hours for 48 hours) and working towards 2,000 mile in a single year for the first time. I've come close before, but I think I will actually hit that number for 2022. And having a streak definitely helps motivate me to get out there and run those miles. I am happy I am still able to run every day and, more significantly, that I am injury free. May it continue to be so.

Yay 2-year streak is accomplished. To say it hasn't been tough some days would be an understatement, but once moving it was fun. Plus, the fact I don't think my brain after all this time will let me ever stop, short of being in the hospital.

A few slow days with ITB issues but luckily, they were resolved with some massage therapy. I have to say that being a below knee amputee makes everyone ask how I keep doing it without any leg issues.

PATTI THURMAN'S STREAK HITS 6 YEARS

I am so happy to have completed 6 years of my running streak! Every day has been run outdoors, except one. I'd been visiting my son in California and had an early flight. On one of my runs in his neighborhood, I'd seen a coyote so did not relish the idea of a very early run with that guy around. As soon as I got off the plane I had to go to work, and severe thunderstorms were predicted that afternoon. Sooo, I did my mile on the concourse of the Burbank airport! Did get quite a few looks and comments.

From Thanksgiving 2020 to Thanksgiving 2021, I ran at least 5k every day, which was some days very hard.

My birthday in 2021 (March) saw the 4th biggest blizzard in Denver history. Yep, did my run outside. Valentine's Day that year saw frigid, below zero temps. Yep, did a virtual 5k race at -8 degrees. It's been quite a journey! Hope to be running as a 100+ year old!

Year 9 went more quickly than year 8. As did all the previous years. The first year took forever!

It was an interesting year for me in that at the age of 58, I managed my two fastest marathon times (3:49 and 3:53) and my fastest 50K time (4:49). In mid-August I fell and broke my ribs. Whilst it was extremely painful, I managed to keep the streak going.

I will endeavor to keep on keeping on until I can't. However, the highlight was when my daughter joined me on 22 May. I had run around 80k along the coast the previous two days. 21k would complete the route and she ran it with me on her 21st birthday. The longest run she had ever done. Proud Dad moment!

JOSH DEHLINGER'S STREAK HITS 11 YEARS

Eleven years has crept up quickly. I started this streak on a whim to see if I could do 5km a day for a single year. Now, nearly 18,000 miles, ~20 marathons, a half dozen ultramarathons, and dozens and dozens of shoes later, it has become a part of my day - just like eating, breathing and sleeping.

Thanks, in part to this community, at 43 years old, I feel healthier and more fit than any other time in my life.

JEN KILPATRICK'S STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

I am happy to say that I crossed the two-year mark in September and my streak is still going strong!

It now includes four continents, eight countries, two sprained ankles, a rare 3rd place age-group finish and two successful marathons.

I've continued to do every run outside and I have appreciated my streak daily. It is now just a part of my day and, although sometimes requires some creativity to fit in, gives me strength and reinforces my connection with running.

As I get a little older, some days are great run days and some inexplicably not, but daily running ensures that any one run does not carry too much pressure. Thanks for this place to share our stories - I am so inspired by all of the other streakers out there!

TOMMY ADAMS' STREAK HITS 4 YEARS

4 years in the books!

All of the other streakers know this truth, but running every day can bring a form of consistency and stability and security to a life that has so many other inconsistencies, instabilities, and insecurities.

No matter what happens each day, I wake up knowing that I'll run that day.

My priorities in any race or training session have shifted over the years. Now, instead of solely training to run faster in the next race, my goal is always to be able to run tomorrow.

I kept up my streak through COVID, and I'm keeping up my streak now through a political campaign. In fact, my running consistency has become my brand. I can do a hard thing every day, and I've proved it. It's my way of showing how I can work for my community without ever giving up.

This Saturday [15 October 2022] I was able to celebrate my anniversary with another good friend of mine with his own streak. He has been running for 10 years without skipping a Saturday. He has run through cancer, he has run through injury, he has run through hardship, he has run through loss. He is the person who put this idea in my head in the first place. Thank you to Steve Wilson. I would like to also thank Ted Boone for showing me the daily running was possible.

Thank you for the opportunity to share my news.

