George Brown

GEORGE BROWN PASSES AT AGE 72;
RUNS 4 MILES THE DAY BEFORE HIS DEATH;
STREAKS ENDS AFTER 15,908 DAYS (43.55 YEARS)

By: Mark Washburne

Our running streak association was saddened to learn of the passing George Brown, a school principal from Richlands, Virginia. The news of his passing came from his son, Glayde Brown, in an email to SRI/USRSA dated 31 July 2024:

“Good morning. It is with much sorrow I am emailing you this morning. My father, George Brown, 6/10/52 Richlands, Virginia passed away unexpectedly Saturday, July 27, 2024. His active streak was one of the most important accomplishments in his life. Thank your organization for providing him an outlet to motivate himself and share with others.”

In a follow-up email to Mr. Brown, he confirmed the last day his father ran during his streak: “He ran four miles the morning of July 26.”

Here is the obituary posted for George Brown:

Obituary for George G. Brown

George G. Brown of Richlands, Virginia, a devoted family man, educator, coach, Richlands Historian, High School official, mentor, avid runner, and friend to an entire community died July 27, 2024 peacefully at his home.

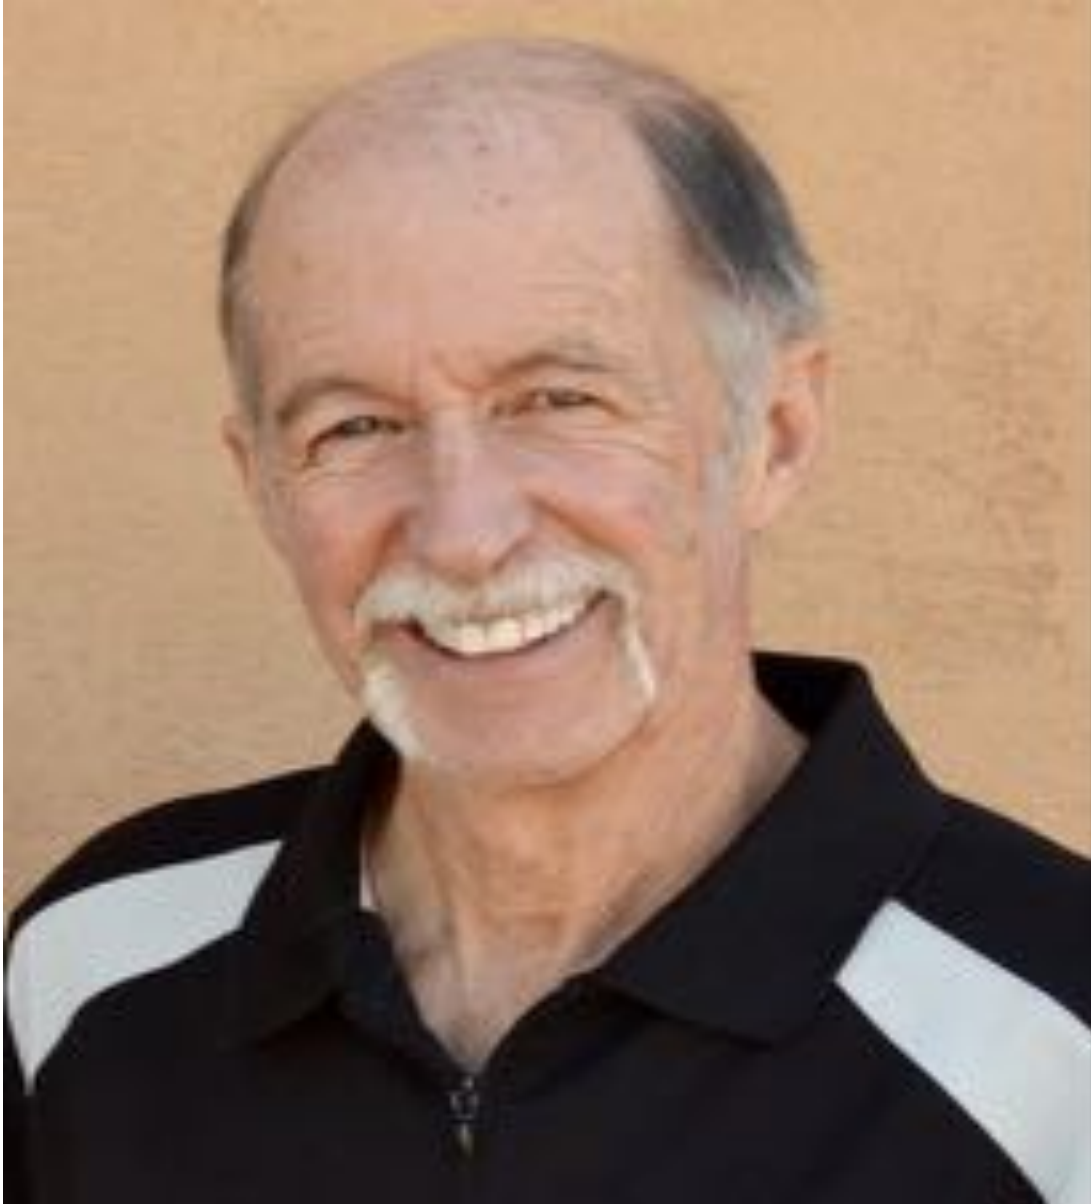

Born in Richlands, George was the youngest of three children born to the late Eldridge and Gertrude Brown. He was a proud graduate of Richlands High School in 1970, Southwest Virginia Community College in 1972, Virginia Polytechnic Institute in 1974, and the University of Virginia in 1986. After graduating college, he spent the last fifty years of his life fulfilling his passion by working in the field of education. His career began at the old Junior High in 1974, he was a member of the first instructional staff at Richlands Middle School in 1976, before transitioning to Richlands High School in 1980. Over the next two decades he wore many hats at Richlands High School serving as a teacher and coaching multiple sports. He worked as an Assistant Principal and Principal for almost fifteen years. This past year, he returned as a substitute teacher in Chemistry, a job that he loved dearly being back at Richlands High School. From 2005-2019, George served in many capacities for Tazewell County Public Schools from the Director of Secondary Education/Career and Technical Education to Assistant Superintendent to proudly serving as the Division Superintendent from 2016-2019.

Besides his family, his true passion was running. At the time of his death, he was ranked number one in the Commonwealth of Virginia as an active streak runner and number twenty-[sixth] nationally with 15,9[08] consecutive days (43.5 years) running without missing a day. During that almost half century, he ran competitively in over fifty marathons including Boston, New York, Chicago, Washington, and San Diego. Ultra marathons is where he found his niche, winning the 1986 and 1987 Mount Masochist 50 mile trail run and finishing 14th in the Nationally recognized Umstead 100 mile Endurance Run in 2001 in just over 24 hours.

In addition to running, George officiated High School basketball and football as a member of the Appalachian Officials Organization (AOA) from 1975-2009. Working multiple nights a week where he met and developed some of his closest friendships and colleagues over the years.

