MARK WILLIAMS BREAKS M 50 WORLD RECORD FOR INDOOR 800 METERS*; HIS RUNNING STREAK HITS 13 YEARS

By: Mark Williams
Columbia, New Jersey

In high school I earned All Area first team honors for the 800m during 1991 track season in Sussex while attending Sussex Vo-tech in Sparta NJ. I had the fastest 800 in the county that year at 2:02.3 which was also my high school PR. I went on to attend Rutgers where I competed Division 1 in track and field. During my junior and senior years, I was a member of the indoor 4x800 team that earned all east honors in the IC4A conference.

Mark Williams (#8)

I'm currently an engineer at Verizon working for the Network Implementation group as a project manager. I have been active on the Master's track and field Circuit since 2013 and garnered several honors which include multiple NJ State and National titles in 800m, 1500m and the Mile both indoors and outdoors. I am a member of the 4x800 indoor relay team who has the M40-44 World Record with a time of 7:49.90. I recently broke the indoor M50 800m World Record (pending ratification) with a time of 1:59.30. I have been consistently ranked as one of the top middle-distance runners in the US and the world in my age group. Below are a few of my accomplishments.

Mark Williams (USA)

At the Masters level I coached myself. With my B.S. degree in Exercise Science and my collegiate experience I was able create a strength training and fall base building program along with an early, mid, and end of season training schedule. This allowed me to build fitness throughout the season and be able to peak during Championship time. My official coaching title career started here with Blair where I have been able to share my knowledge and experience with the staff and students to help enhance the track and field program.

My success which I have seen on the track has deep meaning to me. It shows that with dedication and consistent hard work you can reach heights you thought were not possible.

The passion I have for track and is similar to what I have in life. Work hard, share the knowledge, and try to raise everybody up with you. Because as with life it takes a village to do most everything meaningful and sport, especially track and field, is no different.

Jim Pearson

OCTOGENARIAN JIM PEARSON CONTINUES STREAK
STARTED ON 16 FEBRUARY 1970;
HAS SECOND LONGEST STREAK IN THE WORLD

“I turned 80 today”

By: Jim Pearson
Marysville, Washington

I turned 80 today [30 April 2024] and entered a unique group of runners. There are very few of us with over 40 years of consecutive days of running who have run through our 70's, so maybe we can be an inspiration to the younger streakers. The oldest is Lois Bastien, age 87, and 23rd on the all-time list, with Ward D. Crutcher a few spots behind at age 84. Barbara Latta in 34th spot is 82. Simon Laporte is now on the retired list but kept his streak going until age 83.

Being this old doesn't feel like a big deal. Other than being much slower than I once was, I don't find anything different from 40 years ago. Being one of the oldest at something can be really cool. The oldest to climb Mt. Everest, for example, would be great, but to be one of the oldest to do something every day certainly has its limits. There has to be a tomorrow, another run, or we drop off the list.

I entered my 70's 14 years after a specialist told me I could never run again due to multiple right knee injuries inflicted upon me by my son Hopper (Retired list: 7.56 years), who had come home with a new move called the leg lace which I allowed him to demonstrate on me. I knew the good doctor was wrong since I had just completed a 4.5-mile run. Around 12 years later, I jammed my heel against my butt {Note: my flexibility does not allow that ever} while rapidly climbing over a bed/table while assisting at a production of the Rocky Horror Show in which my daughter Paige (Retired list: 2.81 years) was a dancer and choreographer. That, too, led to a few months of excruciating pain. Mostly, though, it is just an annoying issue that I can deal with. There were a few setbacks over the years. I had brachytherapy treatment for prostate cancer while in my sixties, pneumonia a couple of times, and hernia surgery a few years ago.

I no longer run in races. I ran a few in my early sixties and added final marathon running the tough Birch Bay marathon in 3:52:46 when I was 65. I did race twice at age 75 and 76 when coaching a high school cross country team that was involved in an all-day series of races that ended in a community run. My option was to drive back to the school on the other side of the Cascade Mountains and then home before running or to compete in their race. I ran 30:03 over a tough three-mile course where the best high school runners cannot match their best 5k times. The next year I ran close to the same time in that race.

As a competitor I ran fairly high mileage with peak years of 6,176 and 6,027 but in my later years have not been very concerned with mileage, though I would like to do at least 100 a month. I was five miles short my first week in my 70's and then ran 69 straight before running into difficulties. Of the others who have run through their 70's, I am only aware of Simon's who said his minimum was 6K. Steve DeBoer should do an article on age level mileage.

My mileage by age:

70	1,356.1	71	1,773	72	1,342.4
73	1,315.5	74	1,313.3
			6,500.3 miles
75	1,221.3	76	1,281.9	77	1,288.2

Traversing the Tundra - 60% Solution Update

By: Steve DeBoer

For those of you not familiar with the most famous fictitious detective, Sherlock Holmes, one of his most well-known quotations was, "The game is afoot!" which obviously refers to the necessity of being very physically fit to work as a private investigator, with running being the fastest form of foot power. Mr. Holmes was also noted for using a 7% solution (of cocaine), when he had no interesting cases going on and got bored playing his violin. As streak runners, we have less of a propensity for "Coke," as things go better for us when we experience the 60% solution – that is the attempt to run daily for at least 60% of our lives. Among streak runners, it is more challenging than covering 100,000 miles (114 of our group have accomplished that).

Though Ted Corbitt and Bob Ray were the earliest US streak runners that have been certified, neither of them actually achieved 60% (Bob was at 55.9% when he retired his 38-year streak in 2005). Bob Hensley was the first to reach 60% in 1992. Mark Covert followed in 1995 and Steve DeBoer in 1996. For comparison, Ron Hill, who began his running streak December 1964, at age 26, did not reach 60% until age 67 in 2005 (he was at 66.5% when his 52-years of daily runs ended in January 2017).

Lois Bastien, who has the longest running streak by a woman (44 years) is only at 51%, since she began daily runs after age 42. She will not reach 60% until she is almost 108 years old! On the other hand, Sierra Stempke started her streak before age 4 and would be at 67% if she has continued daily runs.

