"Running can help you loose weight. Running can build muscle tone. Running can improve your complexion. Running can strengthen your heart and make it work more efficiently. Running can increase your aerobic capacity and lower your blood pressure. Running can relax you, help you quit smoking, and reduce the risk of heart disease. Running can reduce depression and lift your spirits. Running can help you think and make you more creative. Running can make you more athletic and energetic and full of vitality. Running can improve your self-image and make you more self-confident. In short, running can change your entire outlook on life and make a new person of you."

JIM PEARSON'S STREAK HITS 50 YEARS; HAS 2ND LONGEST ACTIVE STREAK IN WORLD By: Jim Pearson

"Over three impeachments ago and two years before Watergate, Richard Nixon was still in pretty good shape. Apparently, I wasn't. That's when my club coach, Keith Gilbertson, Sr., said to me, 'Jimmy, you need to get more consistent." Those were my opening comments at the celebration party following our 1.5 miles run (including Steve De Boer, 48 years; John Wallace III, 30 years; Joel Pearson, 25 years; Jay Kammerzell, 23 retired; Karen Wallace, 3 active, ten retired; Hopper Pearson, 7.5 retired; Paige Pearson, 2.8 retired) on the Mountlake Terrace High School track on February 16. With that I threw my hands into the air with a shrug. That comment answered it all for me.

I then went on to explain that what I had just done was not really "amazing." I reserve that for the people who can finish that first year. For most beginners, that is truly amazing. After that, well, you know the drill: we just go out and run. I always have said that the first 100 days is the hardest. However, I learned that the last 100 days, when approaching a milestone such as 50 years, can be even more difficult. First of all, I am no longer 25 years old. I started to feel more aches and pains, each of which could mark an end to the next day's run. A sensation in the groin area was surely a recurrence of the hernia which plagued me two years ago. I even had a hernia scare on the other side, a pain caused from too much coughing, as I had developed a cold with three weeks to go. That developed into pneumonia. A week later I was declared "A-Ok," so as I waited for the X-ray results and sat there calculating how much I needed to increase my daily mileage to be able to run over 100 miles for the month. Then a rather dismayed doctor came in to announce that the pneumonia had actually increased in size. My monthly streak mileage would have to end at 75 months.

I spoke about my opinion of the whole streak thing. I don't actively try to encourage running every day. I do respect those who are doing only a mile a day since even that is good for them, and having a goal is a good motive for self-improvement. The problem is that when an injury or an illness comes along, there is no recourse but to continue with the problem or miss some running. My suggestion is to not start a streak until three miles can be covered comfortably. That allows the streaker to cut off two thirds of the normal amount which should aid in recovery and still keep the streak alive. I averaged over 100 miles a week for 11.5 years. My illness recovery plan was usually to run an easy three miles in the morning and an easy three in the evening. The high average gave me a lot of leeway.

Steve DeBoer asked about my favorite races. The 1975 AAU national 50-mile championship where I set a new American record at 5:12:40.1 has to be at the top of the list. I was extremely fit. I had run 1,000 miles during the first 50 days of summer and followed that with 1,200 miles in the second 50. During that time, I set personal records for all distances from two miles to the hour run while never easing up for those races. In the 50 I started to feel vaguely tired at 45 miles. Years earlier as a college freshman I had run the three miles at the same venue in 18:20. That day from miles 27 to 30, I covered the distance in 17:15.

My second favorite had to be the hour run. Due to not easing up, the first three miles were quite sluggish, but then I came alive and started clocking sub 5:10 miles and ended up winning with 11 miles, 844 yards which ended up being my best performance in a short race.

I think another favorite would be the marathon that qualified me for my second Olympic trials. Following the 50-mile record run, runner up and defending national champ Max White casually mentioned, "Too bad you can't run in the trials. I asked why, and he said I would have to qualify by the end of the year and that I wouldn't be able to run a marathon for at least six months. I took that as a challenge and 34 days later ran 2:22:32 to qualify for the '76 trials. Four months after the 50, I ran 3:03 in the AAU national 50k championships for second place well behind Chuck Smead's new American record time.

My son Joel says I need to add the 60-kilometer run. It was an interesting event. At about 17K longer than the marathon, it was easy to hold the marathon pace much longer, whereas the 50 miles doesn't allow that. My 3:49:14 at that time was the fourth best ever by an American. I wish I could have run a few more.

As for near misses, there weren't many. Being trapped in a hospital with an IV in my arm and not having run yet was a big problem, but when Joel agreed to give me warfarin shots for the week, they removed the IV, and we found a place to run in the hospital (without permission, of course). Earlier that day, the head nurse, one of my students from ten years earlier came in and said, "I saw Hopper pacing off for when you go running." I had already developed a reputation.

There was another time when I injured my hips by falling 9-feet as I removed things from the loft. I saw the ladder slip under the deck. I went headfirst toward the concrete floor as my legs tangled in the ladder. I felt the blood gushing between my fingers. The people renting my house rushed me to the hospital where I had two MRI's (head and torso) and 13 staples in the back of my head. Thank God for LBJ and Medicare. I only had to pay $75 of the $12,293 bill. The head didn't affect my running much, but the legs were quite a bother for about a week. When I returned to the loft the next morning, my renter had placed his tool kit at the base of my ladder and had put nails on each side of the ladder, so it couldn't slip either direction.

Finally, one of my career highlights was being one of the small-time sports personalities at a party. Five-time world cross country champion Doris Brown Heritage was there. I attended an indoor track meet in Vancouver, BC, when Doris set the world record for the mile. Vicki Foltz won a world XC title and placed second twice. These two women led the USA to several world titles. Herm Atkins, a 2:11 marathon; Katie Burnett, several US race walking wins and a world record for the 50K race walk on the track and fourth in the IAAF world championships; Bob and Carole Langenbach, officials in the Atlanta Olympics, and two of Joel's Harrier Track Club runners, Emily Uhlig with five USATF all-American finishes, and Cory Jenkins with four.

RAVEN KRAFT STREAK HITS 45 YEARS "A Celebration in the Sun" By: Diane Washburne

Hello fellow streakers! It may come as a surprise to some that someone that shares the last name of "Washburne" that you haven't heard much from me. In many ways, I think of myself as a "reluctant" streaker. There are many attributes that appeal to me about being a streaker and running-every-day. First and foremost, would be the health and wellness that running affords me. There is no better way to relieve stress, brighten a mood, the ability to enjoy the outdoors, while still getting your exercise in, that running accomplishes. No matter what the city, temperature, time of year, you can always manage to "lace up & go." On the flip side, I do not love being beholden to any one thing – I generally like to mix-it up and try new things. I have been told numerous times by various doctors, nurses and friends who are "experts" in self-diagnosing, that it would be better not to run every day. It's hard on your joints and does not give your body time to rest & recuperate (and in some cases, heal). Fast forward (or rewind as the case may be) when Mark suggested we travel to Miami in December over the New Year's holiday to celebrate one of the most celebrated and interesting streakers – Robert "Raven" Kraft – I was on board, although not sure what to expect.

Raven is one of those people you meet in life that you will always remember – in all the best possible ways. We have his book and follow him and his running journey on social media, but to meet him and his "tribe" in person was quite special and truly unique. It really gave me an appreciation and perspective that I had not had before. I was humbled to meet him and his devoted group of fellow runners – all with many, many streak years among them. My novice 5-year streak (which I had to cease due to injury) and now a new streak of 300 days, paled in comparison to the dedication and genuine positive energy both Raven and the group gave off.

Raven is smart, has an amazing memory – this you have to see to believe, and makes everyone feel welcome. If you run with him for his full 8 miles, he will give you a "name" and will remember names of people from the last 45 years. He does a "roll call" and calls out each runner, whether they've run with him every day, once a year or literally just once! It was so much fun to hear all of his stories and the stories of the runners who joined us on this last day of 2019. And boy was it tough - running on sand is not so easy!

We met so many interesting people, all with their own unique running (streak) journeys. Some who came specifically for the 45th celebration, some who accompany Raven every day at 4:30pm on the beach, and others who show up when they can. The common theme with everyone was how dedicated, supportive and friendly they were to all – whether meeting you for the first time, or "regulars" who happen to be there for their daily run. There was even someone who's Airbnb host suggested for something "fun & interesting" to do, that he should join Raven's run on Miami Beach. He had never heard of Raven or streakers before, but why not?

I was also able to spend some time with Raven at a celebratory dinner while in Miami. He's really a superstar, but more importantly someone you could learn from. For me, it's about sticking to a dream, preserving through many obstacles and setbacks and making the community you live in your home.

Speaking of community, the South Beach community (Mayor of Miami Beach included) have embraced Raven and all that he represents. Honestly, a plane flying in the sky with a celebratory "RUN RAVEN 45 YEARS – RUN LONG STRONG & FREE" as we all stood watching on South Beach was truly a highlight of the weekend. I have a new appreciation for streakers and for people who have a passion to see it through.

Thank you Raven (and Miracle and Mark and everyone else) for allowing this "reluctant" streaker to see another side of streaking. Here's to another 45 (or really as Raven would say), to "one more day."

Happy 2020 Streakers!

Diane Washburne (aka" Fall Winter")

(And a special congrats and thank you to Mark Washburne, who celebrated 30 years on December 30th.)

VINCENT ATTANUCCI'S STREAK HITS 17 YEARS "Oh, the places we have seen!! Travel and running summary from 2019-2020." By: Vincent Attanucci

During 2019 I exceeded 100,000 miles of air travel for the first time ever. All that travel tempered my total running miles a bit, but I made up for it in quality of experience. At the start of the year there were three trips from Texas to Southern California and during the first trip we were invited to the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena. What an amazing place of science and dedication and discovery. We saw Mars rovers and mission control and spacecraft replicas. It was all amazing. And then we ran the route of the Rose parade right down to the Rose Bowl itself one early morning. Following that we spent several days near Manhattan Beach; what an amazing sun-drenched place to run along the pier and the beach paths and to hear the early morning surf quietly roll in.

I was blessed with a trip to Milan, Italy and two trips to central London this year. In Milan, I ran the dark streets of the city each early morning and then alongside the Sforzesco Castle at dawn, what a sight as the sky brightened, and such history. September and December in London found me back running Hyde and Kensington parks, running through the city streets, riding the tube with thousands of other daily commuters, and moving along the streets of Piccadilly all lit up for Christmas. Such energy and history in one place together. And onward to Singapore and Thailand this year as well. Singapore is such a modern city and full of architectural surprises - such surprises that I got lost one day out for my morning run. Thailand gave us long hot runs through the streets and parks of the city.

In June, I passed the milestone of 250 5Ks at "Run The Woodlands," which meets every 2nd and 4th Saturday each month; come out and join us! July brought the Atlanta Peachtree classic again; my oldest son Dan lives just a mile off the course. We race each other every year and he typically (always) wins. What a wonderful place to be on the 4th of July with 60,000 of our closest friends. Everyone should experience this race.

There were races all year long. Two marathons in the early winter / spring brought my total to 56 at the start of the summer. And then on to Scranton PA in October. My son Mike and I usually schedule a fall race trip and we had heard such great reviews on the Steamtown Marathon. We flew into Newark on a perfect fall weekend and drove up to Scranton. On Saturday, we went to the expo and decided to drive up along the course with a few detours for pictures and short hikes. Then on Sunday morning we drove into town and walked right onto the bus to take us 26 miles to the Forest City start line at the high school. We were delivered into the most welcoming race environment that we have ever experienced. The hospitality of every person we met with the race and every person in every town along the way made us smile. And then floating down the course; this was the most beautiful venue that we have ever raced. Considering our ability to race train in Texas during the summer we were pleased with our times. Except for the fact that my hamstring seized up one block before the finish, we came away happy and healthy. I managed to swing my leg sideways and finish upright. We were blessed.

I managed to pass 50,000 streak miles this year and 6200 days of continuous running. My times are slower of course, but the joy of running remains. I have joined in with a group of runners from Houston (The Kenyon Way), and so I drive into town on many early Saturday mornings to tour the city streets as a group. December brought Mike and I back to Dallas (the site of my first marathon in 2003) for my 16th running. We had a grand time. Then just two weeks ago my great colleague, best friend and running partner Tracey and I, both finished the Houston marathon. It was my 15th Houston Marathon and her fourth. We celebrated with great friends Reggie and Brenda and 15,000 other runners and thousands of spectators on a beautiful cool day, the best day of the year in Houston. And, of course, I continue to run every day near my home in The Woodlands, usually at 4:00 AM in the morning before the world comes awake. Enough for now, must rest up for another run tomorrow. Life is grand!