George is survived by his loving wife of 53 years Lynne Ringstaff Brown, his son Glayde (wife Jennifer), and his two beloved grandchildren whom he adored with every ounce of his being, George Glayde Brown III "Trey" (fiance Anna Sword) and Dylan Simmons Brown. He realized his true calling as a loving Heydad. His goal everyday was to indoctrinate his grandkids with wisdom and kindness, to always put the needs of others above your own. He successfully accomplished that goal over the past twenty four years. He is also survived by: sister Pauline Hagy (husband Ralph), brother Reggie Brown (wife Terri), nephew Rob Hagy (wife Aleks), and niece Alena Jennings (husband Brent), and great nephew Reece Hagy. George's commitment to excellence and his ability to inspire others made him a beloved figure among colleagues and peers. He leaves behind a legacy of professionalism, compassion, and unwavering dedication to his family and community. He will be missed by all.

Services will be private per his request. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to Richlands High School, 138 Tornado Alley, Richlands, Virginia 24641.

Peter MacFarlane

PETER MacFARLANE PASSES AT AGE OF 77 WHILE RUNNING; STREAK ENDS AFTER 1,535 DAYS

By: Mark Washburne

Our running streak association was saddened to learn of the passing of Pete MacFarlane, from Albuquerque, New Mexico. The news of his passing came from his son, Gabe MacFarlane, in an email to SRI/USRSA dated 4 August 2024:

“My name is Gabe MacFarlane. I just submitted a streak retirement for my father, Pete MacFarlane. He passed away last week at 77 years old, while actually out on his 1,535th consecutive daily run. We found his papers for your website while going through all of his documents, so I thought that it would be nice to post that last one for him on there.”

Here is the obituary posted for Pete MacFarlane:

Peter Francis MacFarlane

Peter Francis MacFarlane

04/17/1947 to 07/23/2024

It is with deep sorrow that we announce the passing of Peter F. MacFarlane, 77, on July 23rd, 2024.

Pete was a beloved Husband, Father, PopPop, and Great PopPop. He is survived by his beloved wife Donna, mother Anne, step-father Jack; children Brian (Kelli), Daniel (Farida), Molly (Jay), Gabriel (Kate), and Gina (John); grandchildren Makenzie, Blythe, Dainna, Nicholas, Brandon, Atticus, Leonidas, Theron, Xander, Claire, Reid, Tess, Lane, Hunter, Morgan, Riley, and John Roy; 5 great grandchildren; and siblings Rick, Kim, and David. He was preceded in death by his father Stanley and sister Linda.

Pete was born April 17th, 1947, in Darby, Pennsylvania. He graduated from Central Bucks West High School in Doylestown, Pennsylvania. He was drafted into the United States Army and served honorably from 1966 to 1968. While serving as an Army intelligence specialist in Vietnam he earned the National Defense Service Medal, Vietnam Service Medal, Vietnam Campaign Medal, and Good Conduct Medal. After leaving the Army, he met his cherished wife of 52 years, Donna, and they married in 1972. Pete earned a Bachelor's Degree in Physical Education from West Chester University and a Master's Degree in Physical Education from Colorado State University.

After moving to Albuquerque, New Mexico in 1975, he joined the Sandia Prep School faculty and became the Head Volleyball Coach and Athletic Director. For 42 years Pete dedicated his professional life to Sandia Prep School and the advancement of interscholastic athletics. In 2006, he was inducted into the New Mexico Activities Association Hall of Fame. Pete retired from Sandia Prep School in 2017 but remained active with the school and Athletic Department. In 2019, Pete, who was better known as "Mac" to Sandia Prep students and faculty, was inducted into the Sundevil Athletic Hall of Fame with his 1977 Volleyball Team. In 2021, he was inducted to the Hall again as Athletic Director for setting the standard of No Cut Athletics in New Mexico and serving 28 years as the Head Coach of Sundevil Volleyball. He also loved teaching archery and running. He completed several half marathons and two marathons, often running with his children and grandchildren. At the time of his passing, in fact, he had run for 1,53[5] consecutive days.