My streak is for me, but it has now become about more than that.

I'm Tommy Adams, and I'm running every day for every Kentuckian.

DAVE BERGER JOINS USRSA

I am glad to find this organization. I started running in Middle School (1989) and never really stopped using it as my main means for staying fit.

As a career Marine, my running background made much of the training less difficult. When I retired from the service in 2018 and started my career as an airline pilot, I had a goal to remain in top physical condition even though my job no longer required it.

My running career includes races ranging from 400 meters to 40 miles. I run outside. If it's not on Garmin/Strava, I don't count it.

My favorite inspirational quote is, "the race goes not to the swift, but to those who keep on running." Thanks for having me.

HEINZ KABUTZ'S STREAK HITS 4 YEARS "Heinz blasts through 4 years!"

Another year of running every day has come to an end. This year was not without challenges. Our entire family caught COVID in March, in reverse order of vaccination. Our youngest caught it the day before the appointment for her shot. Then our teenager, who had her shot in October. I was next, and my previous shot had been in November. Then my wife (booster in beginning of February) and our adult daughter (we all live together). Our son didn't catch it, as he had caught it asymptotically a few weeks before (apparently).

I promised in the previous newsletter that I would stop the streak if I had any doubt about my ability to run the mile. Fortunately, this was the lightest cold I've had in a decade. And so, I did my daily run around our garden, round and round, until I had finished my mile. It was not the same as on the open road or on the beach, but we were all quarantined on our property. Even though I was willing to lose my streak, and start again immediately after COVID, it was not necessary. We are very grateful that we got through so lightly. Here is a shout-out to all those who had to stop their streak because of COVID!

MARIA BERGSTROM'S STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

From having problems even walking due to light arthrosis, looking after a house that included a dog, on a guest research visit in New Zealand in the town in the world furthest away from my home town, during the pandemic, got me moving. After some months of daily walks with the dog, I saw the neighbour running, and tried myself.

Started running every other day, still with the dog, and started enjoying it. One round around the park, became two, and soon became a habit meeting neighbours also stuck at home during lock down.

Back in Sweden a few months later than planned, after staying in Cyprys for a few weeks on our way back, and into the old home routine, I fell out of my new running habit until a Facebook message got me interested in trying a Runstreak for better health, beginning 1 November 2020.

In Sweden. I ran in dark and cold weather, not even snow, but mainly mud, and darkness. 30 Days became 100, and eventually even one year.

Today [31 October 2022] I celebrate 730 days, 3815 k in total and an average of 5,23 km a day. Often with our own dog, unless I am travelling, which has been limited the last few years. Mainly running in the forests and fields around our house,

I immensely enjoy this daily habit where I can find some time for myself embraced by nature, but also in new surroundings including other countries and cities, such as a recent 10 k in Venice passing all main sites and including a passage with a Venetian Traghetto crossing the Canale Grande from the fish market on a quiet morning a month ago.

Always out of doors, in hot weather, cold weather, down to minus 20 C, in rain, snow, sunshine and at night. Mostly alone, but sometimes with friends or in different runs. I simply love it, and today I am extremely proud to have made 730 days or two years.

DANIEL PEREIRA'S STREAK HITS 32 YEARS

My running streak has not ended so nothing to report there....However.

My 88-year old running mom passed earlier this year. The morning of her passing she did her normal run/brisk-walk then went about her day making food watching tv and walking to the store. About 1am my phone rang. I am so thankful I was awake, normally I am sleeping at this time. I almost didn't answer the phone thinking it may be a scam but picked it up and heard her say "help," at that moment I knew she was passing. I ran to her home in our duplex where she lay on the floor by the phone. I could not lift her without her helping so I ran back got my wife to help me, together we got mom into bed.

She was saying her tummy hurt but would not let me call 911 being the tough old bird she was. We were saying our "I love yous" and other things as she became more distressed saying she could not feel her legs and couldn't see. She then let me call 911. The ambulance came. She passed on the way to the hospital. The lead doctor said she passed from a aneurysm in her stomach area.

My mom was a simple hard-working lady with those trusted old school values. She loved running, doing a few marathons and some long-distance biking events. In her 80s, she even won a few trips to other countries for her running age group competition.