Traversing the Tundra - Thoughts from Significant Others on Their Streak Runners (Part Two) By: Steve DeBoer

Roger Nelson, of Colleyville, TX, helped me put together some questions that I sent to some of our higher mileage and longtime daily runners for their spouse/significant other to answer. If anyone got missed, you are welcome to contact me and I can send out the questionnaire (deboer.stephen@mayo.edu).

Part One with answers to the first 6 questions is in the Winter 2020 issue of the Streak Registry.

- 7. What are the negative aspects of his/her streak running?
- E. Michael Latta (streak runner is Barbara) Wakes me up when she gets up to run even though she tries not to.

Barbara Church (streak runner is George) – Runs even when he doesn't feel well or is injured.

Zoom Hamilton (streak runner is Dave) – Running with injuries or when ill.

Gary Rust (streak runner is Veronica) – Sometimes more tired combining work and running.

Brenda Hancock (streak runner is George)– Concern about getting older and running in all types of weather.

Barbara Pearson (streak runner is Jim) – Used to be the time factor; now it does not bother me.

Cherry Porter (streak runner is Rick) - He runs at the same time every day with all the same exact steps in the same order including food. I probably would not have signed up for a life with this much regimen had I known- especially in the mornings - especially being self-employed business partners- especially having young children- especially during the 8 surgeries I had from the time I was 40-50. It's supposed to be a joke I tell that when our sons were being born it wasn't my bag that was important to have packed for the hospital it was Rick's running bag. No matter what was happening in life the run had to come in a certain time frame of the day. Rick always took care of us and more but it took some getting used to. I had to grow up a lot and see it was not directed against me. It was especially hard to grasp given that we didn't talk about it much.

In addition to the daily limitations, the regimen has limited us on shared activities and travel. As I have grown in confidence as a person, I have learned over the last few years to go forth with my own plans either alone or with another person- our son has become a great travel buddy. Now that we are in our sixties, the extreme toll that the streak takes on Rick's health has been somewhat heartbreaking as well as being another aspect that limits our shared activities. It has only been in the last six months that Rick has admitted that he "runs" for not just health reasons. This was a big break through. He has several injuries he has had for years - one for about 15 years - that he does an amazing job of "managing." The mental tie to the streak is overpowering. He runs no matter what. He just cracked several ribs and said it was of the most painful things he ever did was to continue to run - but of course he did.

Jane Nelson (streak runner is Roger) - Running becomes foremost of importance, sometimes at the expense of spouse and family and health and safety of the streak runner. I had trouble watching a runner get a run in before midnight when he should have stayed in bed because he was definitely III.

Lisa Woodburn (streak runner is Woody) - I always need to consider Woody's running time when planning travel to vacations and activities during them. I am also concerned what the impact from running will have on his joints over the years – but he is light on his feet at 6-foot-4 and 160 pounds and runs most of his miles on grass, so I am hopeful his body will hold up for a long, long time.

Karen Murolo (streak runner is Fred) - Occasionally fitting the run into our day is a hassle, but Fred usually handles it well, working around everyone's schedule, foregoing sleep when necessary.

Denise Childs (streak runner is Thad) - It came before everything...wedding day, birthing babies, a lot of waiting around.

Pam Behr (streak runner is Jim) - There are few negative aspects. We've learned to work around the early morning run every day. We build it into travel plans.

Stephanie Leibfritz (streak runner is Bill) - It is hard for me to understand the focus to go out and run as a first priority every day, because I prioritize differently.

Gail DeBoer (streak runner is Steve) - When weather bad, concerned about what might happen to him; does not interfere with family activities as he adjusts his running time to earlier or later (usually earlier).

Laura McAllister (streak runner is Grant) - It is a priority and occasionally interferes with travel plans/activities.

Mary Jane Lombardi (streak runner was Jim) - We need to make time in our daily activities so he can run.

Susan Masters (streak runner is Tim) - Sometimes his running meant leaving me in a strange place alone while on vacation or worrying when he didn't return as soon as I thought he should have from particular runs. And many times he would run before we would be taking a long road trip, causing him to be too tired to drive and turning the wheel over to me. A few times when I needed to find him, I would have to get into the car and drive around the area looking for him and usually could never locate him.

Diane Washburne (streak runner is Mark) - Not really, other than having to get up earlier than most, traveling with running gear at all times.

8. How does/has your immediate family react(ed) to your spouse's streak running?

Latta - They are not impressed, but they know she is going to get up early and go run.

Church – Mostly positive.

Hamilton – Very positive/supportive.

Rust – Amazed at commitment to run every day, inspiring some to exercise regularly.

Hancock – Son just knows that is what Dad does; other family members aware but no real reaction.

Pearson – It is part of our life.

Porter – Our sons are proud. One year I rented a billboard in our town declaring the length of the streak. When I tell people they can't believe it. Folks in our town will run into him on the street and say "Oh you are the guy that inspires me to get up each morning." It means a lot to Rick to hear these reactions.

Nelson – Congratulate him but it's basically most important to him.

Woodburn – Both of our kids are very supportive and extremely proud of their dad.

Murolo – They are super impressed. They may think he's a little crazy, but are mostly impressed.

Childs – It is cool in one sense, crazy the other.

Behr – Our family has been supportive from the beginning.

Leibfritz – All are supportive. He has integrated his love of running into all of our lives; coaching Fleet Feet (a youth running club) that each of our children participated in; parent lead with me as cross country and track parents; weekends away planned around marathons. We still gather (as many as are able) for the Traverse City Marathon/Half Marathon each Memorial Day weekend. All of us ran either the half or the whole marathon two years ago, and spouses, significant others and grandkids joined in. He has also run the first 3-mile race with his grandson.

DeBoer – Kids don't know any different, since he has always run daily; maybe a little pride that he has been able to keep doing it, even when injured.

McAllister – A running streak is a strong and sometimes difficult commitment. I think it has influenced them to be stronger people.

Lombardi - They were very positive and supportive. On a number of occasions, they facilitated the continuation of his streak.

Masters – Many family members would be quite interested or amazed early on, attending some of the races in which he would participate. Now people will occasionally ask if he still has his streak. If they don't ask, they probably just assume he does or they would have heard otherwise. (My grandmother would say that "jogging is so stupid!" She maintained her health by hard work and daily activity, living to be 94.)

Washburne - They think it's a bit bizarre but cool at the same time.

9. Has your spouse verbalized the reason(s) for her/his streak running?

Latta - She gives God the credit for her great health and physical fitness to be able to run.

Church - He was inspired by a friend who had a running streak.

Hamilton - To stay goal oriented, consistency in workouts, loves to run.

Rust – She started because we were dating and she wanted to have things in common with me, things we could enjoy together. She knew I was a streak runner and was committed to run every day until I die so she joined the club as well as our son. We may be the family with the most streak years in the entire world. Can you check that for us? Heart trouble runs in my wife's family and this too was and is a concern for her. Since she started the streak her health has improved and heart issues she had at a younger age have disappeared.

Hancock – George always says he runs every day because he can.

Pearson - He has been running his entire life.

Porter – He has always wanted to be a star. And he is. The streak is just one way he is a star. He also flies aerobatics at 66 and going strong He just got his masters from Georgetown and started an extremely successful new career.

Nelson – No.

Woodburn – I think Woody started as a response to the trauma he experienced from the drunkdriver rear-ending him at 70-mph and being told he was lucky to walk away from the crash (he still experiences some chronic neck and shoulder pain, and says running actually helps with this). After a while he saw the streak as a challenge that he enjoys and is proud to keep going – getting his run in is really just as much a part of his day as brushing his teeth. He likes to say he thinks it's easier to run 365 days a year than to run only 350 days because when you are a Streaker there is no longer a decision to be made "if" you will run today, only "when" will you run?

Murolo – Yes and no. I think there are myriad reasons that come out at different times. See positive aspects listed in #6.

Childs – It is his personality trait. He has never missed a day of work either.

Behr – Not before it started, certainly, and not specifically in the years since. Now, the streak just "is" and Jim doesn't dwell on it too much day to day.

Leibfritz – He hasn't said, he just enacts it as a high priority.

DeBoer – Has not directly said why he runs daily – it is just part of his commitment to a healthy lifestyle.

McAllister – Yes, a fear of developing a negative addiction.

Lombardi – He felt it helped with his running and it was a fun thing to do. Now he thinks he needs to rest at least one day a week.

Masters – He started running because he didn't want to gain the proverbial 10-20 pounds after marriage. His mother and stepfather were both quite heavy, and he didn't want that to happen to him. Then the streak idea came about a few years later just to see if he could go a year without missing a day, and that turned into another year, and then another.....

Washburne - Yes. He sees it as a part of his legacy. It keeps him healthy (and out of the doctor's office). It's a great way to meet new people and forces you to get up in the morning.

10. Can you recall a specific situation that put your spouse's streak in jeopardy, and how the two of you dealt with it?

Latta - It could be a problem when we travel but Barbara always manages to find time and a place to run. She has run in every state in the United States and on every continent including Antarctica when she ran in boots in the snow. She has managed to run when we vacationed in about 53 countries.

Church - He had knee pain one of the times he ran the Boston Marathon and I was unhappy that he was going to run anyway. I refused to go with him.

Hamilton – First streak ended by major surgery event. He started his second streak as soon as medically possible. I completely supported him during recovery.

Rust – She has run close to midnight a couple times and on occasion has run beside our car while I was driving to make sure she did at least a mile on days she had to work late. There would be nights she would sit up in bed and wake me asking if she ran that day which of course she had. Many are the times we do daily doubles. Because we live in a desert area we do a lot of treadmill running and even do our speedwork in the summer on our treadmills while watching recorded marathons and track meets. Also, she like watching cooking shows while running but that is where I draw the line.

Hancock – Late 2017 had herniated lumbar disk diagnosis, surgery on worst disc in 2018, walking recovery than slow running for several months, making sure George didn't do anything stupid during the recovery/healing

Pearson – His coaching was once an issue. When a running club friend was told of our wedding date, the response was, "That's the day of the Olympic race walk trials." We then changed the date. Physical problems Jim just somehow endured.

Porter – I would say he puts himself in jeopardy too often- he would not agree. Through the years he has run in many situations like lightning, foreign countries, or darkness that he would never have allowed me or our sons to do. He thinks he is protected. It has been a long slow process in our relationship for him to open up about something that means so much to him so that I can begin to understand, for me to grow as a person and let him be who he is and not try to change him, for me to grow as a person and appreciate the deep deep meaning the streak has for him.

Nelson – I never encouraged him to continue or stop the streak when his well-being was a stake.

Woodburn – I cannot think of a time when Woody did not plan ahead to keep his streak going. Even when he was traveling to England to visit our daughter, or when we traveled to Ireland for a vacation, he either went for a run right after midnight or else at the end of an extremely long travel day in order to keep his running streak going. He is very committed to his running streak. I think maybe the closest call was when we had terrible wildfires in Southern California last year. The air quality was so dangerous and unhealthful with smoke and ash that Woody, who uses treadmills only as a last resort, ran with a high-quality smoke-mask INDOORS for two days and used the mask outside for a week or so.

Murolo – I don't think his streak was ever really in jeopardy. There have been some middle of the night runs, some early laps around an airport (outside), one buzzed run after a few cocktails the first day of vacation when we had to wait at the bar before checking into our hotel, also some very slow runs after an ultramarathon or minor injury.

Childs – Yes - January 10, 2017. I drove him 20 miles to the emergency room in next town. He was having a heart attack due to 100% blockage of the LAD, a widow maker. He survived we were told because his heart was so strong from all his years of running.

Behr – Once Jim got food poisoning at a work-related event, but he ran. Luckily weather and health didn't end his streak.

Leibfritz – There have been several situations where I went to bed thinking that his streak was over. One time, he had a back injury from coaching our son's basketball team and he was in pain. I got up the next morning and said "sorry about your streak, honey," and he did not say anything. I realized then that he had waited for me to go to bed because he knew I would not want him to run injured. Another time he had a bad case of the flu and it was icy outside. He again waited for me to go to bed, but our 10-year old son was up and he instructed him to come out and find him if he was not back in 20 minutes or so. Also, he was scheduled for a vasectomy, and I asked the doctor if he could have the first appointment in the morning because he would want to run the next day. The doctor said "I would not recommend that," and I said "I know, but he is going to do it anyway."

DeBoer – One night he jumped out of bed in pain; tried to sleep for a few hours but couldn't, so he went out to run a mile, which didn't make things worse or better. I told him it could be a kidney stone. Since I had just had eye surgery and could not drive, I gave him some Tylenol (he had never taken any before) and he drove himself to the ER – kidney stone confirmed. They removed it, and he ran the next day with no trouble.