Pete touched more lives than can be counted, teaching his kids and thousands of students how important it is to be present every single day. He lived his life to the highest level of integrity and humility, and sportsmanship was the only path to follow.

Most importantly, Pete never hesitated to make a friend, tell his wife and children how much he loved them, and encourage and support anyone who was fortunate enough to cross his path. His smile never faltered, his kindness never wavered, a joke was never far from his lips, and it was likely that he would remember your childhood phone number even if he couldn't place his keys. His impact will be felt for generations to come.

A viewing will be held at 9:00am with a funeral mass to follow at 10:00am on Monday, July 29th , 2024, at St. Edwin Catholic Church 2105 Barcelona Rd, Albuquerque, New Mexico, 87105. This will be followed by internment at Fairview Memorial Park at 700 Yale Blvd SE Albuquerque, New Mexico 87106. A reception will follow. In lieu of flowers, the family requests that donations be made to Sandia Prep School Athletic Department in honor of Peter MacFarlane:

DOUG DIXON'S STREAK HITS 20 YEARS; HAS THIRD LONGEST ACTIVE STREAK IN CANADA
By: Doug Dixon
Minden, Ontario, Canada

This past week-end I celebrated 20 years of continuous running [email dated 23 May 2024].

I celebrated with a leisurely run with members of my family, including my two Grandsons.

We took a celebratory picture on the dock each of us wearing one of my prized 7 Boston Marathon jackets....2016 to 2022.

My streak started on May 23, 2004, the day my best friend Bill was diagnosed with a brain tumour.

I told him I would continue to run each day until he recovered. Unfortunately, he died 45 days later.

He was my North star, my confidant, and the man who kept my feet on the ground so many years ago when my own life changed.

It is still hard for me and I miss him dearly.

He reminds me constantly of the preciousness of life.

He keeps me strong and keeps me moving forward.

In his honor I pledged to continue to run every day, a pledge I will always keep. My pledge to him is a lifelong pledge. He lives on with me in every stride.

Life teaches us purpose and dedication and a will to accomplish anything in life if we so choose.

"And if light shall fade and fall to black,
let the sound of wings beats sing,
that you're coming back.
And if dark shall stain
and ink your wings,
follow my whispers,
to far off things."

Thank you for your consideration.

BOSTON MARATHON RACE DIRECTOR DAVE MCGILLIVRAY
COMPLETES 52ND CONSECUTIVE BOSTON MARATHON
WITH HIS DAUGHTER ELLE AND SON MAX
By: Dave McGillivray

[Editors note: This article originally appeared in NEW ENGLAND RUNNING MAGAZINE where the author writes a monthly column).

My first year running in the Boston Marathon was in 1972. I dropped out in the Newton hills and was taken to the Newton-Wellesley Hospital. I vowed to come back the next year and finish it this time. Even while battling the flu, I finished in 1973 and made a commitment to myself to run Boston every year for the rest of my life. I ran it 15 years in a row and then got offered the job of helping to direct it. I just couldn't pass up this opportunity, so I took the job thinking my "streak" was over. While standing at the finish line that year watching everyone finish and feeling sorry for myself, I asked a police officer if he would drive me back to the start in Hopkinton which he did. At 8pm that night, I started my run and finished a little after 11pm and, of course, dead last. Thus, began my streak of 36 years of running the race mainly at night after my race director duties were complete.

As I now approaching 70 years of age, I realize being on my feet all day and the stress of directing the marathon was making it very hard and more and more challenging to continue to run the marathon at night so I worked it out with the BAA to run the race this year during the day for the first time in 37 years. When I committed to running during the day, my daughter Elle expressed interest in running her first Boston Marathon so we both committed to run it together. My son, Max, then committed to run too for his second time.

"MAX FIRING THE GUN FOR MY NIGHT START!"

Race weekend came upon us so fast. I just couldn't get to sleep the night before the race. It was awful, tossing and turning. And, my lower back was killing me for some reason which I think was all stress related. I've had a nagging ankle soreness for years and of course that worried me, too. However, I had not missed a day of running in over 3 years so that gave me a little more confidence that I could manage to get through this race.

I got out of bed around 2:00am. If I couldn't sleep, why lie in bed?? I was actually confused as to what to pack as I had always left my running gear behind because I would come back to the hotel to change after the race was over but this time I needed to take my running gear with me. It all felt so strange and confusing. I left for Hopkinton at around 4:30am.

Once I arrived in Hopkinton, I read a land acknowledgement from the starter's platform. Then, as I had done for the past 36 years, I got all the divisions started – wheelchairs, handcycles, duo's, pro men and pro women. Then came the big change. Instead of jumping on a motor scooter and riding ahead of the pro men, I stayed behind, went into the command trailer and changed into my running clothes. It was so surreal for me. Because I always left with the pros, I never once in 36 years saw the start of wave 1 or any wave after that. I stood pensively on the sideline, all alone, waiting for wave 2 to start and then for the end of wave 2 to reach the starting line. The plan was to jump into the back of wave 2 to join my daughter Elle and son Max and a few other family members. Exactly as planned, they came along and we were off, Elle running Boston for the first time, Max running for the second time and the old guy running for the 52nd time. We crossed the starting line together at 10:34am.