Twenty years ago, there were only 9 runners in this category in the US. Now there are 60, some of whom are now below 60%, having discontinued streak running. Bob Hensley was also the first to reach 70% in 2006, before his 3rd running streak ended. Currently 12 have been over 70%, including Joel Pearson, who began his streak before his 9th birthday.

Here is the list of those who have run at least one mile daily (along with their age and years of longest streak) for at least 60% of their life as of June 1, 2024:

*streak not registered

Steve DeBoer was the first documented streak runner to have run daily for 75% of his life, though that was not “US Streak Association official,” since he ran less than 1 mile several times the first 10 ½ months.

Joel Pearson has passed Steve if we only count the one-mile minimum streaks.

Ron Hill was the only person that we knew of outside of the US who had run daily over 60% of one’s life (66% when daily runs ended) until Simon Laporte of Quebec certified his streak a few years ago, which reached 65.6% when his streak stopped in Jan 2024.

Rick Rayman of Ontario currently has the longest running streak outside of the US at 45.5 years and has now done it daily 58% of his life.

Sue Favor was the first woman over 60%, and Julie Maxwell, with two running streaks, was the second. Sierra and Jackson Stempke were less than 5 and 6 years old when they began daily running and would be at 67% and 61% now, but I have not been able to confirm from their Dad that they are still running daily.

PATTY SINGLEY JOINS USRSA FROM LOUISIANA

I started running in 2013 and have accumulated over 11,000 miles. I started my current running streak on 1/01/2023 running at least one mile a day. I have completed six full marathons and numerous shorter races.

My favorite distance to run is the 10k. In the 2023 Run Through History 10k - Vicksburg National Military Park, I took home the 10k Women's Masters award. Above is a running photo of me from the 2018 Mississippi Blues Marathon finish line pic - my marathon PR.

MIKE JOHNSTON'S STREAK ENDS AFTER 5,496 DAYS

Due to Open Heart surgery on January 15, 2024, my streak of just over 15-years ended at 5,496 days. I ran that morning but after two days of surgery, did not awaken until Jan. 17. It's now been five weeks and I'm up to a couple miles of walking every day, but advised not to run for at least another month.

As a lifetime member, I will maintain interest regardless of my decision of whether or when to start another streak. Good fortune to all those still in the race!

MILTON MAGNESS' STREAK ENDS AFTER 13,905 DAYS

My streak ended on October 17, 2023, the day before I received a pacemaker. My streak ran for 38.1 years, covered a little over 40,000 miles, placing me 38th on the streak registry.

Because of other heart related concerns and in consultation with my doctors, I have determined to turn from running to walking.

I have been blessed to be able to run in many countries and a variety of settings. I never ran with headphones because I wanted to listen to my body and also focus on the landscape around me.

I retired as a psychotherapist, and sold my practice at the beginning of Covid and subsequently started a ministry to the homeless and devoting more time to writing historical novels. With the onset of my health concerns, my focus is living life to the fullest and, at the end of the day, looking back on the day without regrets.

Through the years, I've enjoyed reading the newsletter you have so faithfully prepared. Thank you for your passion about a shared passion of mine. As for now, I plan to spend more time traveling and writing and taking vigorous walks. I even miss a walk occasionally, unlike my years of running.

Kyle Branscum

KYLE BRANSCUM
JOINS USRSA;
STREAK STARTED IN 2005

My running streak began on January 1, 2005 when my New Year's resolution was to run 1500 miles. Surpassing my goal by running every day that year, I continued my daily running habit into 2006 and beyond by running at least a mile a day.

At the time, I did not know streak running was a thing, and it wasn't until years later someone told me about the United States Running Streak Association after they had found it online.

As with any streak runner, I am sure, running through illness and injuries are always the most difficult days to keep the streak alive, but also the most satisfying days once the run is complete. For over 19 years, I've gone through many phases of my running career. At times training for local 5k's and other times just doing enough to keep the streak going.

In late 2019, I ran my first half marathon shortly before COVID lockdowns began in 2020. Maybe because there was little else to do during lockdowns, or maybe because I was ready for a new challenge, I started training for a marathon during the pandemic and I am happy to say I have completed three since, with my fourth being the Boston Marathon this April.

While there are times finding the motivation to go out on a daily run is difficult, I look forward to continuing my streak for as long as I can and am happy to now be part of the USRSA community.

RODNEY WALKER'S STREAK ENDS AFTER 1,415 DAYS

Just wanted to pop in and let you know that my running streak ended on 3-13-24. Various knee, leg issues caused this.

It's sad for sure, but I'll still be running... just won't be able to continue the daily mile.

JONNY BREEZE'S STREAK ENDS AFTER 1,072 DAYS "Video Killed The Radio Star, Hydrocele Killed The Run Streak"

14th February 2024.

After careful consideration, I've made the incredibly tough decision to conclude my run streak as of yesterday, 13th February 2024, after 1,073 consecutive days of running at least 5k every single day.

Throughout this journey, I've faced numerous challenges, all of which I have conquered through sheer self-discipline. From enduring cold, rainy days to pushing through hangovers, injuries, and illnesses, including a run just after midnight due to flying that day and not having another time to get it done, and even a memorable run post-drinks (5 beers and 2 sambuca; it's a story in itself!), each experience has added to a rich tapestry of memories over these 1,072 days.

Reaching this milestone, achieving what I set out to do, and surpassing my own limits has given me such a positive outlook across every single area of my life. Kudos to run streaking!!!

However, the reason I've had to break my run streak is surgery. It's very important I listen and take note of the expert medical advice given to me by the doctors and surgeons who operated on me yesterday, as well as me knowing myself it's not right to run in my current condition. Prioritizing my recovery has to trump maintaining my run streak (as much as that pains me – pardon the pun).

I take immense pride in transforming what began as a 100-day challenge into a lifestyle discipline spanning 1,072 days. Though I fell short of reaching my next target, "Gump Day" by 98 days—where Forrest Gump famously ran for 3 years, 2 months, 14 days, and 16 hours (totaling 1,170 days)—surpassing the 1,000-day mark is a significant achievement, earning my metaphorical "running comma."