McAllister – A lawn mowing accident where mower cut his foot. It wasn't as bad as it could have been - only lost a toe nail permanently - and was able to run the following day.

Lombardi - Jim was sick in bed during the holiday season and it was very cold out. I helped him dress warmly and our daughter drove him to the building where he worked. The building had a ground floor with a looped hallway. He ran slowly but completed a workout.

Masters - He has had several incidents including the births of our children. He has also endured two ankle fractures, five fractured vertebrae from a fall while running out of town, four ankle dislocations, and three eye surgeries. We have gone through a lot of ice and heating pads in our marriage.

Washburne - Yes, he was running the Richmond Marathon a few years ago and was not feeling well. After a long drive, late dinner and early morning wake up call, he was not at his best. Nearing the finish line, he fell. He was unconscious (unclear which came first - the fall or becoming unconscious) and badly broke his nose, sustained many cuts, bruises, etc. After an overnight stay at the hospital, and being uncertain if he would be well enough to be released, there was a very good chance his streak would end. After promising the doctor's he would not run, he was released and promptly ran 3 miles outside of the hospital (with me and our friend on either side of him). It was a very slow run, but he did it -phew!

11. How have you dealt with the end of your spouse's streak (if applicable)?

Latta – NA - I think this will be a difficult time.

Church – The streak has not ended.

Hamilton – Was not possible to continue first streak due to serious surgery and recovery so no decision was involved and completely supported his recovery and starting a new streak.

Hancock – George ended first streak in 2002, made sure his recovery/healing was complete before normal running again. Second streak ended in 2017, herniated discs more serious situation, so made sure George didn't do anything stupid to prevent healing. I did suggest he stop road racing, work at running every day is a more realistic goal.

Pearson – Not applicable, but I'm sure the time will come. He will be disappointed. He wakes up looking for things to do, so his life shouldn't change much.

Porter – I am glad he has started talking about the end. The human plight - we know the end is coming. We have the ability to understand that. Is it a curse or a blessing?

Nelson – When his streak was broken I would tell him I was sorry he had to go thru that.

Childs – Well, he begged the cardiologist to let him hop on a treadmill in the heart tower the next morning after heart attack. We just didn't talk about. It was the elephant in the room until he started back running and started his new streak.

Behr – We haven't had to deal with it yet.

McAllister – NA - and do not look forward to it.

Lombardi – When it ended because of an illness, I hoped he would not be bothered. He is still running well but now realizes when he is sick or injured he needs to take it easy or have some days off, which I encourage.

Masters - So far that hasn't happened. I will support him when he wants to quit, but I know he won't stop running completely.

Washburne – His is still going strong. I'm on my 2nd streak — I dealt with ending my first streak without much worry or fanfare. I'm in it for health benefits both mentally & physically, but was dealing with too much pain and knew I needed to recover & heal. Not much drama, and now back at it.

For the large majority of streak runners, a decision will have to be made by us or for us, to end the daily habit. Every story will be different, but we will all feel the loss in some way. So far, only three of our group ran the last day of their lives – Chuck Bromley (NY) in 2010, Roger Carlson (MN) in 2015, and Michael Halloran (FL) in 2019, the latter two dying during their final runs.

For many years, CA had the most total and active streak runners before being passed by MN. Currently, MN, CA and TX (in that order) have the most total streakers, but TX has passed CA to take 2nd on the active list, with totals now numbering MN (115), TX (114), and CA (111), the only 3 states with more than 100 doing it daily.

The 70,000 Mile Club By: Steve DeBoer

A large number of streak runners (at least 141 that I have been able to confirm) have accumulated over 70,000 miles running in their lifetime. Here is an update of their total and streak mileage. Herb Fred ran more miles than any other person with verified records that I am aware of.

Darryl Beardall had run an estimated 280,000 miles by the end of 2012 but has not been able to locate all his running logs to verify his total. He has only confirmed his 2007-2018 mileage. He does not run on Sundays, so is not a streak runner. He ran the Olympic Marathon Trials in 1960, 1964, 1968 and 1972.

Dallas Robertson and Suzanne Ray are also not streak runners, but I have included them because of their high mileage totals.

Don Ritchie, British ultra-runner, who was not a streak runner, logged 208,100 miles from 1962 to 2011. His still standing track and absolute 100K world record (6:10:20, set over 40 years ago) was achieved in a track 100K race. Ritchie's halfway split in that race was under 3 hours, the first time anyone had run that fast for 50K as a split in a longer race. It was the longest standing world record in all of Track & Field until broken by Nao Kazami (6:09:14) on 6/24/18. Don also held WRs for 100M on the track (11:30:51) and 100M on the road (11:51:12).

With Darryl, Dallas, Suzanne and Don, there are 145 runners now mentioned, though only 141 are part of the streaker "Club."

* Have not had their running streaks certified by the US Running Streak Association.

 Not streak runners; Darryl developed L-4 pinched nerve April 2018 – since then has not been able to run but exercises with a walker).

+ Money found in 2019 and since his streak began - has found money every day since 1983!

The person with the most miles in 2019 was Carolyn Mather (6878). Those with the most miles who have a current running streak in 2019 were Dave Dial (6478) & Roger Urbancsik (5485).

I probably did not get everyone who qualifies. Please send your data if you have surpassed (or will this year) 70,000 running miles, at (stephen.william.deboer@gmail.com) and I'll include you in the next update.

Tara Humble

TARA HUMBLE JOINS USRSA

My name is Tara Humble, I'm 45 years old, from Northern upstate NY.

Little backstory: I decided in January 2017 that I was going to change my lifestyle and train to run The Boilermaker 5k race in July 2017. By the time the race came around I had lost around 70lbs with running and strength training. Not only did I do the 5k, I ran quite a few after that including some 10k and 15k races, and 3 half marathons.

I'm now gearing up to train for my first marathon next November in Philadelphia. I've lost around 90 pounds and fell in love with running. What started out as just a way to burn a lot of calories, turned into do much more!

Someone else I know had posted about the holiday streak last year. I thought what a great way to get through all of the eating and holidays. I started on Thanksgiving (November 22, 2018) for the holiday streak.

In the beginning, I didn't know how I'd run 41 days straight. I just celebrated my one-year streak anniversary a few days ago, and I'm still going. This is a fantastic idea. Not only am I a better runner, I also made many friendships along the way. Running has helped me save my life. Plus, I run for the ice cream. :) Thank you for your time!

OLIVIA & SPENCER CHRISTENSEN'S STREAKS HITS 3 YEARS

My son Spencer and I just celebrated our 3rd anniversary of our streak. As I type this I still have a hard time believing we have been running for three years. I know I would have stopped a while ago. Some days it is so hard to put my running shoes on.

Thankfully, I have the best running partner and, no matter what, he laces up and then gives me the encouragement I need to do the same. The mile takes less than 10 minutes most days and usually those minutes are the best minutes of my day.

We have run in everything from running clothes to church clothes. Sometimes he does it barefoot and we have the "oh crud" moments when we jump out of bed to run because we almost forgot.

Someday it will end - probably sooner for me than him - but until that day I will continue enjoying those precious minutes every day when we run our mile and reconnect. Spencer 2,953.32; Olivia 4,315.73.

Started running in the spring of 2017. I ran 10 5K's that year. Started training in January of 2018 for my first half. Ran my first half in May of 2018. Started training for my first full in August of 2018. Ran my first full in November of 2018. Ran 19 total races in 2018. Started training for my second full 1/19. Ran my 2nd full on 3/30/19, obtaining my first BQ - 3:15:46. At the end of this year, I will have run 3 fulls with 2 BQ's, 3 half marathons and 26 other races varying from 1 mile to 20k.

PR list Marathon - 3:15:38 Half Marathon - 1:27:07 10K - 39:32 5K - 18:26.

I will be running the Boston Marathon on 4/20/20. My official training starts on 1/6/20. In the meantime, my running streak will continue. My self-imposed rules are all outside miles, at a minimum distance of 3 miles.

MATT CARPENTER'S STREAK HITS 16 YEARS

I knew this past summer would pose a challenge to my streak. My wife Rachael was pregnant with our first child. She was not due until the end of July, but just to be safe, I began running first thing in the morning in mid-June. A couple days a week I had evening runs planned with my cross-country team, but I put two miles in early on those mornings anyway. I was prepared for the possibility the streak could end, but I was not going to let it happen due to poor planning.

On the evening of July 25th, it was time to head for the hospital. By morning our little one had still not arrived. Rachael was not too keen on me taking an early morning run, but after a few more hours of labor and a visible increase in my anxiety level, my wife suggested I go for a run. I do not sit still well, and she could tell I had been cooped up in the hospital room too long.

At 9:30pm on July 26th Caroline Grace arrived at the starting line. She was kind enough to arrive at a time that did not pose a serious challenge to my streak. As I write this in early December the streak is alive and well. I have just past the 16-year mark, and Lord willing it will continue.

BARRY BRITTON'S STREAK HITS 20 YEARS

Yesterday [26 November 2019] marked the milestone of 20 years without missing a day of running for me. I do at least two miles per day. I haven't missed a day since November 26, 1999.

I am 68 years old and still going, though the young people pass me on the track every day. I tell them I have 3 gears: barely moving, painfully slow, and slow. At least I can still jog.

Every day is a blessing. I plan to continue for as long as I can get outside and run.

EVERETTE DOFFERMYRE'S STREAK ENDS AFTER 4,344 DAYS

My streak came to an end on August 27, 2019. What happened is that I went in for my annual physical on Aug 28. My blood, etc. had been provided in advance so my internist had the results.

When it came time (after the physical examination) to get the report, my internist started out by saying, "Everette, I am afraid I've got some news you are not going to like." Seized with fear that I had something like terminal cancer, I stammered out, "Give it to me straight." He said "you are not running today." He, of course, knew how much I liked running every day and keeping my streak intact. But compared with what I thought he might say, I was very relieved. I asked him to explain what was going on.

Long story short, I had developed a problem in my heart. It took a stress test, a heart CT scan and an initial heart catherization to figure out that I had about 80% blockage in my 'widow maker' artery. While it required a second heart cath procedure to install the stent, the stent has worked well and I will soon be released to run again but my cardiologist is recommending alternating running with walking.

I enjoyed my 11 years, 10 months and 21 days of never missing a day but it's time that I got to the "retired" list.

I, like so many of us 'streakers,' appreciate your exceptional leadership of the USRSA. I am proud to be a member and will always regard my streak as one of the singular achievements on my 71 years.

KELLI ROWLES' STREAK HITS 3 YEARS

I can't believe that it has been 3 years! This run streak has been hard at times, but it has also given me a chance to reach a new goal that I didn't think was possible. I have 4 kiddos and they keep me pretty busy. I sometimes lose time for myself. The challenge to run every day has not only given me at least 10 minutes to myself every day, but it has recharged me mentally and physically. I thank my friends Katie Bierman who introduced me to the run streak challenge, and my friend Laura Jones, who has continued her own run streak and still meets me most Tuesdays for our weekly 5miler. I look forward to continuing this streak for as long as it will take me.

CHARLES KOSOLA'S STREAK HITS 4 YEARS

It all started December 4th 2015. I used to run years ago at the gym, but never a consistent thing. I ran track for a few years in high school, and always worked out at the gym.

As I got older I stopped going to the gym. I started running occasionally doing a mile here or a mile there, but nothing consistent. I started using several running apps on my phone and some people I know used it as well. We would comment to each other. I also started training for some 5K's and also asked to run in the Broad Street Run in Philadelphia with coworkers. I did that 4 years in a row.

I started my streak in December 4th, 2015 of running every day a minimum of 3 miles. Yes, there were a few days that I took it easy before a big race and ran less just to keep my legs fresh.

Some weeks I was doing close to 50 miles a week on a regular basis. I ran on my wedding day, and the days my children were born. I ran on my honeymoon cruise on a treadmill, and have run in almost every snowstorm or bad weather event that has happened.

It doesn't matter if I'm feeling sick or entirely too tired. The last year I have cut down to 3-4 miles a day just because of timing, watching the kids, and work. However, through it all running has become a huge part of my life.

RICK PORTER'S STREAK HITS 42 YEARS

It seemed a few years ago that I celebrated my streak more at the 5-year intervals than annually, but at 42 years I've decided to celebrate each year! Can't say I'm setting any speed or distance records, but the streak moves along and the body seems fairly stable---today at least!!

My biggest challenge this year was running through two cracked ribs---not related to running but a fall hitting golf balls. Long story I won't bore you with. Many of you have run through worse issues, but this was fairly high on my challenge list. However, all is good now and you can run through it if you find yourself in the situation. Been thinking about how this crazy thing might end---let me know if you have any interesting ideas. Hope to report back next year. Watch where you step.