“ELLE YEARS AGO, DRESSED AS A FINISHER”

Because we were in the back of Wave 2, we had the entire road to ourselves. It was unreal, running in the Boston Marathon and having no one around you for about 4-5 miles. We were the center of attention for about 40-minutes...ha. We even caught up to 1968 Boston Marathon winner and dear friend, Amby Burfoot, who was doing his thing of passing out small cards to the crowd thanking them for being there. Of course, Amby later caught up to us down the course and passed us. Then there came the “tsunami” as Wave 3 caught us and blew by us like we were standing still. That certainly wasn’t encouraging but we knew all along that it was coming!

We stopped at one port-o-john along the course and stopped a few times for Elle to say hi to friends, especially at Boston College. The crowds were deep and dense everywhere, more than I had ever seen before. Since I was used to riding up front, maybe I now saw that the crowds just get thicker later in the morning when the masses are coming through. It was wild though and continued for just about the entire race.

It was not too, too hot for the first half for me and Elle but then it did get much hotter...they said it reached at least 69 degrees. Given that we had trained for the past 4-5 months in cold temperatures, we certainly were not acclimated to these high temperatures. The sun was in and out all afternoon though and there were at times a cool, tailwind / breeze which was a little refreshing. Some people were spraying their hoses but not too many. There certainly were a lot of lawn parties, more than I ever recognized in the past. The usual SHORTCUT banner with an arrow in someone’s yard wasn’t there this year or I just didn’t see it! If I did, I might have actually taken the shortcut myself!!! 😊 And, there was more entertainment and dj music along the course than I’ve ever seen before. And because she had her name written on her singlet, people all along the race route kept yelling out Elle’s name as if they all knew her personally. It was indeed very special.