This journey has taught me invaluable lessons, showcasing the power of self-discipline in overcoming obstacles (except for this one—surgery) and the far-reaching benefits of a run streak, fostering a positive outlook in every aspect of my life.

Establishing and adhering to long-term goals has profoundly impacted my life, and I've developed a deep love for running! It has become an integral part of my daily routine, offering moments of reflection, serving as a stress reliever and a form of meditation, and giving me 25 minutes of "me time" each and every day—a precious commodity in today's busy world!

I'd like to take this opportunity to thank every single one of YOU who has followed and supported ME along this journey. You have been truly wonderful individuals with such kind hearts. Rest assured, though this marks the end of one chapter, it's certainly not the end of my story.

Leap2Leap Run Streak Challenge

23rd February 2024.

Assuming all goes according to plan and I achieve the speedy and complete recovery I'm hoping for, I intend to kick off a fresh run streak on Thursday 29th February. I'm calling it the #leap2leap run streak challenge, where the goal is to run from one leap year to the next, spanning from 29th February 2024 to 29th February 2028—a span of 4 years, surpassing the run streak I just had to cut short. I'm absolutely buzzing with excitement about it!

On top of that, I have my very first 100k Ultra-Marathon coming up at the end of May, which I need to prepare for!

Exciting times lie ahead... to keep up with my journey, feel free to follow me on Instagram: <https://www.instagram.com/jonny5krunstreaker/>

Let's do this!

THOMAS COSGROVE'S STREAK ENDS AFTER 1,212 DAYS

My third running streak ended on Feb 8th when after running for 3 days with a sore left knee, it buckled while running.

I had completed over 1 mile so the streak ended the next day. Diagnosis revealed a torn meniscus and I'm hoping PT calms it down to avoid surgery.

I may be back someday.

SARAH CURETON'S STREAK HITS 7 YEARS

With this streak anniversary I ended year 7. I upped my mileage in January and have registered for a 3-day RunDisney event in April!

I've made running various distance races a goal this year, my children are older now (10 and 7) and that lends more flexibility! Cruising along and loving my daily runs! Happy streaking all!

JESSICA REDIS' STREAK HITS 4 YEARS

Hi! As I embark on year 5 of my daily run streak (my first leap year!), I look back and am amazed at how far I've come (9,472 miles, in fact!)

My streak started as 5 daily miles the first year but then became 6 miles (I've only run 4 miles 3 times during the streak - and that includes two bouts of COVID, surgery, and the loss of my father).

This last year I ran the USA-TF NE Mountain Goat Series (including Mt. Washington), the NYC Marathon and then three weeks later a treadmill (!) marathon to support a friend.

I thought I'd share a story from my childhood/hometown running club (Taconic Road Runners in NY; I now live in MA and also am a member of Team Gloucester). It sums up how I started running and my love of my father, who passed away the morning after my first ultra-marathon. My last conversation with him was recounting the day. He was so proud. Thank God for running and long may we run.

DOM THOMAS' STREAK HITS 4 YEARS

I started this running streak with no intention of starting a running streak.

It was COVID times and I had to run. Had to run. Had to run to keep sane and cope with the madness all around us.

I'm lucky I lived in Switzerland - and lucky I still do - and it was a place that valued and encouraged being active and out and about.

So, I started something...

...and here we are. First it was a year, then 500 days, then two years, then 1000 days. And now it's 4 years.

Some stats:

1460 days
10726 km
4 Jungfrau Marathons

It's not necessarily great training. It's not necessarily wise.

But, it is necessary!

Keep moving forwards. One step at a time. Hopp Hopp.

MARITA SERS' STREAK HITS 6 YEARS

2192 days of running, that means 6 years! That's so long that my kids don't remember me not running and that's so long that it feels like I started a lifetime ago...

It started as a tryout and with the goal to keep going as long as it felt "fun."

Honestly, everyday hasn't been fun... But every day has made me feel strong, and persistent.

I will keep going as long as it's gaining me and as long as I have the ability... because everybody hasn't.

I run because I can! And I stop when I choose!

Throughout these years, the world has battled a pandemic and I battled cancer treatment with chemo and surgery... Through the rough years the streak got important and helped me stay focused and it helped me stay sane.

I also helped me be grateful and proud and it encourages me to stay healthy and try my best to be a role model for my kids and my near and dear.

I hope to be able to run for many more years! I'm just a proficient. :-)

BRENT BURMASTER'S STREAK HIT 31 YEAR

My streak is still going. My dog, Boomer, who ran with me for almost 1/2 my streak passed away last week (March 7). She was 15 years old. Really miss her every day. I am including a picture of me running with Boomer and my 2 Great Pyrenees (Mudslide and Avalanche). The Great Pyrenees were born 4 years after Boomer was born and passed away a couple years ago.

JAMIE LOGAN'S STREAK HITS 4 YEARS

I'm still running every day and still loving (almost) every minute of it! I run a spring and a fall marathon each year to ensure that I'm always training for something. I love the challenge of a really long run.

BOSTON MARATHON
RACE DIRECTOR
DAVE MCGILLIVRAY'S
STREAK HITS 3 YEARS
"3 YEARS – NOW WHAT?"

Today, March 13, 2024, I reach 3-years of running 3.5-miles a day or more without missing a day. I know that is peanuts compared to what others have accomplished which is mind boggling...but since I only decided to start this 3-years ago that is as long as my streak can be right now!

If I want to reach a 50-year streak like some others, well, I'll just have to live until I am almost 120-years old. Anything is possible, right?

I started on March 14, 2021 which is Mark Washburne's birthday. He asked me back then if I thought I could run at least a mile every day for a year. I replied, I know I can, I just don't know if I want to! Well, I obviously did but didn't stop after year one!