I am so glad my Philippine wife and her got to know each other for the few short years they had together, the two ladies really bonded.

I knew my mom my whole life and now am having to make the adjustment of living without her. My wife set up an area with family photos, which we talk to from time to time. We also take her smaller urn on trips with us. I had her cremated so we can keep her close.

Anyway, love you mom. I am sure there are good trails and quality shoes where you are running now.

Much love, D&E

As far as my running, I am keeping good shoes under me. My body is doing ok as I age, no injuries to speak of. I think in my last update I said I am doing two runs per day since corona is around. I am still doing that and added a 7-mile bike ride when weather permits. My wife still has her streak going and is running well. I think she is reaching 4 years soon.

I just had my 65th birthday and was trying to get to my high school weight of around 135lbs. I was 153lbs at the start of 2022, the heaviest I have ever been. On my birthday I got to 138.3lbs, I was happy with that. It's the season so I am back to eating Costco pumpkin pie which I love. One year I ate 33 in a season by myself. Anyway, my weight is hovering around 142lbs. Not bad.

NICK CAPERNA'S STREAK HITS 15 YEARS

Thank you for the reminder email. Yes, all is well and streak is intact. 15-years strong and happily looking forward too many more. No major injuries to speak of, but age certainly seems to be a persistent hurdle. The constant aches and pains of 40+ are really making me appreciate the 20+ year streak folks.

This year my son (4) joined my wife, father-in-law and me in a 4th of July race. His bib and medal are hanging in a place of honor on his wall. He seems to enjoy running as well.

Finally, I joined an incredible group this year: Athletes Serving Athletes. They are local to the MD area, but I would urge anyone with internet access to check them out. They do amazing things for kids with limited mobility through the shared love of running. It has really been a wonderful addition to my race schedule this season.

ANTONIO CIPOLLANE'S STREAK HITS 8 YEARS

Thank you so much! We appreciate all that you do for our community.

Every year I continue to be amazed. A one-year streak is a major accomplishment that so few complete and then 2 then 5 now 8 years!

It has become part of daily routine just like so many daily activities we do. I thought my streak would end after falling from a step while helping my daughter move and badly sprained my ankle.

Next day got on my treadmill and literally tiptoed a mile and some tears from the pain but preserved and wasn't that slow either. Went to get x-rays and nothing broke just a sprain and doctor recommended to stay off the ankle for a while.

I never mentioned my streak or that I ran on it earlier or planned to keep trying! Well continued for a few days on the treadmill and each day my ankle got better! It was as if running actually helped it heal faster. Crazy I know but it did.

I also had gotten a mild case of Covid and ran through that issue.

There are so many things that can happen to us that could prevent us from a run and some are to great that we have to end a streak. But any streak no matter how long or short is a major accomplishment so few ever achieve.

Keep on running! Keep being amazed! Onward to number 9!

Have a great day and be an inspiration!

NEAL GIFFORD'S STREAK HITS 5 YEARS

My 5-year streak anniversary has passed without any special celebration. I was more excited about completing my first Boston Marathon this year. There is no way I could have qualified and run it without the changes and improvements that a daily run has provided. Now, of course, my goal is to beat last year's marathon time of 3 hours and 33 minutes. Streak on!

SIMON LAPORTE'S STREAK HITS 47 YEARS

For my 17167th day (47 years), I ran 7 km in 56 min 27 sec. Quite slow but my right knee is more or less painful since mid-July. Happily, I have only to run between 10 and 7 km each time to get my yearly goal for Dec 31th. Usually, I run twice every Tuesday making my goal more comfortable.

KATERINA LUKASOVA'S STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

It was a pleasant surprise when I got an e-mail this morning congratulating me on my 2-year streak anniversary. Every day running has become such a natural part of my life that I completely forgot about the date! I'm so glad that I made it through all sorts of weather, some little health trouble, other adversities, and keep a 6.5 miles daily average. The next goal is Comma Day!