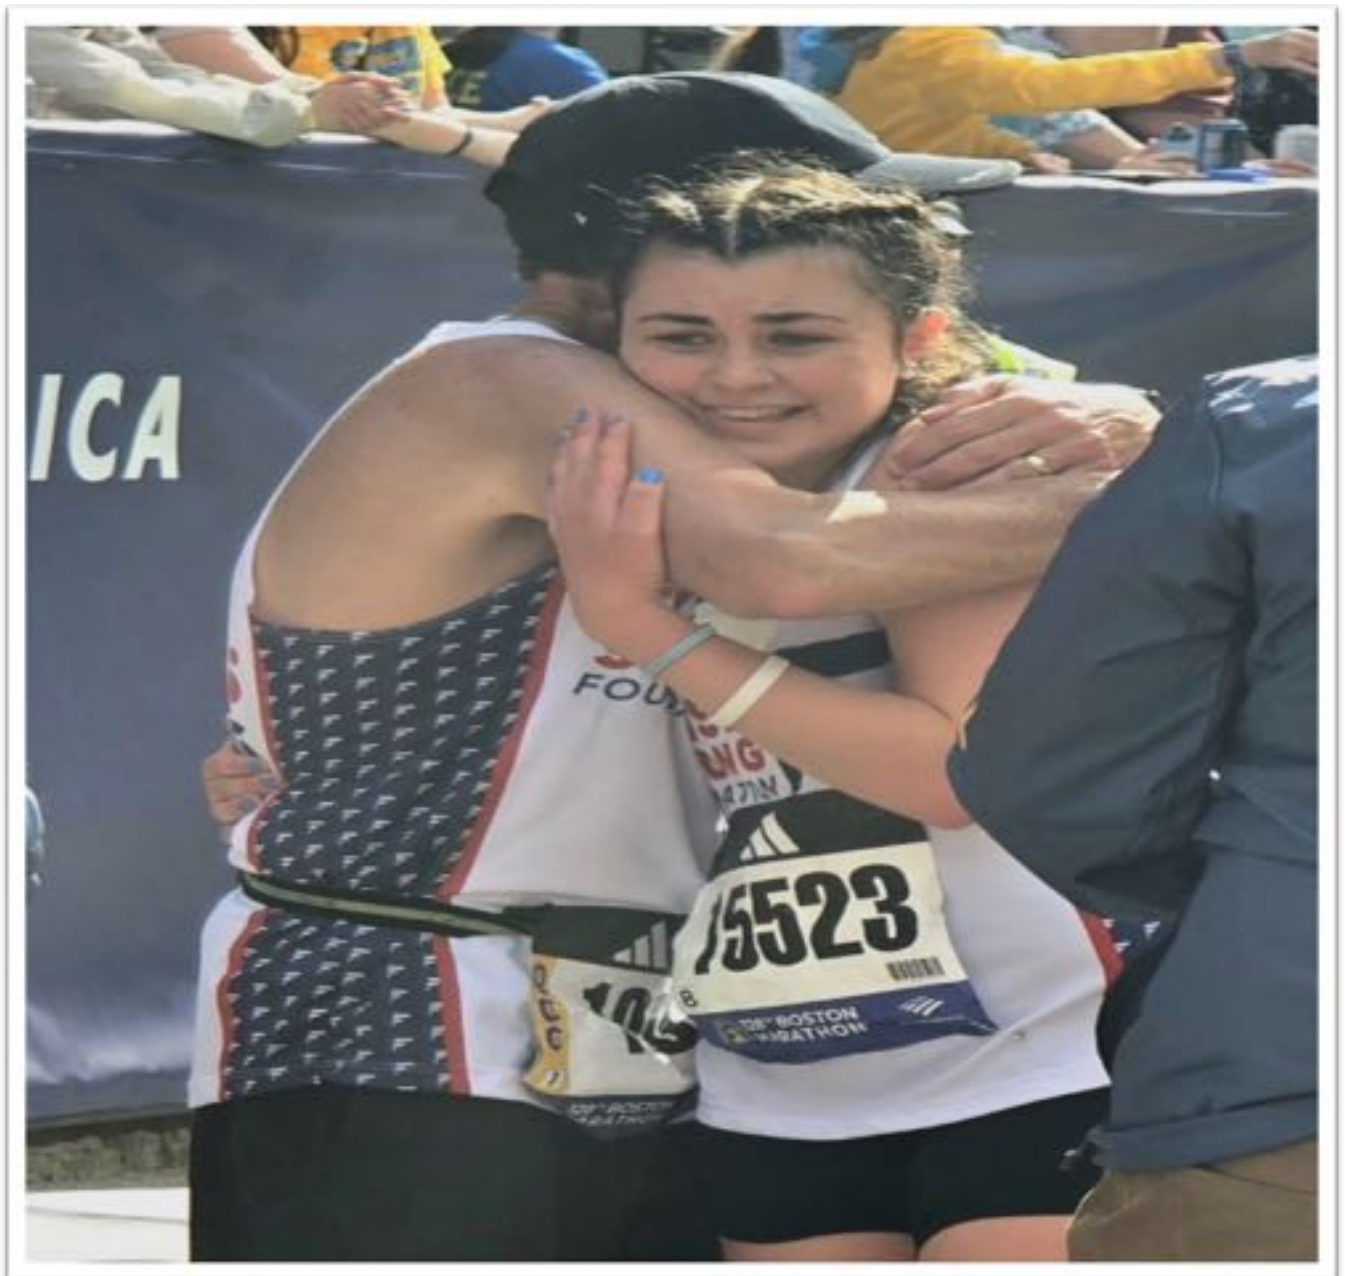

“MAX FINISHING WITH HIS MOTHER SUSAN HURLEY”

Maybe Elle and I went out too fast for us. We were running sub-10's up to 20K. Honestly, my back was sore and my quads were tight so I didn't mind myself slowing down a bit. Elle had a side stitch the entire 2nd half but never complained and just kept moving forward. I felt so bad and could not do much other than encourage her to continue and say that it was okay to walk some of the way. We started picking out landmarks to either walk to or run to. I was actually fortunate that Elle was slowing a little bit as I wanted to do so, too! Would have hated to be the one holding her back and I definitely wanted to finish with her since we had run so far together. It was so awesome to finish to the announcer announcing us and to wave to and have pictures taken with family and friends in the stands. I was handed a medal to present to Elle. Another special moment for both of us, at least it was for me!

And we, along with a few other runners ran on behalf of my foundation, the Dave McGillivray Finish Strong Foundation which inspires and empowers youth across New England and beyond to increase physical activity, expand literacy and build community and self-esteem through running, reading, and performing acts of kindness. Collectively, we raised over $180,000 which was mind boggling and thrilling for me!

It was the most memorable marathon I have ever run in my life and that includes 52 consecutive Boston's and 169 marathons overall. To finish with Elle was so special – my favorite marathon ever. Max finished with his mother not too far behind us. It was definitely my most special Boston Marathon and marathon ever running with her and starting off with Max, too, who ran with his mother the entire way! I asked Elle the NEXT day if she would ever want to do this again...she smiled and then blurted out YES! She could be the one to break the family record now! So proud of Elle and Max.

WHAT A RACE, WHAT DAY!!!!

Traversing the Tundra in US Cities and Metropolitan Areas (Plus US Streak Runners Who Have Resided in Foreign Countries)

By: Steve DeBoer

Before there was Streak Runners International (SRI), there were some American daily runners who resided in foreign countries. Since those individuals have their active or retired running streaks listed using their current or most recently-known American address, here is a list of those tundra traversers and where they lived:

Steve DeBoer	1978-1980	Ecuador	First (and only) registered stalker
Ron Shealy	1989-1993	Japan	First registered stalker
John Faz	1990s (3 yrs)	Iwakuni, Japan	Second registered stalker
Julie Maxwell	Abt 2000	Puerto Rico	First of three registered stalkers
Ed Goff	Bef 2000-2006	Germany	First registered stalker
Steve Moosbrugger	2001-2002	Russia	First registered stalker
Len Burton	2003-2004	Nepal	First (and only) registered stalker
John Faz	Nov 04-Nov 05	GTMO, Cuba	First (and only) registered stalker

Also, Michael Dallas had a retired run streak from Aug 2006 to Dec 2007, when he lived in England.

Of course, many active streak runners have done daily runs while on vacation in foreign countries. In 2009, there was a special issue of the Streak Registry that listed mileage and best races of members, as well as number of states and countries streakers had traversed. Fourteen of us had run in at least 10 countries with the most by John Nikolic (36), Bill Anderson (39) and Dwight Moberg (53). Then there was Ron Hill, who ran races in 100 different countries, the last two being Panama and the Faroe Islands. Even though 76 different countries are represented with registered active or retired streaks on SRI, Len Burton and I make it 78. But streak runners have done their thing in well over 100.