ANDREW BRADT'S STREAK HITS 8 YEARS

Streak is still on. This past year I have put an average of 8.5 miles a day surpassing last year by more than 1k miles. I ran through pneumonia, another bout with prednisone in my fight with Sarcoidosis and have remained centered to my moment of Zen when I go for my daily run.

My wife received her comma today (12/11), makes me so proud of the examples we are setting to health and consistency to our kids. I believe that makes us a "quotation mark" couple with our double commas. This year I'm focused on getting back under a 17:30 in my 5k time... turning down the miles for speed. Stay tuned!

SCOTT CLEMENTS' STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

I hit my two-year mark today, December 15, 2019, and it has truly been an amazing journey.

I started this streak when my dad had received the idea from running with one of the most famous streak runners, Robert "The Raven" Kraft. My dad has run with the Raven many times and we were both looking for a new challenge as I had achieved my goal of becoming an Ironman, albeit slower than my old man. When he brought this idea to me, I thought it was fantastic because it was simple and affordable which I know my wife loves.

Although my dad had to suspend his streak about 11 months in, due to family reasons, he is back at it and has been running every day since August 1. We started this streak together and I am confident he would be still going strong if he was able. At least now I can beat him in something, as long as I keep running! I didn't expect to keep going after one year but I truly love to run now and want to keep this going as long as possible.

Hard to believe I am finishing up my 6th year today. The plan is to run a boring 3 miles on the treadmill right after work before I head to family Christmas festivities.

This year I had some highs and lows when it came to running. Dealt with a few injuries that slowed me down but was still able to successfully run Grandma's Half, Twin Cities 10 Mile, and two Ragnars. Ran in two airports this year (LAX and Shanghai) and when in Siem Reap for vacation the roads were not ideal near the hotel we stayed at so I ran 3 days in a row in our hotel room (luckily, I was able to make a loop around the couch/bathroom area to make the running a tad tolerable). Excited to start year 7.

MARK RABASCO'S STREAK HITS 6 YEARS

I am glad to just have completed 6 years of streak running! My streak is a little different as my minimum I set is 3 miles a day.

It started while I was running for Keene State and I have remained a competitive runner during the streak. I have negotiated with my coaches over the years to reason with them that this is just another goal to reach that does not have a time barrier. For my young age of 25 I am also an older school logger writing everything in my Marty Jerome calendar. I keep track of my streak and at the end of every year add up all the miles and days I have run.

Currently I compete on the Western Mass Distance Project on a local team that runs in the highly competitive New England Region. I run a road, track, or cross-country race nearly every weekend and train an average of 60 miles a week for them. My favorite distance is the marathon as I have completed 11 so far all in different states on my quest to become a 50 stater. My next big race is the Disney marathon this January where I will try to run under 2:40:00. Lastly, I want to thank everyone who has supported me through this journey and push me to run another year!

JEFFREY SHUMWAY'S STREAK HITS A DECADE

This is a big day for me, marking the completion of my second lifetime 10-year running streak. The first ended because of surgery in November 2009. Diane and I continue to run together every day; soon our two active streaks combined will top 30 years as she is coming up on her 20-year mark next May. The best part of our day is always our morning run, conversing with each other, meeting folks along our regular 4-5 miles route, even the dogs barking fill us with joy. We imagine that the canine yaps translate to "You guys are fantastic! We wish we could romp alongside, but alas, we are trapped behind this fence!"

To top things off, yesterday I reached 2/3 of a century in age -- 66 and 8 months. So, a good way to start the last third of the century was completing 10 years today.

BARBARA LATTA'S STREAK HITS 36 YEARS

On December 4, 2019, I completed my thirtysixth year of running at least a mile every day. This year I have run at least 5 miles every day. I have enjoyed running this year as much as any year.

My longest run this year was 18 miles. I decided two years ago that I would not do any more marathons. It would take me over 6 hours to do a marathon. I like to finish in time to talk to other runners. By the time I could run a marathon I think everyone would have gone home. I did run at least 13.1 miles eighteen time to be ready for the two half-marathons I ran.

During the year of 2019, I ran 14 races. The longest race I did was a half marathon. I did a half -marathon two times during the year. I did one in May and one in November. The best time for a half marathon was 2:53. The shortest race I ran was a one-mile race which I ran in 9:02.24. I was pleased with the time for the mile race. I also ran a five-mile race. I ran a ten-mile American Tobacco Trail Race. I ran eight 5K races. My last race this year was the Turkey Trot which was an 8K race.

Out of the fourteen races that I did this year, I placed first in all but two. I placed second in the other two. One second place was in a half-marathon and one second place was in a 5K race.

This year I have had no injuries. I have felt well every day. My one doctor appointment for the year went well. The doctor told me to keep doing what I was doing that I was fine. He could find nothing wrong with me. I give God thanks for my good health.

PAUL KIRNER'S NEW STREAK HITS 5 YEARS

My story is simple. I am listed in your active list of runners at #581 and on your retired list I should be in area of 85 to 90th to running records. I love running.

You can list me under members body marathon at 3:53:27 and my best half marathon at 1:52:14. My best 10k is 45:58; best 5-miles is 38:36; best 5k is 20:41; best 2 miles is 11:15; and best 1 mile run at 5:25.

I ran 800 miles as of this morning (12.31.19) and my current streak is 5 years. My streak could have been 8,746 days or 24 years but for having my gall bladder removed on 12.10.14. Cancer and chemo did not stop my streak in 2010.

Since I started my first streak on 12.31.95 I have run a total of 28,063 miles. My premembership miles to your site was 14,000 from 2.28.83. My total miles is almost 43,000. Only 7,000 miles to run the equivalent of twice around the circumference of the earth. This should take me another 14 years when I will be 85 years old.

This morning, 12/30/19, my running streak reached 2-years! Over that time, I have covered exactly 2500 miles! Over the last 12 months I have dealt with bouts of plantar fasciitis and bronchitis, but managed to keep my streak alive running no less than 3-miles every day over the past two years.

I am a physical therapist by trade, and I use my patients for motivation. I see how hard they work, sometimes just to be able to stand, and I realize how fortunate I am to have the ability to run every day.

I keep track of my daily mileage on a running poster/calendar which reads: "you either ran today or you didn't." I don't want to say I didn't for a long, long time...

Jennifer Walt

JENNIFER WALT'S STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

December 29 marked the completion of my 8-year running streak, and 12/30 the beginning of year 9. I am much more introspective this year than in the past, as sometimes life hands you sh_t that makes you either give up or encourages you to choose gratitude for what you do have. I CHOOSE GRATITUDE.

Physically 2018 ended and 2019 began with my body fighting nasty sciatica and Achilles issues. As a result, I was doing more walking than running, but always managed to get in at least 1 mile of steady running. I fully embrace the Jeff Galloway run/walk method—it works and helps you put miles in without destroying your body.

Also, I am hugely grateful that I reconnected with a sports medicine chiropractor who I hadn't seen in 20+ years and he helped get me back to running without pain. When I saw him in January and said I didn't think I'd be able to go to Boston and run the marathon, he said "why not?" And, he was right—why not indeed—it was slow, but I finished Boston for my 35th marathon.

On top of physical issues, 2018/2019 handed me an imploding marriage with enough drama associated with it to last a life time. Thank god for running! Thank god for running friends! The best way for me to deal with emotional turmoil is to run...and this is even better when I can also connect with others. It's amazing how many life problems we've solved (with humor) over the course of our many miles.

Yes, not only do we choose to run, we choose to laugh—it makes everything so much better. I'm not unique in what landed on my plate this year; life happens to all of us, but I am so thankful that I can say I'm muscling through it every step of the way.

I think this is probably the first year of my streak where I didn't care how far I ran or how fast I ran. I just ran. But, looking back now, I see that I will finish year 8 with about 1470 miles and my total streak miles are at 13,250ish. Not bad. Someday my streak will end, but NOT TODAY. I choose life. I choose laughter. I AM GRATEFUL.

BEN KORBELAK'S STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

This marks two years of running at least one mile a day, no excuses. A lot of friends asked me why I started and keep doing this, and I don't have a good answer other than I want to practice consistency in my life.

My first year I was focused on completing the mile each day as I've never considered myself an avid runner in the past. This second year of the streak has been focused on increasing my mileage. Most days were still running one mile, but twice a week I ran two miles with a friend, and many longer distances happened sporadically through the year.

Some of my favorite places I've run are at the bat bridge in Austin, Kansas City's convention center, near the Masters in Augusta, and back at my old college UMBC. In the past two years I've also signed up for several races, which I never imagined doing. In 2018 I did the Baltimore 5K, and in 2019 I participated in a local community 5K, the Frederick Half Marathon, and the Baltimore Moron-a-thon (5K + Half on the same day). I have another half marathon lined up in 2020 and possibly a team relay marathon as well.

This has become integrated into my life so much that some students at the school I work voted to put "mile-a-day" on the back of one of my team shirts. I cannot think about not doing a run each day, and I have impressed myself that I'm still doing this two years later. Here's to more years and a growing streak!

ANNA ASSARSSON'S STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

I just came home from my 2nd year anniversary of joining Streak Running. 730 days in a row, without interruption. Feels very good!

I got started because I liked the challenge, and it makes me exercise every day. Some days it has felt hard, but you never regret a run you have made. To fulfill the task in a climate like in Sweden, and due to other obligations, I have to sometimes run in snow, on ice, in 20 Centigrade below zero, late at night or early in the morning. But I have never hesitated, even if I am considered a fanatic by my family.

Today, the 31st of December, is a good day to celebrate. And I will keep running as long as my legs will hold me up, hopefully forever!

JONATHAN THIBAULT'S STREAK HITS 3 YEARS

In the summer of 2015 I began a new job at a new company which put much more demands on my time than I was used to. Prior to this job, I had been running between 2-3 times per week. I was usually able to fit these runs in during the work day, as my employer had an on-site gym with locker rooms.

In December of my first year at the new job (2015) I looked back at my Runkeeper tracking stats, and I was not very happy with what I saw. I was running sporadically at best some weeks, and some weeks not at all. On January 1 I decided to run, and on January 2 I decided to run again to keep consistency.

It was not meant to start a streak, but it did. About 3-months into the streak I decided to google "running streaks" and I found your website. To me it was inspirational to see all these others and their impressive run streaks, it really helps to keep me motivated (thank you for your work!!).

When I started this streak, I was adamant that I MUST complete 3.5-miles at each run, and I did so for around 2-years. Within the past year I have become more forgiving to myself, while 3.5 is my preferred distance, some days I will run 2-miles if I feel I am not into it or time is of the essence. Occasionally I will run only 1-mile, but this happens not frequently. Also, I now will use the treadmill if it is bone-chilling cold outside or icy and traction is an issue.

I usually run by myself and find that it is very therapeutic, I don't want to short-change this therapy. Although I do enjoy running solo, it is fun to occasionally run with a partner. Recently I ran with my 15-year old nephew, then another day with my 11-year old daughter. My most frequent running partner and supporter is my wife.

I look forward to more running in 2020. I've attached a picture me running the streets of Cambridge, Massachusetts in the Winter of 2018.

SANIYYAH GREENE'S STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

Day 730....can we have a moment of praise because this is 2 YEARS y'all!!

This year was TOUGH! I spent a lot of months doing basement one mile "streak saver" runs because I REALLY wanted to quit but REALLY wanted to run on just to see what the end will be. I cut back on racing this year because...well....2018 burned me out!!

I HATED running by the time the end of the year rolled around. This is when I knew I needed to scale it all the way back this year. In my effort to scale it back my streak was put in jeopardy, of ending, many, many times, but I made it and accomplished what I set out to do.

I have done both extremes. Too much running and too little running, so I have decided that 2020 will be a BALANCED running year; at least this is my goal.

4 Years of my Run Streak! I can't believe what was going to be a New Year's Resolution has turned into this. This past year was my lowest mileage year of my streak, but with my first marathon in April 2020 I know my mileage will increase! Here's to 2020!

MARIO MEDINA'S STREAK HITS 3 YEARS

2019 was an amazing and challenging year! We welcoming our new baby girl and future runner Layla on February 2nd, I earned my comma on September 27th, I ran several races including six half marathons!

I amassed over 1,500 miles for 2019 while nursing several injuries including a couple of sprained ankles, a couple of torn tendons in my hip, a torn adductor longus muscle and fractured sacrum! Streak miles as of December 31, 2019 is 5,049!

Cheers to a happy, healthy and injury free 2020!

DEREK WAGNER'S STREAK HITS 5 YEARS

Today [31 December 2019] is the 5-year mark for my run streak. It's the first time I've really thought about it being a long time that I've been running.