DAVID DUDLEY'S STREAK HITS 8 YEARS

Still running every day. Today [6 November 2022] marks the beginning of my ninth year. It is hard to fathom 8 straight years. It has been a blessing in my life. It was a great year until August when I came down with covid. I had all my shots but it still kicked my ass. I ran thru it, felt terrible, and literally stumbled thru it. 3 months later still affecting me but I can tell I am getting better thru the running as I am getting stronger.

MONICA LEIGH'S STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

I'm in love with evening runs. Give me a bright moon, gorgeous sky, and fully charged running lights and I'm off running in my own world.

As a federal service employee, mother of two teenagers and a 2-year old toddler, I am grateful to have time for my own mental and emotional recharging and I pound it out on the streets of my small town, one mile a day for over two years since September 19, 2020.

As of Veterans Day this year, I have run 784 days with a total of 2,537 miles. I have run every day since October 3, 2022 with my US flag and let me just say, it is a lot heavier than it looks!

CHAD SHILSON'S STREAK HITS 12 YEARS

My 12-year streakiversary came and went without much excitement, which was perfect. I'm happy to be running a streak within a streak, with a minimum of 7.5 miles every day since January of 2019.

I think it's incredible to see how many streakers have joined in on the fun since I first registered my streak back in 2011. I'm in awe of the runners that have accumulated multiple decades, regardless of the miles. Here's to everyone that puts one foot in front of the other, every day - day in and day out.

JASON CROSS' STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

On 10/15/22, I celebrated 2 years of streak running! This past year was full of firsts, including the completion of my first full marathon, and my first time having to recover from a running-related injury. In my third year, I intend to tackle my very first ultra-marathon. Happy streaking everyone!

JOHANNA GRANROTH'S STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

Today [16 November 2022] was my 2 years of running every day, it feels amazing and I can't think about stopping it. I always feel great after every run, even if I feel down before it always feels good when I'm done. Running is a part of my daily plan and I can't see myself stopping unless something happens.

GREGORY OSMOND'S STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

Two years has finally arrived. The amount of good fortune I've had to be able to keep this streak going through all that's happening around me and in the world is incredible.

My runs have tested my resolve as there have been minus 30 (Celsius) days to +30 days. Smoky days to snowy days. But I've looked forward to each run and never regretted any of them.

Running continues to make me a better person. I really owe a big thank you to my family who has supported me in this and my colleagues as well.

PAUL REICH'S STREAK ENDS AFTER 2,148 DAYS

Unfortunately, I fell off a ladder and broke my shoulder in three places. I've been unable to run since then. As much as the shoulder hurts, the most painful part of this experience is not running every day. I can't wait to heal up and start a new streak.

AARON NATHAN'S STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

I am in fact still streaking (fun to say).

2 years ago, fellow run stalker Kristen Kinnear-Ohlmann told me she was 8 years into her run streak. I was looking for more consistency to my workout routine so I started it.

I don't own a treadmill so running became difficult quickly here in MN but I'm convinced running in the cold builds character. I always feel accomplished after. Now I run with my dog and just try not to fall or if I'm going to fall be around snow which isn't hard around here.

ULRICH GASSNER'S STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

Running makes you happy. Streak running makes you happier. I am so glad that I managed to defy the Corona pandemic in this way. Four vaccinations and two infections have not prevented me from meeting my personal minimum of about 3 miles (5 km) per day. The hardest days for me were the days after the three marathons I completed in the last two years. However, no pain, no gain. Keep on streak running!

DIANE GAGNON'S STREAK HITS 4 YEARS

Hello! I'm so delighted to be celebrating my fourth-year anniversary of daily running!

I had amazing runs and a few challenges over the four years. Some days I have to fight the voice inside of me telling me to rest but once I'm out the door, there is no turning back. Determination is what gets me through the hurtles. There is not a better feeling than to come back from a run that turned out to be awesome when I didn't feel like going in the first place.

Having to slow down and or running less is not a deterrent especially if it prevents me from having to stop. There are some runs that are totally awful for whatever reasons; weather, frame of mind or injury but those runs are few and far in between. I find that during those challenging runs I learn a great deal about myself and what I am able to handle. The streak has provided me with more joy and satisfaction than I even thought possible. Happy run and be safe always!