However, I am going to play it by ear a bit now as to whether to continue this streak or not. I know I can do it but my more important goal is to get faster and stronger this coming year as I turn 70 and I'm sure some "rest" is the best way to achieve this. I feel great now but feel a little slow. I don't like slow...relatively speaking. It's been fun just seeing if I could run a few years without missing a day though. We'll see.

KYLE LAWRENCE'S STREAK HITS 4 YEARS

I started my run streak during the pandemic in hopes of running until I wasn't healthy enough to do so: I've run with Covid and other sicknesses since, but it's become such a part of my day. It's been a blessing to look forward to my 15-60 minutes outside, rain, snow, or shine!

ALEXANDER KRULL'S STREAK HITS A DECADE

I am happy to be celebrating ten years of my running streak. It's really helped me put in perspective just how long ten years is.

I've been a member of several run clubs over those years and run more than 100 races. My favorite racing accomplishment was a 2:45:21 in the 2019 iteration of the Chicago Marathon.

One of my favorite overall running achievements was the completion of a 5000-mile year in 2018. All told I've logged over 31,000 miles since the streak began. These past ten years have been amazing. Here's to the next ten!

Alexander Krull

JEFF ZEHA'S STREAK HITS 7 YEARS

Another year down, 7 so far. In that time, I was able to finish the 6 major marathons. I've also run through pneumonia (wouldn't recommend), injuries, world travel, and busy days.

Have a big challenge ahead of me with a planned marathon in Australia, where I lose 2 days on the way out. Hopefully, I'll navigate that and continue on until I can't anymore.

It's been an adventure, one that I wouldn't trade. Congrats to everyone else out there doing this crazy thing with me.

Jeff Zeha

TROY HORNER'S STREAK HITS 4 YEARS

Another year in the books to extend my running streak to 4 years! Over the past year, I was able to complete 2 full marathons and an ultra-marathon, which marked 20 marathons in a 10-year period.

I did have Achilles tendonitis and Plantar Fasciitis over the past year after my 3rd race. I had to lessen the daily mileage for a couple of months but I was able to get through it and keep the run streak going! I am looking forward to keeping the streak rolling and another year (at least) to get to the 5-year mark!

Michael Rosenblatt

MICHAEL ROSENBLATT'S STREAK HITS 5 YEARS

It started on a friendly bet! In mid-April 2018 I was sitting at a leadership meeting with a group of colleagues. About four weeks earlier we had pulled off two consecutive meetings for about 900 employees each. One in Las Vegas, NV and another in London, England with just two days between the travel from one to the other. As the first meeting commenced, a colleague and fellow runner suggested that the only way we would make it through the demanding schedule was to stay healthy. That meant a run every day before the meeting!

I was already an avid runner and ran most days. With a travel schedule that regularly took me around the world, a run as soon as I got to my hotel became routine. It was a great way to get through the jet lag, stretch out after a long flight, and get some fresh air. While I ran often, I certainly skipped a day here and there. Sometimes it just wasn't convenient, or I just needed a day off. I was running 5-6 days a week but was not yet on a streak!

Back to the meeting, we had taken a deep dive into what drives us as leaders and human beings. As moved out of reflection and into sharing mode, people were sharing accomplishments, facts, and really anything non-work related as we got to know one another on a deeper level. I happened to blurt out that I had been running for about 25 days in-a-row at that point. Another colleague challenged back, "I bet you can't get to fifty!" and a running streak was born.

Of course, a dare to get to fifty days-in-a-row was, in my head, a challenge to get to 100. At 100, you think to yourself I can certainly make it to one year and at one year you can't help but think about year two. Now it has been five which is a goal that I have had in my head really since year two.

I've run at 3:00am on a treadmill at a hotel in Portugal before an early flight. I've run at midnight at a hotel in Chicago when flights were delayed since I wasn't sure what the next day would bring. I've also had the pleasure of running in Australia, Japan, China, Switzerland, the UK, South Korea, across the United States, and many other places around the world. I ran the virtual race across Tennessee during COVID. And when everyone was in lockdown, my colleague and I would meet in a park in San Francisco and get in our runs. I even managed to get out most days during the 2018 California wildfires.

I travel less now these days and I can mostly be found on a nice trail near my home in northern California. My weekly goal is 43 miles. I race here and there. I occasionally run with a group of friends, and while my colleague and I no longer work together we still meet occasionally for a run. Mostly though, running is just for me. It is a chance for me to get out and enjoy the outdoors. I listen to books, I think, I just lose myself in the enjoyment.

I'm not sure what is next, and I don't know what the next five years will bring. But I do know that I am going to go running today [18 March 2024]. I don't know about tomorrow yet, but that is ok because the trail and a good book beckon!

ANGELA KAVALLIERATOS’ STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

I originally started my streak in December 2021, but due to a serious head injury that caused a vestibular neuritis, I was left unable to walk or open my eyes. I restarted my streak the day I could run a minimum of a mile.... and here I am 2 years later, loving every minute of every run. Whether it is a little run around the block, a barefoot run on the local sports grounds or tackling a 22km mountain run.

Running in the bustling city streets of Joburg, I found my run groove again. Most mornings I laced up my shoes and hit the pavement, joining the rhythm of urban life with the Tyrone Harriers. Any chance I got, I would find the greenbelts of Joburg and this is where I truly found my solace and sanctuary.

But then, like a chapter turning in the story of my life, I found myself standing at a crossroads. The call of the mountains beckoned, their silent majesty whispering promises of adventure and serenity. With a bittersweet farewell to the city that had shaped me, I embraced the unknown and embarked on a new journey to Cape Town.

In the transition from city streets to mountain trails, I found not just a change of scenery, but a transformation of spirit. The journey had been a testament to the power of resilience, adaptability, and the unwavering passion that drives us forward. And as I continued to run, with the mountains as my witness, I knew that every step was a celebration of the journey that had brought me here, and the endless adventures that lay ahead.

AMANDA ROSEN'S STREAK HITS 3 YEARS

Until I saw the email from SRI, I had forgotten all about the three-year anniversary. I had to take a look at the calendar before I realized that this was really the day. I have focused on my Forrest Gump day that will fall in the beginning of June and which I hope to celebrate by running extra-long, eating something really good and watching the movie (for the first time, actually).