During the streak I've run on 2 continents, and in several countries and states. I've run with many friends and family members as well.

My most consistent running companion has been my dog, Piper. She is always willing to run. In fact, I think she prefers running in bad weather. I have a 3-mile route that I take her on quite a bit. We run 2 miles and I let her romp around the dog park for a while before we take the final mile home. Hopefully Piper and I can continue to run for several more years.

THANKS for your acknowledgement of my streak hitting 2 years, which, I'm pretty sure, strikes ferocious fear into the very marrow of the brittle bones of Jon Sutherland!

Two weeks ago [message date 31 December 2019], I did a Training Run of 27 1/4 miles, and my split at the Marathon-Marker was ... (I hate to brag!) ... a PR for ... SLOWEST EVER! And, I feel confident that the next time I do 26.2-Or-More, I can be ... EVEN SLOWER! I owe it all to the coaching of Roger Urbancsik!

GODSPEED TO ALL!

GREG NERCESSIAN'S STREAK HITS 3 YEARS

Today [31 December 2019] marks 3 years of my personal run streak. What started as a 30-day goal has grown into something that has become part of my day...like a cup of coffee, breathing, running. I often get asked how I keep doing it. The best answer is that I do what I feel on that day. I don't know where I'm going when I head out the front door or get to the trail head...I just go.

LANCE WHEELER'S STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

This is the third streak I started and the only one that stuck! Finally, 2 years and I feel amazing to have accomplished that.

This year was a tough one as I was involved in a motorcycle crash in May. I suffered a broken right arm, head injury and road rash on both hands, arms, head and knees. I underwent two surgeries to repair the comminuted fracture in my arm, hours of physical therapy and yet I still ran every single day. Recovery from such injuries at age 52 is normally a long haul and I truly believe that the every day run helped me recover faster. While this is my lowest mileage year in the last 4, I feel better than ever. I am honored to be included with the greats on the list and I look forward to another year of running every day! Streak on!

> Lance Wheeler Colorado Springs, Colorado

SHANE MORRISON'S STREAK HITS 3 YEARS

My streak started as a 2017 New Year's resolution to run every day. Then, January 1st 2018, I went for a run and I haven't stopped since.

I've run in foreign countries, around airports and in airports! My wife has been my unofficial 'hold this-er' and has had the patience to wait wherever we are when I say, "I've got to do two!" I don't know when I'll stop, but I assume someday I will.

Ten-degree weather, a hurricane, and plantar fasciitis in two feet for more than a year hasn't stopped me, so I don't know what will! I see some of these streak lengths and think I'd never be able to run that long consecutively, but I didn't think I'd get here, so who knows!

Congrats to all the other streakers; keep going!

TOM YAKOWENKO'S STREAK HITS 17 YEARS

I can't believe my streak has hit 17 years! I started as a New Year's resolution to make 100 straight days of running at least three miles a day, now it's 17 years later! I still can't decide if this makes me an inspiration or just plain stupid and crazy?

I'm not sure if I should call it a streak or a curse at times, especially at 11:00pm at night or the day after finishing an Ironman. In any event, it's still going and I'm not sure when something will keep me from running. I'm sure something will come up!

Best in running and keep doing it for yourself!

LUTZ BALSCHUWELT JOINS SRI FROM GERMANY

Hi everybody. It all started on a whim, because I didn't want to decide every day, if I will go for a run or not. Over time, I really gave up thinking about it.

I get up every morning at 5:30am and start my run every morning at 6:15am. Not anymore because I have one particular goal, but just because I ran the day before and I will run the day after.

On the way I find time to think about life or listen to audio books or podcasts. Sometimes music, too. Because I nearly run the same route every day, other runners meet me and accompany me, as their mood takes them.

I run out of the front door and then exactly 11km to the railway station of the neighboring city. Here I just turn around and run 11km back. Why this route I don't know; over the years it has emerged as the best choice for this. On 1st January 2020 I ran exactly 2922 days, thus 8 years and in this period 64114km.

I've been sick and injured a couple of times in the past 8 years, but my strength has always been enough for the mile.

In order to achieve this high average, I sometimes added longer distances or did a second run on one day. I'm not able to say how it will go on, because I don't really know. I probably just keep running.

ANDRE HAMMOND JOINS USRSA

Thank you for the acceptance into USRSA. I am currently active duty US Air Force and started running in the summer of 2017 while we were stationed in the United Kingdom.

My wife left for the summer to visit her mom for her 60th birthday and I did not have enough vacation days to go back with them. One of my friends said that they were going to run the Athens marathon in Greece and invited me to go with them. I had only run a max of 4.4 total miles straight and had no interest in this race. After thinking about it for several weeks I signed up for the race and thought if I didn't do the race it would only be a 40 loss. I looked up a training regime online and planned out my journey. After 4 months of training I was able to finish the marathon with a time of 4:34. I took a month off and then got back to it.

Currently, I am on day number 367 of running at least a mile. I am looking to increase to 3 miles this year.

JIM TAYLOR'S STREAK HITS 27 YEARS

I completed my 27-year running streak on the 1st January; a cold and early run as I had to prepare for the New Year's celebrations. This past year has been by far the most challenging and I have produced the lowest mileage in all the 27 years. For the past 18 months I've been struggling with a knee problem and had been running with a limp for too many months. In November 2018, I had the synovial fluid in my knee replaced and saw a dramatic improvement although by that time I had put on weight and lost a considerable amount of fitness. 2019 was a struggle in running terms and I tired of low mileages. However, it has been an achievement to get out every day and, to be honest, I'm proud of that.

SRI has been instrumental in inspiring me to achieve that and the Congratulations email received has given me another boost. This year? Yes, I'll keep it going and look to increase mileage. Forwards! Thanks SRI.

JOHN BYRNE'S STREAK HITS 25 YEARS

As I am sure with everyone else, no one expects to reach years and years of daily runs at the beginning. We certainly run for a variety of reasons, and I would maintain by now it becomes part of the fabric of our life. I have found that running is peaceful, gives you opportunities to enjoy the various landscapes, listen to podcasts or music or simply makes you feel better. I cannot imagine not running, but must say the aches and pains (nothing major thankfully) are a challenge.

Being connected to the SRI/USRSA keeps me motivated and enjoy everyone's postings no matter how new or old you are to a streak.

2019 was an interesting year in terms of keeping the streak going. I am doing more treadmill than I would like, but still average

3.6 miles a day. Over the 25 years I have run in 37 states, 18 foreign countries and near or around 30 baseball or football stadiums. I try to also do a 5k race a month and generally have been able to accomplish that.

None of us could accomplish these streaks without the support of friends and family and for that I am extremely thankful.

Don't ever know how long this will last but hope to keep on trucking for a long time!

Cheers!

BEN FREED'S STREAK HITS 40 YEARS

Over the years there have been a number of highlights and some lowlights.

On Wednesday December 11, 2019 I completed my 40th consecutive year with my daughter Kate. That morning she drove 80 miles up from Pittsburgh to run with me. The temperature was in the low 20's, and we ran 3.24 miles. That was the running highlight of 2019.

The lowlight of 2019 occurred on Tuesday November 5th. That morning I ran 4.36 miles. Then in the afternoon, while walking our dog, I slipped on the grass and broke 3 ribs. The streak continued, but for the next five weeks or so, at a much slower pace and shorter distance (the shortest being 1.61 miles).

After 40 years I thought maybe it was time to end the streak, but that has turned out to be harder than running with broken ribs. So, as of today, Thursday January 2, 2020, the streak has continued with a 3.09-mile run.

SCOT DEDEO'S STREAK HITS 6 YEARS

2019 was another big year in running. I ran six races of marathon or longer, finally broke 3 hours in the marathon, ran the Double Boston, Boston -> Hopkinton -> Boston as part of the 123rd Boston Marathon, and capped the year off by taking 3rd overall in the inaugural Midstate Massive Ultra, a 103mile race that crosses Massachusetts from North to South.

This year I continued to give back in any way I could. We hosted our second Ninja Feet Running camp in June, I continued my race director duties at the Apple Run (Formerly the Scharfman Run), and picked up new duties at our elementary school's fun run. All and all it is fun to see others get into running and be able to share my experience and expertise with them.

I finished the year with 3244 miles, the most I have ever run in a year and bringing my total streak miles to over 17k. Streak on everyone.

Randy Rogers

RANDY ROGERS JOINS USRSA STREAK STARTED IN 1985

I finally agreed to join the United States Running Streak Association after several family members and past students urged me for years to make the streak official. I started running at least a mile a day on August 13, 1985, a day after I got sick and ended my running streak of just under two months straight. The new streak hit 34 years straight in August of 2019. I made the same New Year's Resolution for 2020, as I had for the previous 34 January firsts: to run at least a mile every day this year, God-willing!

The streak has included all outdoor runs, except for three that were run in airports, dealing with my three trips to Australia to coach in basketball events. The first indoor run was in Sydney, Australia, when a storm hit and the layover to Brisbane was delayed until after midnight. I had packed some running clothes in case this would happen and got a 20-minute run completed in the airport.

The other two indoor runs were planned to combat the International Date Line on the way to Australia. The run in Sydney followed a flight from Hawaii, so the International Date Line was not a factor. The other two: I left from Detroit to fly to Los Angeles and the flight was scheduled to leave just before midnight, local time. I kept my watch on Eastern Time and ran after midnight Eastern Time for 20 minutes on the third floor of the LA airport. A similar situation caused a similar plan four years later, this time in the Vancouver airport. I had flown from Chicago and ran on Central Time, so that I could board the midnight flight, local time.

This streak has included running through severe dehydration three times, several ankle sprains, a torn hamstring, plantar fasciitis, a painful pinched nerve, and many bouts with the flu. I have slowed down quite a bit since 1985, but I am thankful to God that I can still enjoy running. Despite knee pain, I still can clear my mind and enjoy the scenery during a morning run. My PR for a 5K may have gone up 9 minutes since I started the streak, but I can still run a long way and go for long walks or bike rides without extraordinary effort. Keep streaking, my friends!

Erin Stevens

ERIN STEVENS' STREAK HITS 11 YEARS

Starting Year 12! It's hard to believe that my running streak started on the 1st of January 2009 with a bet to run a mile every day. My colleagues in the operating room and I each put 50 into a pot to be divided by those still in at the end of the year. In the end, there were three of us left, and I have continued on ever since.

For most of these years, I've been a minimalist streaker - doing my daily mile. I've run in Minneapolis airport in flip flops, in hallways in a hotel in Big Sky, Montana, and through the streets of Bolivia while on a medical mission. Running has always allowed me to explore new cities through my travels. But it was usually no more than a mile with generally the max of a 5K run here or there with my husband. I was always inspired by those of you who ran more every day.

In late 2018, my husband and I moved from Billings, MT to Green Bay, WI. And it was in 2019 I stopped being a minimalist streaker and started becoming a distance runner. My husband and I ran a half marathon together in May in Green Bay - his first, and my first in many years. I signed up for the NYC Marathon with American Cancer Society's Determination team and finished my first marathon in 13 years. While I have no desire to do another marathon, I am finally comfortable with the half marathon distance and look to do more of those this year. I'd like to run 2020 miles this year, which is so much more than my first 10 years of about 400 miles a year. I've got a good base now from marathon training and am looking forward to my next challenge.

I'm so grateful for our online community on Facebook. I remember when it was just a few of us in a small group and love how it has grown to over 4,000 now! I've enjoyed watching 40 years of daily running become surpassed for the first time, and now 45. I'll keep plugging along until I can't anymore. Proud to be a member of USRSA/SRI!

BRAD HUNT'S STREAK HITS 14 YEARS

I am doing all I can to be active and stay fit as I draw near the half century mark in the age bracket. I recently hit 5000 days on the running streak and celebrated 14 years of consecutive running - minimum of 20 minutes or 3 miles. Along with running, I play basketball whenever I am able and I have a 5-month streak of 100 push-ups per day.

A sincere thanks to my good friend, Mark Ermis, for introducing me to the website and joining me with his own personal streak. I appreciate him holding me accountable by going public with our efforts to be active each day.

ERIKA SCHWARTZ'S STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

I have just hit the 2-year mark and I can't believe I have made it this far. Well, at this point I can, but I never could have guessed it 2 years ago when I was hoping to beat the first 41-day streak by hitting 50.

I have a clear memory of the day I hit 100. We were traveling back home and I had my husband stop the car 1 mile from home so I could "get my mile in."

Every 100 days has been exciting. I've been impressed that my body could keep going. Especially on days where I might not feel great. But 8-10 minutes out of my day is really not that hard.

So, when I get asked, "when will you stop?" The answer is, "when there is a real reason I can't get out there." For now, I will keep going one day at a time. Next big goal is comma day, but I get happy at each 100 days too!