SARAH BROWN CELEBRATES DAY 711 IN STYLES

I wanted to share with you what I planned for my 711th day of running last week. I invited my son and some of his friends from his xc team to join me on a 7.11-mile run (round trip) to/from our local 7-Eleven, where we indulged in Slurpees to celebrate. The kids had a fun time and want to be included in my future fun-numbered days of running.

Excited that I am still streaking, 5 years after I started! 1826 days, 5679 stalker miles run. Last year, I started training for a triathlon adding swimming and cycling to my activities which has been a ton of fun. My triathlon was canceled due to Hurricane Ian stopping by the Carolinas, but I've signed up for more in 2023 so hope to add that accomplishment to my list. Here's to more swimming, cycling and of course --- running --- in 2023 and beyond. Streak on!

LIZ HENNING'S STREAK HITS 3 YEARS

In November of 2019 while in the Dominican Republic, I met a fellow runner who told me about her run streak. I got home and promptly joined a Facebook group of "streakers." The idea is you run at least 1 mile (1.6k) every day. I decided I would join the group of people committing to run 40 days from late November to December 31st 2019. I figured it would be a good challenge to get me through the darkest time of what had been a really tough year.

I woke up January 1st 2020 excited and optimistic for the year to come (oh hindsight). I promptly went for a run and now I was at 41 days. I couldn't end on a random number so I went for 50. Then I thought if I just run 50 more days, I'll hit 100 days. This would mean committing to one mile a day while on a early February 2020 dive trip to Aruba but 100 days was such a great achievement so why not.

I believe I hit 100 days on February 29th. A habit was formed and I kept going. I had no idea that in just 13 days the world would shut down and I would be thrown into challenges that made 2019 look like a walk in the park.

Running became my stress relief. I ran harder and I ran longer between April 2020 and June 2021. I ran 200 km every month with the exception of December when I only did 150k.

I believe everything happens for a reason. I believe this running streak has been a gift that God knew I would need to get me through the pandemic stress. It's been one of many tools I've used to keep my sanity and joy.

There were days I didn't want to run anymore. I wanted a break, but I wasn't letting myself have it. I eventually got that 1000-day mark in my site. When I hit that milestone, I considered ending it but the habit was formed so I figured I'd press onto 3 years and here I am now.

Next up will be my Forest Gump Day! This has challenged me and improved my runs. I've now completed 2 full marathon and several halves. It is something I would have never considered before my streak! I'm still going one day at a time!

MARK EWELL'S STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

Although I "grew up" as a 5k runner, over the past several years I've been competing in stair climbing around the US and the world. In October 2020, I left a very demanding job, and decided to do something I've always wanted to try - a running streak! After a couple of misses, I finally got going in November 2020.

There were some close calls, including once I was sitting on the couch after 10pm, already an hour past my usual bedtime, and remembered I hadn't run yet!

I wanted to do a streak because I figured that there are several hundred thousand people that do an official marathon in the US every year, but only about 4000 who have *ever* recorded an official running streak. It's easy, but it's hard too! After hitting my one year, I'm now looking towards 1000 days.

JOHN DESSUTTI'S STREAK HITS 5 YEARS

Today [22 November 2022] is day 1,826 of my daily running streak (5,826 miles & 5 years).

My streak started at our local Turkey Trot on Thanksgiving Day 2017. At age 70, I figured I could get to New Year's Day. Did that and just kept going. So now at 75 figure I might as well just keep going.

CHRIS BREWER'S STREAK HITS 5 YEARS

What was supposed to only be 40 days has continued for 5 years. I've battled through Covid and some other injuries to do whatever it took to get that streak keeper done during that time.

Some of the amazing places I've run span from the Florida Keys to the Golden Gate Bridge. I've done a mile in Death Valley, the Grand Canyon, Yosemite National Park, along Route 66 and dozens of other memorable places.

I've got several funny stories of being dumped out beside the road by co-workers to keep that streak alive. Who would have thought someone who doesn't like running would still be going long after those first 40 days were done? Not sure when it will stop at this point and I encourage others to remember "it's only a mile."