During these three years I have run mostly in my nearest forest, to the grocery store to pick up a parcel or a packet of coffee and to the chicken coop that I manage with my neighbors. But I have also run in Tromsø in northern most Norway, in Helsinki, Hamburg, Cologne, Frankfurt, Brussels, and on the Cape of Good Hope in South Africa.

Most of my runs have been the minimum one mile, in between meetings or household chores. For the next year I will keep striving to let the running take time and go further.

The hardest run so far was last Easter. I was in a cabin in the Norwegian mountains and had been running on top of the deep snow for a week. But one of the last days was too warm and the snow could not hold me any longer so I sank to my knees. I had to take out a shovel and make a path. I ran a couple of meters, shoveled, ran back and forth, shoveled again, until I had run and shoveled my way around the house. It took me some time, but the next morning I could take an easy run of 40 laps. :)

My running streak gives me a baseline for each day. No matter how low, angry or sad I have felt, I go out and experience the weather and the season, and I always feel better afterwards. And I have learned that despite my previous belief, I am a person that can wake up at 5 in the morning and go out running (but only if I really have to).

Tonight [21 March 2024] I will have a three-year celebration beer (or two) together with the members of my book club.

Today [22 March 2024] is a very important day in my life, because 4 years ago, on March 23, 2020, I decided to run every day and hold out for at least a month. But it's already 1461 days, and I still run every day and still love running with all my soul.

I love this sports hobby of mine and I'm glad that it fits perfectly into my life, despite strength training and so on. So today I will celebrate my personal running holiday, but also begin the journey to 5 years of daily running. I wish everyone success in training and favorite activities March 27th 2024 marks 4 years of run streaking! I started in 2020 as the pandemic was shutting the world down and races were being cancelled. I was looking for a way to stay motivated, so I started a run streak. Minimum of 3 miles, outside, every day. I had no idea it would last this long.

During this period, I've run 5 marathons, 7 half marathons, one 50k, and I'm training for my first 50 miler. I've logged 10,972 miles during the streak and have no plans to stop anytime soon!

JOY KOGUT'S STREAK HITS 7 YEARS

Another year around the sun! I have run every day for the past 7 years. All but six of those days were pounding the pavement, dirt road, or trail, which can be tricky in Vermont's winters.

The six days I did not run outside, I was in the hospital for a chronic illness this past July. I convinced my treatment team to let me go to physical therapy each day (unrelated to my illness) so I could use their treadmill to get my miles in.

I pride myself on running in all sorts of conditions, weather, and sickness. Last weekend [message dated 30 March 2024], I ran with snowshoes through the 31 inches we got over 36 hours!

I am grateful for this community and I hope everyone enjoys their next mile.

Now that COVID is behind us and my travels for work is picking up to pre-COVID status, my streak is continuing through different cities across North America. ## MORTEN HUSEBY'S STREAK HITS 3 YEARS

Hey all! Finally reached the 3-year mark! Feels good to achieve this on days 1095 and 1096 (have to include the leap year). Strangely enough, the 100-day mark feels like yesterday and the time from 0 to 100 feels a lot longer than from 100 to 1095. I guess it's all down to habit at this point.

I'd like to share some thoughts on running and mental health as I've been struggling with depression over the last 6-7 years. It's of course a bumpy ride, but after the run streak started and I set the goal to just get out and run every day. My mental condition has improved and my cognitive sense is stronger than ever. It's no secret that physical activity strengthens not only the body, but also the brain. I have to admit that in the lows it's a nightmare to get into the shoes and out, but the reward after even a short 2k run is a lighter day.

So, my clear recommendation to everyone with some mental issues, or not, is just to keep going. Get out, listen to the world around you, experience your world. Because it is your world and you actually have the power to make it the best world for you! You just have to be present! Keep going! :D

CARI YERKES' STREAK HITS 4 YEARS

I am excited to have celebrated my 4-year (1461 days!) anniversary of my run streak. I started in the heart of the pandemic in 2020 after my Mid-March marathon was cancelled.

My mileage has fluctuated a bit due to injuries but I have logged 4610 miles during the last 4 years. I have run in 2 countries and 8 different states. I celebrated my 3rd year runstreakiversary on the beach in Jamaica.

I did not intend to run for this long but I have found the streak to be a fantastic challenge and an accomplishment to be proud of! Some of my favorite runs have been with my family on our annual Turkey Trot or just in the neighborhood where we live.

The support from my family and this run streak community has been a true blessing. Thanks for support!

Running for about 38 years and now being over 60, I'm still active and competing in Triathlons, Ultra-running-, Ultra-hiking-, Mountain-biking-Events, and many more.

This streak running is very helpful in giving my training structure and consistency, because if I miss any other training, in the gym, the pool, on the bike or whatever, I have my daily run done and that's great and feels good.

I hope that this streak is going on for a very long time. :-) In order to try something new as I get older, I started my very small YouTube channel:

My streak is still alive, 10 years, all outside. My average is about 5.25 miles per run.

I had a streak within a streak that recently ended at 2,475 days running at least 5.5 miles. While on vacation in Cancun running an old jungle trail, I tripped and landed awkwardly on an imbedded boulder and broke 3 ribs. Had to cut back to a mile run for the next two days. Ran 2 to 3.5 miles a day for the next couple of weeks. Who would think you need ribs to run?

VIDAR UTHNE'S STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

Hello from Southern Norway! I'm still running! March 31, I passed 2 years (731 days) running, and have no plans for an end to it, as long as it makes me feel good.

I'm a former cyclist, but had to make changes when I got visually impaired some years ago. Then it was time heading up for running, again - like I did in my younger days.

Now, at the age of 62, I find calmness and inspiration in running; mostly early in the morning, and in all sorts of weather, temperature and conditions.

In "my part" of the world, spiked shoes are worn for nearly 4 months in winter. Temperatures this winter were down to 42 degrees below zero (treadmill-days). But during spring and summer the world turns into a green paradise, good temperatures and a lot of rain.