Returning closer to home, as registered running streaks have increased, so have the numbers in individual cities and metropolitan areas. Starting with cities, here is how they have changed in the last seven years as of 7/10/2024 (includes both active and retired):

City	Number all time Jul 2024	Number all time Aug 2017
1. NYC	64 (7.7 per million residents)	7
2. Saint Joseph, MO	54 (756 per million)	0
3. Portland	39	14
4. Houston	34	10

22. Lincoln, NE	17	6
24. Fort Worth	16	10
25. Spokane	15	6
25. Boise	15	7
25. Philadelphia	15	5

Seeing NYC on top makes sense, since it is the most populous city in the US. But there are many places that have a higher concentration of daily runners. Here is a list of those with at least five streakers and at least 8,000 residents now and 5 years ago. Fergus Falls remains #1, despite having the coldest climate of those listed. It helps that six of their 17 are in one family - Mike & Beth Thorson and their four children. If you add in Mike's brother-in-law, who lives in St. Paul, they have the most run streakers of any family in the world - seven!

- * Fergus Falls has the highest concentration of daily runners of any city with at least 10,000 residents. All their streakers started in the last few years because of a running group they belong to called the “Measly Mile Mafia.”
-  Saint Joseph has the highest concentration of daily runners of any city with at least 50,000 residents.
-  Rochester has the highest concentration of daily runners of any city in the world with at least 100,000 residents.

MN, despite having the coldest climate, has the highest number of cities in the top 26 percentage-wise of any state (seven). No other state has more than two.

The streak runner community of St Joseph, MO, only began a couple of years ago. A running group named the “Measly Mile Mafia” started promoting the idea of trying to run every day, and now 55 residents have registered, second to NYC for the most of any city in the world. The longest two “streaks” in this group began 1/1/2022. If you count those whose residences are outside the city limits, the Mafia has nearly 70 who have reached one year and submitted their data.

There are several communities under 8,000 population that have 3 or 4 streak runners, often related. The Roemers (John II, John III, Mary, and Barbie) have lived in Parkton, MD, a rate of 540 per million. The Wallaces (John, John Jr & Karen) have lived in Ishpeming, MI, so the rate there is 463 per million. The Schultz trio (Susan, Zoe & Caitlin) have lived in Timonium, MD, with their rate being 403 per million. There are 3 runners who reside in Menominee, MI, which works out to 349 per million. One other town with 3 that exceeds 300 is Columbia City, IN, where the Eshlemans (Eliza, Peter and Peter Jr.) have lived. And I cannot neglect to mention that if we put Mendham Township and Mendham Borough (NJ) together, there are 4 run streakers (369 per million), led by USRSA/SRI President Mark Washburne.

When tabulating those who run daily in larger cities, they are often part of a larger metropolitan statistical area (MSA), so I am also including numbers for those, mainly combined statistical areas (CSAs), which are larger than the MSAs. Here are the top 25 by numbers and by percentage. New York has added 64 persons in the last three years; DC/Baltimore is up by 64, Boston has added 44 and Minneapolis-St. Paul increased by 38!

Other CSAs/MSAs with 40 or more are Harrisburg, PA (41), Tampa-St. Pete (42), and Orlando (42).

Even though the NYC area has the most people who have run daily for at least one year, their rate is only 13 per million residents due to their large population (23.6 million, six times as many as the Twin Cities of Minneapolis/St. Paul). Here are top 25 CSAs/MSAs percentage-wise with a population of 250,000 or more.

Note that only ten states have streak runner rates of 20 or more per million residents, led by MN at 52 per million as of 7/1/24. If one counts CO as part of the midwest, 12 of the top 15 MSAs are located in that area.

PS. I celebrated 53 years of daily runs of at least 1 mile/day on Jun 7, 2024. On Jul 20, 2024, I reached 54 years of streak running (not official, as I had some runs less than one mile) and became the first person in the world to compete in a road race with a streak that long, running a 5K that same day (7/20, also the 55th anniversary of the first manned moon landing) in nearby Byron, MN. Two fellow streakers were there as well, so Tim Hallett took a selfie that included Gordy Strickland and me just before the start.

HIT 4 YEARS

Today, May 31, 2024, marks four years as a streak runner not only for me, but also my wife, Michelle!

We began this journey together with a simple 30-day streak challenge during the pandemic. Once we hit 30, we decided to go for 100. Once we hit 100, we decided to run every day until the weather was too bad to run in. That day never came.

The hazardous snow runs became our favorite runs. We have run with Covid, colds, pneumonia for my wife and countless migraines for me. We have run in the freezing cold, the sun-drenched heat, the pouring rain, on the beach in Hawaii and even at a truck stop in Nebraska.

Last year I hit the 1,000-mile mark for a calendar year. This year I trained for and completed my first marathon. On June 1st, Michelle will run her first trail race in Leadville, CO at the Turquoise Lake 20k.

Our 15-year-old son is at 3 1/2 years on his running streak and our 12-year-old is closing in on 200 days. If you told me five years ago that we would become a running family to this extreme, I would've laughed in your face. Yet here we are. Sometimes we run together, other times we run alone. But every single day..... We run!