THE FINISH LINE

By: Mark Washburne

Our running streak association experienced continued growth during the last quarter. We now have over 6,100 total streaks registered with Streak Runners International and the United States Running Streak Association that includes over 4,100 still active streaks and 2,000 retired streaks. While the overall streak list keeps growing, we have seen stability this quarter and year with the longest active streaks on our list. In fact, the top 85 streaks listed in our Summer newsletter published in late May 2022 remain the same top 85 streaks we list for this Winter issue of The Streak Registry.

Another sign of our growth has been the increase in the number of different countries now represented on our streak lists. We reached 73 countries in early November when Shelli White registered her streak that started on 2 May 2016 from Washington in the United States Minor Outlying Islands (UM). Welcome Shelli and thank you for registering your streak with us and becoming one of our members.

Speaking of countries, we added two new country lists to our website in September. This summer I received an email from Ole Holgersen advocating for a streak list for Norway. “We are a growing running community of runstreakers in Norway,” noted Mr. Holgersen. “We would love it if we could have our own runstreak list that is sorted by country. We keep on growing, and it’s difficult to keep track on our national list manually. Just like the Swedes, we are humble, but passionate runstreak folk. We would be absolutely delighted if you could help us.”

I agreed that Norway had met the threshold for their own list on our website but also noticed that a neighboring Scandinavian country, Denmark, actually had more running streaks registered with SRI and also deserved their own country list. After deciding to add these two countries, I next checked with our web designer, Loren Long, for her availability and she graciously agreed to help. My next task was to find translators as we like country lists to appear in the native language. Ole Holgersen agreed to help us with Norwegian and Anne-Mette Lindgaard agreed to help us with the Danish. Thank you to Loren, Ole, and Anne-Mette for making our Norway and Denmark lists possible.

In searching for a Danish streak runner to help us with translation, I went to the Facebook page “Streak Runners Denmark” where I found Anne-Mette Lindgaard. As the organizer of that Danish running group and also as the top female streak runner in Denmark, I thought our readers would want to learn more about her so I asked if she would write an article for us. She kindly agreed and is the cover and featured story of this issue (see page 6). Thank you, Anne-Mette, for sharing your story.

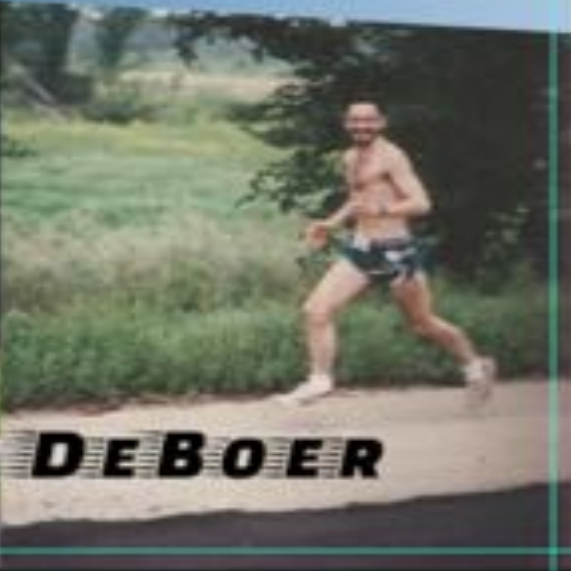

During the last quarter, I also set some personal milestones. At the end of August, I ran my 900th race at the USA Track & Field-New Jersey Cross Country 5K Championship. In October, I completed my 43rd 26.2-mile race at the Steamtown Marathon in Scranton, Pennsylvania in a time of 4:01:47. My time was good enough for 4th out of 18 in my age and I again qualified for the Boston Marathon. I had already been accepted to run my 19th consecutive Boston Marathon in April 2023 and my BQ at Steamtown qualified me to run the 2024 Boston. In November, my running streak, that started on 31 December 1989, reached 12,000 days. Congratulations to others celebrating streak anniversaries. As always, I also want to wish all of you good luck as we each run the roads and trails – every day!

STREAK CERTIFICATION

Once a running streak reaches a year in duration it is eligible for listing by SRI/USRSA. Listing of one's active or retired running streak requires a fully completed and signed streak certification form, which may also be downloaded from the SRI/USRSA site or mailed upon request. Although membership is not a requirement for listing, the SRI/USRSA appreciates all contributions to its cause.