The changes of seasons, experiencing new places (run-seeing), and a pretty good teamwork with both body and soul, we're heading forward.....

WILLIAM ROGERS' STREAK HITS 22 YEARS

Yes, as of last Sunday [7 April 2024] I have completed 22 years of streak running. 8036 days and 75204.7 miles.

This is not something I really set out to do. I just decided to run each day. Days turned into weeks, then months, and then years. I started running seriously while I was still in the military to do well on a Physical Fitness test. I ran so well that one of my friends said I should enter some local races because I could probably place in my age group. I entered and placed in most of my local races. I raced 5Ks through marathons for the next 25 or 30 years. I've run almost 30 marathons, winning 2 small marathons and running Boston 3 times.

I have passed down this joy of running to my daughter who had run for over 3 and a half years without missing a day until she had her first child. She was running the day before her daughter was born. She took 2 weeks off, but is now back at it again. That is probably my biggest accomplishment. Passing on my joy of running to my daughter.

I do not race any more, nor do I run very fast, but I have averaged over 9.3 miles per day during my streak. I try to cut back my mileage but am still averaging almost 7 miles per day. I don't have a goal of getting to a certain number of years. My goal, as it has always been, is to run today. So far, I have met that goal 8036 times in a row.

JACKIE WEINKAUF'S STREAK HITS 3 YEARS

My streak began April 9, 2021 shortly after my 55th birthday. After never wanting to run, the pandemic had me going stir crazy. With no gyms open I needed some consistency. I ran my first mile that day and haven't looked back.

All of my streak miles have been outdoors. I live in Alberta, Canada so that can be challenging.

Over 3 years I've run in seven countries and have participated in 9 races. Recently found love for trail running. Looking ahead to running my first Ultra in the fall. I run for me, I run my race, I run my pace. I've become mentally and physically stronger, slowly building confidence with the sport. This run streak has no end date. I hope to run as long as I am able, maybe even finding a second comma on my run streak days.

The picture was my 1000 day run. My daughter (taking the pic) my friend, granddaughters, and husband all did a celebratory mile in -25°C with me.

MICHAEL MANNINGS' STREAK HITS 7 YEARS

My 7th year of my streak has been a successful one for me with PBs at 5k, half marathon and marathon. The hardest days to keep the streak going have been the days after marathons, when the legs are very tender!

I still love running whether its racing, training or commuting to and from work. I always appreciate the physical, mental and social benefits I get from running and hope to keep my streak going another year!

BILL REINKING'S STREAK HITS 5 YEARS

It's hard to believe that I'm celebrating 5 years of my running streak. What began as a challenging goal of 30 days has become something so much more than I had ever anticipated.

Days became months, and months became years. I ran on days that I didn't want to, cold, rainy, achy. I ran on happy and sad days. The context didn't matter. I just kept going one more day.

It's inspired multiple marathons and an exploration into other paths for my fitness. Thanks to what I've learned about myself and my fitness from my streak, I will be taking on my first Ironman this September, all because I took the first step in creating consistency through my run streak. I'm so grateful for those that supported me and created their own streak with me and along the way.

So, my advice? Just continue to put one foot in front of the other, one day at a time.

Bill Reinking

ROB CLOWER'S STREAK HITS 5 YEARS

Thanks for checking in! My streak continues, having weathered a two-month bout of pyiformis syndrome and a couple of one-mile slogs around a hotel parking lot with Covid.

Next little challenge is an upcoming two-night, train journey from Chicago to LA. I've done a little research, and get the impression that running in place probably isn't acceptable, so it looks like the Albuquerque crew change stop will be my big chance - a mile on the station platform! I'm sure I won't be the first.

TOM YOUNG'S STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

Glad to finish the first 2 years of my running streak just shy of my 55th birthday.

The streak has been invaluable to me. I have found daily running very protective to the strains of playing racquet sports 6 times per week. I also love to run before a hard match, being warmed up and ready to go while my opponents are still sluggish!

I run a minimum of 3 miles per day, averaging around 5 miles per day. Hope to continue until I'm 100 years old!

JONAS NOREN'S STREAK HITS 3 YEARS

It is amazing that I have managed to keep my run streak alive for three years. And it will continue, hopefully for many more years.

My body is holding up, physically, I am very grateful for that. It is also relaxing, a pleasant way to process thoughts from the day's work. I've been regularly exercising most of my life, but never managed to do it this consistently. I take a much more long-term view of my running when I train every day and I have a much more relaxed and undemanding approach to training.

My training goes in cycles during the year. In the winter when it's dark and rough, I rarely run more than 2-3 km a day. The best time is in spring and fall when I run the longest. It's a good temperature for running and it is bright outside for a long time. Then I run about 5-10 km per day, a little depending on what I feel like and how much time I have that day. I very rarely time my runs but run at the pace I feel like.

WILLIAM BENTON'S STREAK HITS 47 YEARS

There have been two close calls with my running streak. One took place on November 3, 2007. While riding my bike to my part-time job at Total Runner, a local store, I was hit by a motorist who was apparently not paying attention while making her left turn from Orchard Lake Road, onto 12 Mile Road in Farmington Hills, Michigan. Authorities allowed her to leave the scene, while I was left with a 1 1/2-inch fracture to my right tibia, along with some ligament damage. I had already run that Saturday morning, but what about Sunday? I had to give it a try. I soon realized that I was able to complete a two-mile run! After seven weeks, I was back to five mile runs.

December 22, 2023, I had hernia surgery, and as in the first story, I got a run in before the procedure. The next day, I attended a Christmas party with family, and while I found it painful to get up or sit down, I planned to try a run once I got back home. It was dark, and fairly warm for December, and there was no snow or ice which might be a slip and fall hazard.

My daughter, Theresa, insisted on following me in a car in case I needed a ride. I started out hunched over to my right because of the tender surgical site but was able to actually run! With about a quarter of a mile to go, I heard faint music coming from her car. It was the "Chariots of Fire " theme playing on her phone!