I've virtually met some of the nicest people from around the country and the world and it is my therapy to run and to share with them.

TIM DESANTIS' STREAK HITS 5 YEARS

Just completed 5 years of running every day. Wow it has been a journey for sure. This last year struggling with a slight hip injury. Pelvic/SI joint kind of stuff but healing up pretty nicely and excited for the new year.

Last year I just completed a little over 1200 miles. This year I am shooting for 2020 miles. I did 2018 miles in the year 2017 feeling pretty good.

We'll see how this year goes. Running has certainly changed my life: I'm more healthconscious, I have more energy, fall asleep easier at 58 years old with an active life. One thing I have learned during the injury and five years of running every day is stretch, strength train, and enjoy. My diet has been shifting to a more plant-based kind of structure. This seems to increase my energy and decrease recovery time.

I would like to honor all the runners who are streak running and encourage them to live life to the fullest in every area of your life. Life is precious, enjoy while you can, and runners run on!

ANTHONY MEEKER JOINS SRI FROM AUSTRALIA

I have been running regularly for about five years and needed a challenge to keep me going in between the odd trail marathon. I had heard about the odd January challenge to run each day of new year. I attempted a full month and just kept going from there. A friend mentioned the 'Streak' association in the US and so that provided additional motivation to continue.

I ran a minimum of 5km each day and have dragged out my wife, kids or mates for runs. I have been lucky my running is very social. The hardest runs were the days after a trail marathon that I did in August. I remember thinking if someone saw the first steps of that run they would have thought I had some disorder and would be surprised that I managed a km let alone five km.

I have massive respect for those on the streaking list. It takes discipline, dedication and good planning to put together a streak of many years.

KARLA MYERS' STREAK HITS 3 YEARS

Thank you for the yearly check-in. Although 2019 had its share of personal changes, I kept the streak going for another year.

Due to moving across two states and all that goes with it for 6 months, I only ran one race. I still had the ability to run in six states, but had more one mile "streak-savers" than I would have liked.

I look forward to 2020 with renewed excitement, as I start my fourth year of the streak and preparation for my first marathon in October 2020.

MIRANDA BECK'S STREAK HITS 3 YEARS

This year I had the extra joy of celebrating my 3-year run streak in Costa Rica with my fiancée Dallas, who hit his 1 year run streak the following day! It was a great way to end 2019 with a hill run in El Castillo near Arenal Volcano and start off 2020 with a sandy run on the beach at Playa Samara! This all started as a bet between the two of us, and has turned into a rewarding, challenging and crazy adventure!

Can't wait to see where this next year brings us! I reluctantly gave up my personal challenge of an outdoor only run streak after a proud 3 years, 7 days of braving freezing Minnesota winters to focus on new personal goals like regular strengthening - which this streak continues to inspire me that I can achieve!

LAUSTIN WOODS' STREAK HITS 5 YEARS

Another year of running in the books (5 in a row now). Every year has a theme for me. This year was about persevering through a slow recovery due to an injury late in 2018.

My daily distances reduced and my times slowed but over the course of the year I was able to improve both and once again compete in a race. Several times I wondered if I shouldn't just take some time off but with each day I continued to run. It helps to have a couple others in the family with their own running streaks and seeing all the posts from other streakers talk about their challenges.

Hoping each of you have a happy and healthy 2020.

ALASTAIR RUSSELL'S STREAK HITS 11 YEARS

I've been ill. But I'm back. (Obviously I streaked thru it.) That was 11 years completed on 31/12/19.

I've had flu, pneumonia, torn ankle ligaments, serious asthma and eczema, plantar fasciitis, knee ligament damage and alopecia.

And they say running is good for you.

Still, I'm the same weight I was when I was 22. My wife hasn't left me. My knee is getting better. And I've started 2020 with a 30-mile week.

I'm doing a marathon later in the year. (Talk is cheap.) Bon voyage streakers.

CHIP AKERS' STREAK HITS 8 YEARS

Year number 8 complete! Lots of miles, lots of races, a few injuries that were more annoying than devastating (that's what we signed up for, right?), and another Boston Marathon. Such an honor to be part of this group and community. On to the next . . .

PAUL MURPHY'S STREAK HITS 3 YEARS

2019 saw the milestone of 1000 days on 27 September, marked by a run with some friends and a bit of a celebration. The mark was a little overshadowed by a pinched nerve in my right shoulder which reduced running to a brief and slow-paced affair. Managing to continue with daily run despite the 'injury,' albeit a bit more gingerly some days. The 3 years was marked by a solo run in an industrial area near Melbourne airport in the cold and wet on the last day of an Australian holiday. I have been fortunate to have enjoyed running in Singapore and Malaysia over the course of the year, although enjoyment in 40degree Celsius heat and high humidity is a bit of a stretch. I managed a few runs in different location in New Zealand as well which helps break the monotony of the local streets.

In 3-years I have avoided any major illness and running related injury which is a plus. There are still days where I wonder if it will be my last, but I don't know what I would do if I stopped. I have inspired a few mates to take it up which is satisfying and there is a small community of streakers in my local area at various stages of progression in their journey. Most runs are in the 25-30 minute range, with the odd 45-60 minute run on a weekend when time allows.

Hoping to keep going for a bit more yet, 1500 looks like the next target, in 2021. Meanwhile ticking off each day is satisfaction enough, no plans to do any events or ultras which I have mates doing. I do my running for myself and not trying to outdo anyone else. A trip to China in March is the overseas running highlight for the year, temperatures likely to be quite cool, so should be fun.

CHRIS KATO'S STREAK HITS 6 YEARS

Another 365 days in the books, bringing my streak total to six years. It was a very eventful year for me. Most notably, my son Moses was born on November 5th. We spent 5 days in the hospital with him, but I was still able to sneak out and get my miles in. We recently had our first run together; a breezy 10K with the running stroller. Here's to many more miles!

WAYNE ROBERTS' 2ND STREAK HITS 3 YEARS

I am still working on my goal to reach 100,000 lifetime miles. For 2019, I recorded 3,433 miles. This is the most I have ever done in a year. I feel good about my progress as I am still having problems from my hit-and-run accident which happened 3 years ago (hearing, eyes, balance and vertigo).

I now have 3 years in a row without missing a day. Over that time, I covered 9,600 miles. Thus, my total for lifetime miles is now 91,506. I feel that I now can see the light at the end of the tunnel and my goal is within reach. I will continue to work hard to get the necessary miles.

KEVIN OLIVER'S STREAK HITS 5 YEARS

December 31, 2019 marked 5 years of my run streak with a celebratory 5 mile run on a crisp, cold, snow spitting Indiana morning at the local high school track. Spent the run reflecting on all the running events run, running friends met, weather encountered, and locations traversed. From an ex-smoker who began running 20 years ago just to get into shape to a dedicated every day runner for 5 years now, I am enjoying every run, every day. Looking forward to a fantastic 2020 and wherever running takes me.

MARTIE BELL & HARRY WARREN'S STREAKS END AFTER 6,564 DAYS

It is with great sadness that Harry Warren's and my (Martie Bell) running streak ended December 16, 2019. We were only 11 days from completing our 18th year, but, unfortunately, I had to have emergency hernia surgery. Harry decided to end his streak as running is an integral part of our relationship.

We both feel as though we have lost a good friend. Daily running was always there no matter where we were located and what life events occurred - work stress, marriage, death of parents, moving, selling and purchasing houses, and so much more. Running was always a daily goal to complete and provided time to think and reflect.

There were many physical challenges that we faced over the years. Ankles were twisted several times but we still were able to run. Disease and illness weakened the body, but we were able to make it at least a mile. Last year, Martie fell and dislocated her shoulder while running the next day she wore a sling and held her arm against her body as she completed 2 miles. Even as she laid in pain with her hernia in the emergency room, she plotted her run in the hospital hallways as soon as surgery finished. Unfortunately, it couldn't be accomplished this time.

So, the bad news is that this running streak has retired. The good news is we started a new running streak January 1, 2020 and have run every day of the year so far. So glad our friend has returned and hope to register our new streak with the USRSA in 2021.

BILL STARK SETS MILE RECORD*

Eat your heart out Roger Bannister. As I jogged on the top deck of our cruise ship, my Apple watch showed that I was logging 3-minute miles.

Anyhow, I'm the proud holder of a streak since Friday June 16, 2017. Pretty good for an old man (72). While I had hoped to get back to my really fine fitness and streak before my hemia surgery June 2, 2017, that was wishful thinking.

Happy to have 3-mile days (most of the time), slow, many people walk as fast as I jog. I guess the slow down while I had the hernia, before treatment, recovery, and age (presently 72) cut my weekly mileage in half. Then there have been health setbacks, and I have documented "running through injuries" in earlier streakers contributions.

cannot remember what mv brief hyperthyroid August 2018 (with a-fib and tachycardia running wild) what that did to my running. Around that time, I stumbled on the stairs. I did not fall, but I landed hard on my right foot, hurting my knee and ankle. That cut down my mileage, and persuaded me to always hold the railing. But when I was in Madison that October, 2018, the nostalgic and inviting Howard Temin trail along Lake Mendota had me overcome my pain and set me back to 3-mile days.

And so, it went until March 2019 when, out of the clear blue sky, my ankle flared up so bad I had to ask my wife to put my sock on. Almost gave it up, but persevered at the minimum 1 mile.

When I saw my doctor in May (yes it took me 9 months to report my injury), he suggested I wear an ankle brace. That helped a lot. But it was not until the folks from Good Feet Store at the spa on the June Alaska cruise fixed me up that I largely recovered. By the time I reached Fairbanks June 7, I was back to 3 miles.

Then, on August 14, my hip started acting up. I was in Columbia MO where I limped through 3 miles on the nostalgic and scenic KATY trail, but I cut down to the minimum for 1 week after that, the hip flared up again in December 2019, and I cut back to an average of about 1.5 miles for a few weeks. Back to 3 miles (for how long?) January 1.

They say it's a drag getting older. They also say it beats the heck out of the alternative. No matter what, it is wonderful to run. A Nike shirt I bought 30 years ago says "there is no finish line." My sentiments exactly.

EVA SAGAN JOINS USRSA

Runner's Profile

Who: Eva Gabrielle Sagan, age 48, Fort Wayne, Indiana.

What: Wife, mother, daughter, sister, friend, mathematics instructor at Manchester University in North Manchester, Indiana, streak runner beginning March 12 2015.

Where: From the track at the local YMCA to nature paths and parks around Fort Wayne to scenic Chicago, Illinois to the beaches of Maui, I run anytime and anywhere.

When: From early in the morning when it's still dark out and everyone's still asleep to evening when the sun has gone down and the sunset colors do their own streak across the sky.

Why:

- I run to stay physically fit and to feel good about myself.
- I run to stay mentally fit and feel like I can tackle anything that is thrown at me throughout the day knowing I've got my run under my belt.
- I run to have a base for when I start to train for long races.
- I run because I'm blessed with an unusually strong immune system.
- I run to have alone time with my thoughts.

- I run to provide inspiration to my children. It appears to be working. My daughter, Ashlyn, ran her first 5K in November of 2019 shortly before her 11th birthday (see photo. I'm on the left, Ashlyn is on the right).
- I run in memory of family and friends who left this Earth far too soon and far too young.
- I run for those who cannot and never could.
- I RUN BECAUSE I CAN.

NICHOLAS REYES' STREAK HITS 11 YEARS

Today [17 January 2020] marks my 11 years of running without missing a beat. During the past year I've dealt with a knee issue that has subsided and a pretty good ankle sprain. Need not worry, I took the boot off and ran regardless. Some say I am crazy. My dad calls me a Savage. But my discipline is my way of life. Here's to the next 40 years!!!!

ISABEL RINGUETTE'S STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

When I was a high school student in the 80's, I was the kid with my hands up in the air, trying to find relief from the cramps I got whenever I ran more than 20 yards. I wasn't athletic nor did I ever desire to be one of those sports jocks. But everything changed after the birth of my second child. I decided that I needed to get in better shape and so I tried to run. It was brutal at first. I found no joy and very little to love in running. I gravitated to the gym, started resistance training, free weights, and cardio but really no actual running! I'd try running on and off, every now and then, but mostly off for the next 17 years.

Then in 2014 a colleague invited me to run. As we were both a little competitive, I could not turn down his invitation. I was 42 at the time and in what I thought was great shape. This was going to be easy, I thought, but I was done after just 2 minutes! Being a tad obstinate, I agreed to run again the next day, notwithstanding my disappointing initial performance. When my friend didn't show up as originally scheduled, I ran by myself. Then I ran again and again.