STEVEN HAMILL'S STREAK HITS 5 YEARS

Today [4 June 2024] is Day 1827. I started my running streak in 2019 as a way to ensure that I would run. When I was running weekends only, I would always find excuses... It's raining, it's snowing, it's hot. I decided I would run a mile every day, outdoors, for a month.

My only rules were that it had to be outdoors, it had to be continuous, it had to be more than a mile, and it had to be recorded accurately on Strava. My pace didn't matter, as long as it was a real run.

I had never heard of SRI/USRSA.

When I reached a month, I decided it was extremely rewarding and energizing to run every day, and I decided to see if I could hit 100 days. During those first hundred days, I was meticulous. If I hit stop on Strava and it only recording 0.99 miles, I would do the run again so it would hit 1.00. Running in Brooklyn is tricky if you aren't stopping. You have to be prepared to weave in traffic, or to make sharp turns that weren't the direction you were hoping to go.

After 100 days, I decided I could run every day for a year. A friend of mine sent me a New York Times article about "Streakers" and I thought "hey, that's me! I am one of them!" and I joined the group after reaching out to the Times' reporter.

I was inspired by all these people who have been running every day for decades. I thought I could do this too. The year of COVID - 2020 - the only real chance to get outside in New York City was to go for a run. I averaged 3.1 miles a day for the year, which was awesome.

So now I am on Day 1827. Looking back, running every day through the COVID outbreak, and my own bouts of COVID, or running the days I was having a melanoma removed from my face, gastroenteritis and throwing up a big while running, running in heatwaves, or the smoke from forest fires (slowly, with a mask), or even through blizzards with strap on spikes, I feel extremely grateful for the health and confidence it has given me.

While my average pace has slowed and my distance is now just a mile, the most rewarding part of my runs now is that my 2-year-old daughter joins me in the Bob running stroller. She loves it. We bring a speaker, play Bob Marley (her preference) and we run through our beautiful neighborhood every single morning. It's our 10 minutes together to start the day, and I can't think of a better way than to spend my time than my daily runs.

GREGORY LLOYD'S STREAK HITS A DECADE

I am pleased to advise my streak is going strong! I rounded out my ten years with an unremarkable suburban run - I had even forgotten until my partner congratulated me. I'm very happy to have moved into the double-digit years.

MADDIE FITZGERALD'S STREAK HITS 3 YEARS

I started running in 6th grade with my dad before school. Over the years, I ran on and off, completing several mile and 5K races. In 2021, after learning about the health risks of a sedentary lifestyle in one of my nursing classes, I began my running streak. This year, my goal is to run my first half marathon and, of course, keep my running streak going!

Running has been fun, giving me the opportunity to explore new trails and parks, however, sometimes it feels like a chore especially after a long day at work. During those times, my supportive family encourages me to keep going. I also think of the sick and elderly patients who are unable to walk, which reminds me to appreciate my ability to run. Being able to run is a gift that has given me some special memories.

One special memory was when I reached my 1,000-day streak. I was so excited this year for the milestone and I treated myself to a new pair of Nike running shoes. Up until then, I'd only used New Balances. I woke up extra early, got ready and my mom surprised me with a shirt that read "1000 days run streak." I wore it for my run and to the stable I work at, proud that I had run every day.

Another fun memory from running was my first run in Spain. When I went to Spain for a study abroad I was nervous I would lose my run streak with the time change, jet lag, or running not fitting in with my host family's routine. When I got to Spain it was mid-afternoon and by the time I got back from the class and city tour it was already almost 8 o'clock and we hadn't eaten dinner yet! I talked to my host mom about the predicament and apparently dinner is typically anytime between 8 and 11 o'clock at night-phew! My host brother (9) and sister (11) tagged along for my first run in Spain while my host mom got dinner ready. While I was in Spain, I was able to see more of the country than what was included in the planned tours because of my daily runs.

I have other fun (and funny) memories from running: braving a mile through snow in my winter boots, trying to run with my dog who loves to run but hates heading back home, completing my first 10K, running with my sister, running with COVID-19, and even running at 12:01 AM to get my run in for the day. See you on tomorrow's run!

NOAH RASHKIND'S STREAK HITS 5 YEARS

My streak is still active. I am currently tied for 1,396th place in Streak Runners International's Men's Active Running Streak List (2,198th overall). That's 5 years of running at least one mile every day—through scorching heat, icy cold, rain, snow, hurricanes, tornado warnings, airport terminals, and turnpike rest stops. I've run through Covid, overuse injuries, headaches, silent reflux, slipped discs, missing toenails, colonoscopy prep, heartache, the deaths of loved ones, and newfound love.

I've run fast and slow, in 5Ks and ultramarathons up to 120 miles. Lately, it's mostly been slow 1-milers. I've run in groups and on my own. I've run when it was fun and when it sucked, when I wanted to and when it was a struggle just to get out the door. If I run at least a mile today [5 June 2024], which is pretty likely, I'll move up from "Neophyte" (1 to < 5 years) to "Proficient" (5 to < 10 years). Only 5 more years until I reach "Experienced" (10 to < 15 years). I need to keep breaking it down into bite-sized chunks.

Next mini-goal: Double Gump Day—double the days Forrest Gump ran. Only 511 more days to go.