I don't count motorized treadmills, and I didn't know if any indoor tracks would have been available, so if the weather conditions hadn't been good, the streak might have ended that night! Instead, a 1.2-mile run was entered in the books. After a rough start, the runs became easier in the days ahead. Of course, I didn't tell the doctors of my intention of running so soon after the surgery.

As a space and astronomy enthusiast, I have a little competition going. The streak started on April 23, 1977. Later that year, Voyagers II and I were launched in that order. Long after their objectives were met, they continue on even as they power down. I, too, have met my objectives with my racing, and like the Voyagers, I am powering down. So, which will happen first, will contact with those space probes be lost, or will the running streak end?

JOHN MYERS' STREAK HITS 12 YEARS

12 Years. I would have never imagined when I started. Initially, thought it would be 'cool' to do one year. And then -- 'you know how it goes.'

This past year I also completed my 100th marathon. Another goal I would not have imagined back in 1981 when I ran my first marathon. Interesting enough, my family and friends are more impressed with the streak vs. the 100 marathons. It's a toss-up for me. I'm probably down to a marathon or two a year now, so the streak will keep me motivated. Just hope the body behaves.

Keep on moving!! Congrats to everyone else with a streak. You're an inspiration!!

MAYA COHN JOINS USRSA AS LIFETIME MEMBER

I found my love and passion for running at a young age of 9 when my parents enrolled me in my local Elementary school program Girls On The Run. At the time, it helped me build my confidence as a young girl growing up in this world. It was through this program that I completed my first 5k and found my passion for running. I participated in this program from 3rd - 6th grade when I eventually aged out of the program.

I took a hiatus from running in middle school and the beginning of high school but, of course, like most people I found my love and passion for running again right before/during the pandemic in 2019. In just two years after taking a break from running in 2021 I ran my first marathon distance by participating in the virtual Boston marathon by running a 1-mile loop around my neighborhood a little over 26 miles total - a marathon distance - just so I could say I earned the famous unicorn medal!

Prior to my current run streaking success, I had tried to do a run streak two other times, on two different occasions, with the first run streak lasting 266 days, the second one lasting 239 days, and my current streak of 365 days and counting as of today [30 April 2024] when I am sending this email!

So excited and happy to be a part of the streak runners international community!

I started my runstreak 1st of May 2021 after a period of plantar fasciitis and no running at all for 6 months. I thought it would be a good way to get started again to run short distances every day, instead of longer distances a couple of times per week as I was used to do. I really enjoyed to be able to run again, be outdoors every day, and as a bonus get some time for reflection every day.

After a while I began to challenge myself with longer distances and after a year I ran my first ultra-marathon. Since then I've participated in two more ultra-marathons, the longest 96 k, and I'm sure my runstreak has contributed to get me prepared also for these longer distances.

Now after 3 years of runstreak my daily runs have just become a habit and the day is not complete without it.

On February 29th my running streak hit 1,000 days on leap day! This milestone was once a goal and one that I happily celebrated once it was achieved! Throughout the 1,000 days there were some incredibly memorable runs and some really challenging runs.

I always knew a time would come to retire the streak. My last streak had to be retired at 606 days due to an illness. This steak of 1,000 days was one that I wanted to choose to end on my terms, on a high note. Even though the steak is retired, I'm still running and enjoying being in the great outdoors! **RSD#3650: Celebrating A Decade of Running Every Day****

It is with immense honor and gratitude that I share the news of reaching a significant milestone in my running journey: I've completed a decade-long streak of running every single day. As I stared at my calendar, disbelief washed over me, but the undeniable truth remained—I had indeed accomplished what once seemed like an insurmountable feat.

This past year alone has taken me on exhilarating runs across the globe, from the bustling streets of London and New York to the serene trails of Park City, Austin, New Zealand, and even the vibrant cityscape of Dubai. Each stride reaffirmed the mantra: life is good.

My journey began with a serendipitous encounter—a Wall Street Journal article highlighting how executives maintained their health while on the road. Among the anecdotes was a mention of Streak Runners, a community dedicated to the pursuit of daily runs. Initially drawn in by the catchy headline (admittedly, I thought it was about people running in the nude!), I soon found myself captivated by the stories of perseverance and passion that emanated from the Streak Runners community.

While I had always harbored a love for running, consistency eluded me. Yet, joining Streak Runners proved to be a transformative experience. The camaraderie, the friendly competition on the leaderboard, the uplifting Facebook posts, and the insightful newsletters—all served as constant wellsprings of inspiration, propelling me forward even on the toughest of days.

Through the ups and downs, I found solace in the stories shared within the community—tales of triumph over adversity and the humble acknowledgments of streaks coming to an end. It was a reminder that the journey is as much about resilience as it is about relentless pursuit.

My relationship with running runs deep, tracing back to my days as a high school track athlete. However, as life's responsibilities mounted, that connection waned. Yet, it was precisely during a tumultuous period—a hostile corporate takeover—that my running journey was reignited. Each night, amidst the chaos of Manhattan's bustling streets, I found solace in the rhythmic cadence of my footsteps along the West Side Highway. As I gazed upon iconic landmarks like the Statue of Liberty and the Empire State Building, I found strength and clarity in the beauty of the city that never sleeps.

To everyone in this incredible community—thank you. Thank you for inspiring me, for welcoming me with open arms, and for allowing me to be a part of something truly extraordinary. So, here's to the next stride, the next challenge, and the next decade of running. Keep running, keep believing, and keep chasing those dreams. With boundless gratitude,

STEVE WAY'S STREAK ENDS AFTER 2,605 DAYS

All running streaks sooner or later come to an end. My first longest streak was 10,024 days.

My second longest streak of 2,604 days, running every day at least thirty minutes has ended this year, with my last day of running Tuesday, March 26.