I promised myself I would not stop running until I could say I was good at it. It was not that I loved running, more that I was driven to achieve a level of competence. In fact, at first, I was in love with hating to run. It was hard, it was not natural or even remotely fun. But, my desire to get better was strong and it propelled me to keep going.

The feeling after my runs was amazing. I stumbled auess Т unexpectedly onto the "runner's high." Every run. Good or bad. The end result of my runs became almost addictive. Where at first I truly struggled and suffered, in a very short period of time I now felt amazing! I wanted my sister to share that feeling and insisted that she join me. We didn't realize we were streaking but suddenly we were, running together, every morning, rain or shine, warm or freezing, day after day.

But my desire to continue running every day brought an unanticipated consequence. I broke my ankle while running in freezing rain in December of 2017 (I also seriously sprained the other ankle trying to avoid the fall!). I heard my bone crack, hit the ground hard, and I knew I wouldn't be able to run the following day. I had just said goodbye to my sister. Luckily, a good Samaritan saw me fall and came to help. But my streak ended abruptly on that icy street before sunrise 2 weeks before Christmas. Rather than quit while in a cast, I rode an exercise bike, and my sister ran on the treadmill. I wasn't going to stop at that point!

Instead of quitting, I searched the web for ideas and advice on how to get back running after such an injury. That's how I found this group - Streak runners (running world run streak). Five weeks later, on Jan 23, 2018, with the encouragement and support of my husband, and with the reluctant approval of my doctor, I ran again. It was tough, but I was not going to allow a set-back derail my ambitions.

My sister and I have been running together for six years now. We have done dozens and dozens of half marathons, completed 2 full marathons, and we plan on keeping this going as long as God and our bodies will allow us.

Statistics, speed, distance, medals and Tshirts are truly secondary. We "just run" (that's what my license plate says) and we run every day.

ROOSTER ROSSITER'S STREAK ENDS AFTER 1,492 DAYS

Reporting the end.

Start: 25 Dec 2015 End: 24 Jan 2020 1,492 days

1492, the year Columbus sailed the ocean blue, will forever have new meaning for me.

As an analyst, I immediately note the 49 is isolated between the 1 and the 2.

Symbolizing the 1st and 2nd phase.

Phase 1, the RunStreak, lasted for exactly 49 months (4 years, 1 month).

Phase 2, life after the RunStreak, will hopefully last for 49 years or more (90+ years works for me, if blessed to maintain health and mind).

Yes, I could attempt another day of a sub-11 mile, outside, with GPS tracking, but even if successful at 10:59:55, it is no longer in keeping with the long-term plan.

Rather, it would jeopardize abilities that facilitate long-term positive impact, which is so much more important than a RunStreak, as it requires sound judgment, clear thinking, and functional health.

The RunStreak has provided so many opportunities of reflection and clarity over the last 4 years. Many of which became one of the 140 spontaneous Weekly Word episodes now documented forever on the Ainsley's Angels YouTube channel.

I am grateful for the journey, for the memories, for the reflection, for the support of Lori, Briley, Kamden, and Ainsley, for the opportunity, for the intelligence (and right-hand man) to know when the time for phase 2 has arrived.

Life After RunStreak Day 1: very excited to witness and to partake in the execution of the long-term plan; let's roll and perhaps also enjoy long runs and experience rest days!

JON ZAID JOINS USRSA

I'm 63 and live in Santa Barbara, California. We have an incredible running community here with some really outstanding athletes but more than that great weather and a lot of really passionate runners.

I started running in my mid-20's and I like to say running chose me, I didn't chose running. I moved overseas and there were other priorities in life and running waned. I restarted in my 40's but not consistently. About 15 years ago I got more serious. In 2019 I ran 2735 miles and PR'ed in a marathon at 3h20 compared to 3h23 when I was 10 years younger!

I am principally an ultrarunner but I do occasionally run marathons, mainly to qualify for Boston, which has always been a goal as a young kid. I've run Boston twice and will run it in 2020. My last ultra was a short one, 50 miles Catalina Island, 9h13 and second in my age group. I like longer races and have completed a 200-milers. Apart from racing, which is always fun, I just love running. I love running with friends, running alone, exploring, trails, and being outside. The best way to visit a new place is running. Running is an integral part of my life.

I tried to start a streak a few years ago, with the goal of starting out with a 5K the first month, 6K the next, until I get to June running a 10K and then go back down to 5K. I don't remember which month but I was injured probably around March or April and the streak ended. I started my current streak, 5K min, on Feb 17th 2019. Hoping to never stop.

I am humbled to be a member of this organization and in awe of so many incredible people.

PATRICK WYLIE'S STREAK HITS A DECADE

Hello fellow streakers! It's another great day for a run and my streak just reached the 10year landmark. I am very blessed to have a working pair of legs, and a pair that is very forgiving of the things I put them through.

This year's new challenge was entering the world of ultramarathons. I completed a 50k and a 50 mile race this year and was very worried that both would have ended the streak. Somehow, my legs managed to bend and extend just enough to squeeze out a 1mile effort and keep the streak alive. Running every day has its challenges, but the rewards are far greater. We have little time on this planet so be sure to "get the run in" while we still can. Good luck!

Nick Morganti

NICK MORGANTI'S STREAK HITS 3 YEARS

I am delighted to reach 3 consecutive years of running. Three years ago, I injured my heel and wondered if I could return to where I left off. The answer is "yes"! I missed about 6 weeks, and when I returned, I could not run every day at first. This streak is my third following streaks of 35 and 7 years.

Most recently I completed the Carlsbad half marathon in January in just under 1 hour 50 minutes, which was faster than in each of the last two years. I believe the secret to running every day is to stay healthy and to keep the body strong. Running always tells me the weakest part of my body. After my last injury, the weak link was my back. I have worked hard to build up my back, to stretch daily, and to pay attention to signs of over use or over stress. That formula has worked for me, and for that I am grateful.

On days that I have to drive to LA, my morning run occurs around 4 AM or 4:30 AM. No matter. I look forward to my daily run no matter what the time of day or weather conditions. It is something to which I look forward, and I hope that never changes. This sport has been incredibly good to me! I would say that the secret to running every day is simple - just take one day at a time!

DON HUMPHREY'S STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

I'll be 74 in June and have been running for over 60 years, including Boston Marathon (2:39:15), a 1:51 half mile and a bunch of other PRs. My latest is a 2-year running streak of at least 2.3 miles a day, usually with a 5k on Sundays. Today [6 February 2020] (3.2 miles) was day #730 in a row - I can still run a 6:30 mile though my daily pace is anywhere between 7:45 and 9:45/mile, with a 10k race a few months back at 8:18/mile. One thing I love about running is that no matter your age or condition there are goals to set and records to be broken.

I'm still loving my running and enjoying the benefits that the streak has provided so far. I've recently switched to a vegan diet after an unsuccessful 3-months trying the paleo diet. However, this change also coincided with the worst marathon I've ever run. My legs just stopped moving. While I don't want to throw the baby out with the bathwater, I'm eager to find out why I had such a bad day when my training had been going so well. As disappointed as I was, I think its challenges like this that keep me so keen to learn and run every day.

DAVE DIAL REACHES 200,000 LIFETIME MILES

When I was six years old we lived on the outskirts of a small town in rural east Texas, in the shadow of the Davy Crockett National Forest.

For reasons unknown to my parents, following trips into town I began asking to get out of the car once we were outside the city limits and on the small dirt road leading back to our home.

Why? So, I could run the remainder of the way; a mile or so.

To this day I still recall watching the car pull away before waiting for the dust to settle to begin my run. Covering the distance on my own two feet I felt exhilarated, empowered and ultimately quite satisfied when I'd eventually trot up our driveway.

On the afternoon of February 6th, I selected a loop that would not only take me past my childhood home but more importantly, having begun logging my mileage the summer I turned 16, would put me at lifetime running mile 200,000 when I got there.

Upon reaching the same driveway I once came to a stop on as a small boy, I paused to take a selfie in order to commemorate the moment. There was no one there to greet me, no applause, no fanfare.

Nevertheless, I felt exhilarated, empowered and ultimately, quite satisfied...

ANDREAS WEICHERT JOINS SRI FROM CANADA/GERMANY

Running has been part of my life from very early on. My father was an athlete, and competed in the 1958 Pan American Games for Canada's gymnastics team. We ran together in my youth, mostly trail runs of 5 to 12 km. I ran on and off through University, never really thinking about competing. I never quite managed a sub 40-minute 10k, nor a sub 1:30 21k. But I never really trained either!

When my first child was born, I ran a 10km, my first race in 11 years at that time, without much training, in about 45 minutes. I realized I would have to work a little harder and smarter to get faster and to avoid the painful recovery week after races. I also started contemplating marathon distance, just sort of curiously wondering what that would be like.

In 2008, I ran my first 42.2, at the Ottawa Race Weekend. The first 30km in 2:30:00, and then my quads seized up - a painful 12.2

remained, spurred on because the family was waiting and "we're not going to wait around forever." I finished in 3:53. And limped home thinking, I can probably do better than that. And kept running.

I ran my 2nd marathon in 2010, in 3:19, and a colleague at work told me I had probably qualified for Boston. Turns out I had, and gave that a go in 2011, recording my still PB of 3:14:07 there. But now I had the bug! I ran Lake Baikal, 42.2 over the frozen surface of the world's biggest lake (by volume) in 2012, and again in 2013 (both times faster than my 2008 race). I started collecting World Marathon Majors, finishing the Six Stars in 2016. I dreamed of 7 Continents, I ran 59.2 km during Ottawa Race Weekends 2011 and 2015. In 2017, Ottawa in organizers called this "The Lumberjack Challenge" with a cool new medal, so I did it again in 2017 and 2018, my aging body placing 9th/131 overall. In 2019 I ran my 6th continent, in the Antarctica Ice Marathon, at degrees south, the southern-most 80 marathon in the world. I'm having fun!

So, I had streaked before, for weeks, and months. But it never caught my imagination, until I read about Ron Hill retiring his 52-year streak last year. The longest I had streaked (and recorded) was 105 days. Easter Sunday, April 21, 2019, I set out for a 12km, and have since been out every day for at least 3.04km (the distance around my current neighborhood). I have never not felt like it, and reveled so far at logistical challenges, which indeed included some airport runs between layovers, and undoubtedly will again. Last week, work had me out the door at 0530 and home at 2200. what to do, what to do! Easy, body woke me early at 430 and off for a run I went!

My second born asked recently, when will I stop. I said I don't know. She insists I should go for 1000 days. We shall see!

PETER ELLERKAMP'S STREAK HITS 4 YEARS

Year four of the streak was a wild one--I kept the streak alive after an emergency appendectomy and being hit by a car on my motorcycle! Both injuries resulted in emergency rooms visits and limited my total mileage because I had a few weeks of slow recovery runs.

I ended the year with about 1300 miles logged. Most of my runs were in California this year, but I also ran in MA, NH, and NV.

I've got my eyes on year five when I'll no longer be considered a "neophyte"--talk to you then!

LAUREN MCINTYRE'S STREAK ENDS AFTER 440 DAYS

Running every day had become as essential to my routine as brushing my teeth. I found out I was pregnant mid-January and was dreaming about how wonderful it would be to continue streaking throughout pregnancy and motherhood - but my first lesson in motherly sacrifice came pretty early! I had a complication that required resting from exercise for a week. The streak had to end!

At first, I was devastated, but I quickly came to realize that having "no pressure" during this time in my life was exactly what I needed. Some days I don't have the energy to do much more than go for a walk with the dog.

I'm looking forward to the day that I can begin streaking again, but until that time I'll do what I can for the health of me and my future child!

It was a pleasure streaking and I look forward to getting back to it at some point!

SCOTT REID'S STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

I have been running for many years, completing my first (and only) marathon in 2013, and more recently focusing on halfmarathons and shorter races. In late 2017, my running took on a new focus, as just before Christmas, my best friend was admitted to the ICU with a mysterious lung ailment. In the midst of my worry and concern, I began a run streak, honoring a friend who could not run. That streak has just reached two years. Below, I share from my running log some of the lessons, joys, and pains of this experience.

December 28, 2017, Day 1: The streak begins innocuously enough with a threemiler in cold (1 deg F) conditions. It won't be the coldest run of the year.

January 14, 2018, Day 18: After a six-mile run in bright sunshine, I develop Achilles pain in my left leg which I will battle for the next several weeks.

February 15, Day 50: I celebrate 50 days with a 5-mile run. The next day, while in Nashville on a business trip, I learn that my friend, recently readmitted into the ICU, has passed away. Stricken with grief, I pound through a three-miler in a drizzling rain that hides my tears.

March 31, Day 94: My first half-marathon of the year is run in near freezing cold and icy rain, and I finish in 2:05:30. Encouraged, I sign up for another half-marathon in early May, hoping for better weather. A week later, I celebrate 100 days of the streak by running 10 miles.

April 13, Day 107: Despite getting a flu shot earlier in the year, I fall victim. For the next several days, it is all I can do to pull myself off the couch for a 1 mile run on the treadmill.

May 12, Day 136: On the morning of a planned half-marathon, mysteriously my running watch (which serves as my only alarm) freezes up during the night, and I wake up late. Undeterred, I drive to my favorite trail and record an unofficial sub-2:00 (1:58:00) half-marathon.

July 3, Day 188: The curb incident. On an early morning run, I trip over the curb and do a faceplant on concrete. My watch (and ego) are shattered, I am bloodied and several ribs bruised (see pictures below). For the next two weeks, it is very painful to run. This accident puts an end to my fall marathon hopes.

September 15, Day 262: After a period of consistent training, I run (for the umpteenth time) a favorite local 8K race, finishing in 42:57, which shatters my previous best.

October 30, Day 307: I pass 1000 miles for the streak, on pace for my one-year goal of 1200.

November 9, Day 317: In training for an early December half-marathon, I have my annual health risk assessment at work. Cholesterol count relative to last year: HDL +15%, LDL -16%, dropping my ratio of total cholesterol/HDL below 4 (3.8) for the first time. The next day, an early season snowfall forces me to break out the winter running gear. December 3, Day 340: I run a local halfmarathon on a cold and rainy day. While I fail to break my sub-2-hour goal, finishing in 2:00:45, I improve my time over last year's race by some 8 minutes.

December 23, Day 361: A five-miler puts me over 1200 miles for the year, nearly doubling last year's total. This is what I love about running - the goals are so personal. For some runners, 1200 annual miles would be laughable; for others, it might seem insurmountable. We all run at our own pace, with our own goals.

December 28, 2018, Day 366: The day dawns cloudy, but some 40 degrees warmer than last year! Naturally, out come the shorts! An easy 3-miler provides time to reflect on the past year.

January 31, 2019, Day 400: The day brings minus 25 deg temperatures with minus 50 deg windchill. Two miles is the limit.

March 7, 2019, Day 428: First eye surgery of the year.

May 29, 2019, Day 518: Second eye surgery of the year leads to vertigo issues, which I battle for a week.

June 12, 2019, Day 532: Colonoscopy – the fun never stops!

July 21, 2019, Day 571: On the appropriately named Bugline Trail, I am attacked by a swarm of deer flies. My left hand, holding the water bottle, swells to twice its size by the end of the run, requiring me to take off my wedding ring.

October 3, 2019, Day 645: I pass 2000 miles for the streak.

December 1, 2019, Day 704: I run my first half-marathon of this year on a cold and rainy day, finishing in 2:08:20. Considering the year it's been, I'll take it and move on. December 27, 2019, Day 730: 50 degrees in late December? We'll take it.

So, what have I learned? Through joy, pain, injury, illness, accomplishment, disappointment, and loss, I have learned that what we do with the gift of today is all that really matters. Yesterday was the closing of a door, tomorrow is a day we may never see, today is all we have and all we need. So, today, let's lace them up and get out there! See you on the road.

DAVID VEILE'S STREAK HITS 9 YEARS

Today marks 9 years of running at least 5k a day. It was extra special because yesterday I was diagnosed with the flu.

We caught it early, so I my symptoms aren't too bad and I was able to take xofluza to shorten the duration. (And the doc did not oppose me running as long as I felt up to it, which I did.) It wasn't pretty, and it wasn't fast, but it marked 9 years!!!

Robert Lupton

ROBERT LUPTON JOINS USRSA

Robert Allen Lupton is 71 years old, retired, and lives in New Mexico where he is a commercial hot air balloon pilot. Robert runs and writes every day, but not necessarily in that order. More than a hundred of his short stories have been published in several anthologies including the New York Times best seller, "Chicken Soup For the Soul – Running For Good." His novel, Foxborn, was published in April 2017 and the sequel, "Dragonborn," in June 2018. His first collection, "Running Into Trouble," was published in October 2017. His collection, "Through a Wine Glass Darkly' was released in June 2019. His newest collection, "Straight From The Bottle," is scheduled for release in June 2020. Information is regularly updated on his blog, https://robertallenlupton.blogspot.com/ .

Robert started running when he was twelve, but didn't keep records until he was 22. He ran cross country in high school, where he chased the fast guys. Put on some weight in college and started running again.

For years, he ran before work in the dark. He got serious in his mid-thirties and ran twice a day and for the next twenty years, averaging between 60 and 70 miles a week. In those days, he was running sub 40-minute 10Ks and sub-20 5Ks. He ran a couple of races a month.

He ran his first marathon at age 50 and his last one, so far anyway, at age 57. Foot surgery forced him into three months off. Put on some weight and ran it back off. Cancer in 2012 kept him from running for 6 months. Read about it in 'Chicken Soup For The Soul -Running For Good.' He credits running with getting him through the chemo and radiation.

He ran his 100,000 mile in September 2018, three days before his 70th birthday.

He was never a streaker. He always took a day off every week or so. Last June, he realized he'd run for consecutive 50 days and thought, "I can do this." His streak will reach one year in April 2020.

During the streak he's run in rain, snow, sleet, fog, and 105-degree weather. Also, six states and three countries.

BILL ROBERTSON'S STREAK HITS 43 YEARS

Completed 43 years of at least three a day on February 7. The year was pretty uneventful – except for the weekend I came maybe the closest ever to ending the streak! I had an undiagnosed tick bite disease called Babiosis which destroys red blood cells.

After a blood test I was told to go to the emergency room to get a transfusion as my red blood cell count was dangerously low. But naturally they wanted to know why it was occurring first. Internal bleeding was quickly ruled out and I was looking at three or four days in the hospital to figure it out since this was the start of Labor Day weekend and we all know how slowly these things can get resolved.

But amazingly they figured it out overnight and put me on the right meds the next morning, didn't need a transfusion and was able to get out to run that night! That was quite lucky, really, and just goes to show you can't take anything for granted!

CHRIS MCKEE'S STREAK HITS 3 YEARS

It hadn't occurred the me that it was my 3year mark until I got your email. I had arrived to a race early and just happened to check my email.

I started my streak shortly after my third daughter was born to help stay motivated to keep running. I've kept the streak going on multiple business trips (including to Japan). I also kept it up during family road trips from Ohio to Colorado and Ohio to South Carolina. This past year I ran two 50ks and a 50-miler. The next days were brutal but I really think it helps speed up my recovery and prevent injuries in the long run.

I don't actually know how long I plan to keep doing this (no reason to stop now) but I am curious to hear others stories.

ROBERT BARKOVITZ'S STREAK HITS 3 YEARS

One of my greatest running moments this past year! On the way back home, on one of my usual routes, a car stopped ahead of me in a spot NO ONE ever stops. I assumed someone was going to ask me directions. NOPE. A woman climbs out followed by 5 middle school boys. Introducing herself, she said, "The boys are on a scavenger hunt. One item they need is 'a photo being friendly and giving a hug to a complete stranger."" "Can we take a group photo?" "WOW! Of course! How wonderful! What an honor!"

ANISSA THOMPSON'S STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

My streak is still going strong despite a surgery in August and broken wrist yesterday [18 February 2020].

There have been many 1.1-mile days in recent months. But it would take much worse events to derail me now. So far, I have 3 half marathons on the schedule and am debating a full trail marathon and maybe a fall or winter marathon.

I'm happy to be a part of such a dedicated community. Happy run streaking everyone.

CHARLIE HART'S STREAK ENDS AFTER 4,097 DAYS

I'm sad to report that a leg injury will end my streak today [17 February 2020]. My last run was 2/16.

I'm sad, but for 11+ years, running every day has brought me a lot of joy.

TERESA MORRIS' STREAK ENDS AFTER 1,869 DAYS

I injured my foot by rolling it on a tree root, then continued to run on it. I ended up causing soft tissue damage to my adductors/ pelvis by running with an awkward gait on my swollen foot. I am currently unable to run.

RON LANDRUM TO RUN 70 MILES FOR 70TH BIRTHDAY

Hi Everyone, well I'm on my way to my 30th year so my running is going fine. Our streaks give us so many pluses. They also keep us on track when pursuing challenges and goals. When I turned 50 and 60 I had my birthday parties at local High School tracks and ran 50 miles and 60 miles respectfully.

So now I turn 70 in April and my insanity returns. The homework running proceeds on target to run 70 miles on April 18 the day after my birthday. I've included the invitation and info. I hope anyone in San Francisco Bay Area or anyone visiting on that day can stop by, meet my world and join me for a few laps.

I hope all your 2020 runs are happy and go as planned. Anyone that wishes to contact me can use my email: RunRunRonL@msn.com.

Hit the 11-year mark on a healthy note, though running for over 35 years. Have put another Boston attempt on hold and just going outside to run "wherever" daily and trying to change things up as far as routes go. Most importantly, getting more sleep.

If you can fill the unforgiving minute With sixty seconds' worth of distance run, Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it, And---which is more---you'll be a Man, my son!

- Rudyard Kipling (1865-1936) from his poem If.

THE FINISH LINE By: Mark Washburne

The start of the New Year is always the busiest time for us. Maybe it is because we are entering a new decade but the beginning of 2020 was our busiest time ever. We surpassed some important milestones this last quarter with the number of streaks now listed on our website. We now list over 1,000 retired streaks, over 2,000 active streaks, and over 3,000 total (retired plus active) streaks.

Records were also set on January 1st as the day that still remains the most popular day to start a new running streak. As many of you know, I send congratulatory emails on behalf of Streak Runners International to all those on our list who celebrate their yearly running streak anniversary. My records indicate that I sent out 256 emails to those who started their streaks on New Year's Day. A quick check of our active list shows that another 44 runners have reached the one-year mark and claim 1 January 2019 as their starting date. We can, therefore, expect New Year's Day to continue to dominate as our most popular day to start a running streak.

This quarter we have also been busy celebrating 5-year streak anniversaries. If you check our "Steak Anniversaries" list on pages 2-4, you will see a record 101 runners who had a special 5-year anniversary that includes 12 athletes celebrating a streak of 25 years or more. The highlight from our anniversary list comes from Jim Pearson whose running streak hit 50 years. Started on 16 February 1970, the College Track Coach from Marysville, Washington, USA, has the second longest active running streak in the world. Also celebrating a big anniversary was the athlete who has the sixth long active streak in the world, Robert "Raven" Kraft (started 1 January 1975), whose streak hit 45-years. We also had three super streak runners who hit their 40th anniversary: Benjamin Freed (12 December 1979), Mark Courtney (20 December 1979), and Layne Party (1 January 1980). Another three runners celebrated 35-years: Sue Favor (12 December 1984), Joseph Raffa (26 December 1984), and Leonard Bruckman (10 February 1985). Congratulations to all our athletes who hit an important streak anniversary.

Besides being busy with so many of our athletes surpassing important milestones, our running streak association was also kept busy updating our lists on our website. We now have all the streaks from around the world on one list. We kept our United States list and also added separate lists for athletes living in the United Kingdom, Canada, and Sweden. We will continue to list streaks from countries with few athletes on a separate list called "Other Countries." Our intention is to develop more country lists as the numbers justify developing a separate list for a particular country. I want to thank our web designer, Loren Long, for making these new lists possible and streak runner, Mia Strand, with help with translation into Swedish.

In developing a world-wide list, we had to address the dating issue that various countries use different methods. In the United States, most people use MONTH/DAY/YEAR whereas many other countries use DAY/MONTH/YEAR. To avoid confusion, we did not adopt either of these methods but decided to use YEAR/MONTH/DAY as the best way to list the start and end dates of streaks.

As for me, I also celebrated a big streak anniversary this quarter. My running streak surpassed 30 years at the end of December. I was fortunate to celebrate my big day in Miami Beach, Florida with Raven Kraft, whose streak hit 45-years the next day. Completing the Raven Run I earned the coveted nick-name from Raven as "Do Run." My wife, Diane, who earned the Raven name "Fall Winter," accompanied me and writes about Raven's 45th Anniversary run on page 11.

Looking ahead, I am scheduled to run my 16th consecutive Boston Marathon this April. Steve DeBoer, who has the 3rd longest active running streak in the world, is also running Boston this year. We plan to do a group run on the day before the marathon (Sunday, 19 April) tentatively starting at the finish line on Boylston Street at 8a.m. - will confirm closer to run. If in Boston, please join us.

As always, I want to wish everyone good luck as we each run the roads and trails – every day!