In late January, I was in New Zealand with my wife and while at a bed and breakfast tripped and fell hard on my left knee. At the time, I figured it was just knee sprain, although the knee was bruised and scraped. For a few days, the knee was sore, but I continued to run every day. After returning to the USA, I noticed the knee had some pain every day, throughout the day. Particularly while sitting. After a about six weeks of daily pain, I visited with my primary care physician. He ordered an X-ray and an ultrasound. However, the results were unremarkable, nothing was out of order, as there was no bone erosion, no arthritis, and no apparent damage.

He set up for me to go to a physical therapist with the concept of strengthening my muscles. However, the next day after the PT visit, Thursday, March 21 when I ran the pain in my knee was extreme. Friday the same. I contacted his office and said what about Plan B? I requested an MRI to see what that might disclose.

I had the MRI Monday evening at a local hospital, John Muir Hospital. Results came in the next day, and I saw them before the doctor. I was shocked to see that I had fractured my tibia plateau, obliquely torn the posterior horn of my meniscus plus a vertical flap tear on the medial meniscus. A number of other issues with the knee including the medial collateral ligament with a Grade 1 sprain. Oh well. The next day, Wednesday March 27 I walked for my exercise.

I have been walking since, and do not know if I will return to running. I first began running in mid-September of 1963 and have had a very enjoyable time running for over sixty years with my two best daily running streaks of 10,024 days and 2,604 days.

I am able to complete daily activities and 2.5 miles of walking daily with no pain and no discomfort. After consulting an orthopedist, I decided not to pursue surgery.

Will I return to running? We shall see.

ERICA ENGLUND'S STREAK HITS 4 YEARS

My runstreak is still alive and it feels amazing to continue every day. Some days are just easy short runs (of course they are above the limit 1 mile). Between the easy short runs, I do longer runs and faster ones. I will keep going until I can't!

CAROLEE LUTHER'S STREAK HITS 16 YEARS

Another year of running! 2786 miles! So much fun! Several states knocked off the list plus the Caribbean! Here's to another year!

THE FINISH LINE

By: Mark Washburne

In the middle of May, I gave a talk on our running streak association before the Central Jersey Road Runners in Cranford, New Jersey. I have given a few of these talks over the years and I am often asked a similar question about whether SRI/USRSA requires a minimum pace for the daily mile. We don't require a minimum pace but we do ask that athletes run – NOT walk, swim, or bike – their daily mile. Clearly, athletes that have achieved our standard of running every day for a year come in a variety of ages, genders, shapes, sizes, and, not surprising, running paces. It would, therefore, be difficult to pick a pace that would be fair to all our aging (and we are all aging) athletes over the years.

I was thinking of the pace question when I read our cover and feature article by fellow streak runner from New Jersey, Mark Williams. Coach Williams has been active in the Master's track and field circuit and has been consistently ranked as one of the top middle-distance runners in the United States and the World in his age group. Pending ratification, Mark Williams on 30 March 2024 broke the indoor 800-meter World Record for males 50 years of age in a time 1:59:30. Previously, he was a member of the 4X800 meter indoor relay team that set the male 40-44 World Record with a time of 7:49:30. Wow! What an amazing world class athlete! Thank goodness the rest of us are not required to run our daily mile at Mark William's track pace.

The other featured article in this newsletter was written by another track coach, Jim Pearson, from Marysville, Washington. Coach Pearson started his running streak on 16 February 1970 and has the second longest running streak in the world at over 54+ years. On 30 April 2024, he wrote an article on his birthday entitled "I turned 80 today" and shared with us his perspective of joining a unique group of octogenarian streak runners. "Being this old doesn't feel like a big deal," the Washington coach noted. "Other than being much slower than I once was, I don't find anything different from 40 years ago. Being one of the oldest at something can be very cool." Yes, it is very cool and we celebrate Coach Pearson (and all of our older athletes) for inspiring us with their tenacity and spirit to run every day for decades.

Speaking of tenacity and spirit, Jon Sutherland, who started his streak on 25 May 1969 and is the top streak runner in the world, has moved up to the 55th anniversary category (Congratulations!). We did not have a name for the category so we settled on calling it "Double Nickels (55th anniversary)." For our international audience and younger runners, "Double Nickels" was a popular term used for the 55 miles per hour speed limit that was instituted in the USA to save gas during the oil shortage of the 1970s.

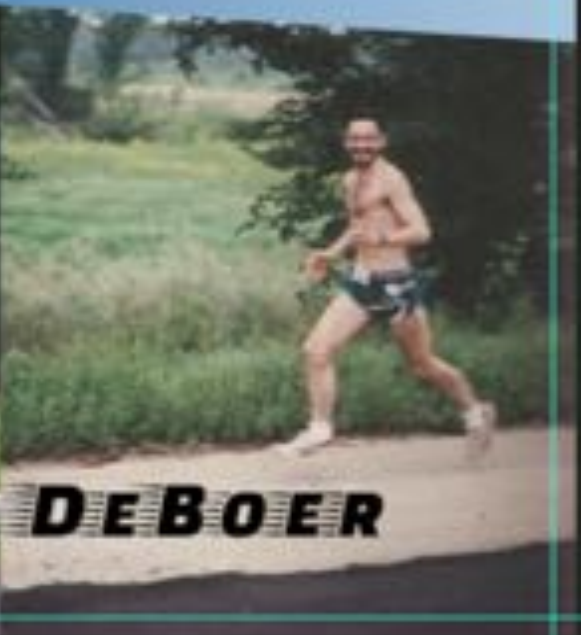

As for me, while only a sexagenarian, I also noticed my pace slowing down. On 15 April 2024, I ran my 20th consecutive Boston Marathon. Unfortunately, my time was a P.W. (Personal Worst). I don't have a qualifying time to enter the 2025 Boston Marathon so that streak comes to an end at a score (please see Abraham Lincoln's Gettysburg Address for a definition of a "score"). Qualifying for and running the Boston Marathon every year since 2005 has been one of the greatest privileges and honors of my life. While I will miss the challenge, I am also ready to move on from 26.2-mile distance and focus my attention on shorter races and keeping my 34+ year running streak on the active list. Fingers crossed and as always, I want to wish all of you good luck as we each run the roads and trails – every day!