TANYA HASENJAGER'S STREAK HITS 4 YEARS

As of June 1, 2024, I start year 5 of my run streak. I started this streak the year of Covid after watching from the background all these amazing "streakers" and thought why not give it a try. Now it has gotten to the point of why would I stop?

In the last year I also got a new running buddy - a mini Aussie- Blaze - who keeps me even more motivated because he loves to run too. Running has truly become my solitude and my passion through this streak... so THANK YOU!!!

JEROEN PEUTE'S STREAK HITS 3 YEARS

What started as a challenge to run 5 kilometers 7 days in a row grew to 1 month, to 100 days, to 1 year, to 500 days, to 2 years, to 1.000 days and now to 3 years of running in a row.

In these 3 years, I ran more than 5.000 kilometers. I often run alone, but fortunately also with good friends.

As my challenge progressed, the reactions changed from "you're crazy" to "how wonderful that you keep doing this."

I am happy that my family, friends and environment have always given me the opportunity to run a bit.

I have now been able to run in many beautiful places with beautiful people and without any significant injuries. Because 3 is just a number and so, I'll be back tomorrow.

Mark Bonney

MARK BONNEY'S STREAK ENDS AFTER 7,306 DAYS

I ran a planned final run and retired my running streak on my 20-year anniversary of June 12, 2024. The final run was a celebration of the last two decades. I ran my final daily run (#7,306) at a 5K on Disney's Castaway Cay island in the Bahamas.

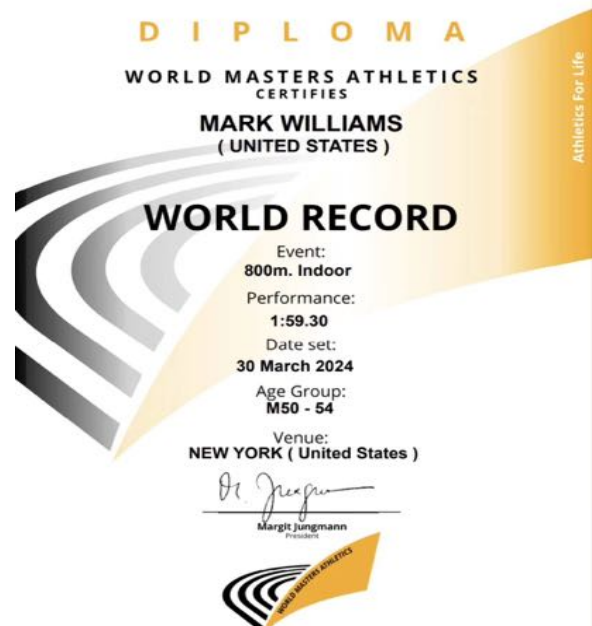

This running streak journey has given me more than I could have imaged. I started the streak as an out of shape non-runner. I was determined to make a positive change. The running streak helped me lose a quarter of my body weight and eventually get fit enough to run marathons. I have run 14 marathons so far and am looking forward to my first Chicago Marathon this fall.

During my streak, I ran in sub-10 degree (F) cold to over 100 degree (F) heat. I ran from Alaska to the Caribbean. I ran after hurricanes while hurdling downed trees. I ran the day of surgery for a broken finger. I ran on vacation and while at airports and hotels and on cruise ships. I ran when being chased by dogs. I ran the days of marathons (and the days after). And I ran when I felt like it (and when I didn't).

The running streak was great for me and so was this community. I am proud to have made it 20 years and joined the "Highly Skilled" group. While I won't be running every day anymore, I did become a lifetime member and will be cheering on all the streakers from those who just finished their first year to those who have run decades. Thank you and streak on!

ANNA DORION'S STREAK ENDS AFTER 1,049 DAYS

My name is Anna. I started running again three years at the start of my new job. The new job was a few blocks away from the beach and walking the shoreline before work was simply a gorgeous way to start my work day.

During my morning walks, I often thought about my mama who lost her ability to walk when the doctors found a tumor on her spine. And sometimes I even imagined her and my dad (also deceased) accompany me during the early hours of 0500 when you couldn't tell if it was morning or night.

My walks eventually became gentle trots, imagining my mom by my side wheeling herself next to me on her wheelchair and running to my dad's cadence from his days in the army. My trots became a daily run, with a minimum of one mile. It was no longer a solo run, but a run for my mama who couldn't walk. I was her legs. And my dad was my encouragement, as I hear the metronome of his cadence.

Our running streak lasted for 2 years and four months, until a dance injury put us all out of commission. I'm recovering and slowly getting out there again, along with my mom and dad.

I am thankful, at 53 years old, to have the ability and the drive to continue my running streak in to year 17.

This year was punctuated by a new job, two kids in college, one starting high school, and my first half marathon in more than 20 years. I was fortunate to run in more than five states this year, and also continued my streak on my favorite run of all time, near Doonagore Castle along the Atlantic Ocean in Doolin, Ireland.

It is only with the health that God has given me and the support of my family that I run with enthusiasm each day. Congratulations to ALL of the streakers out there, and many thanks for this motivating community!

I can confirm the streak continues, despite a near miss when I had food poisoning, tons of travel logistics, and after completing a ton of big races (including Cocodona twice, Tahoe 200, UTMB to name a few).

I still meet my personal minimum of at least 7 miles per day, and for the past few years have been averaging over 10 miles per day. I strive for most of my running to be on trails, but in reality, it's probably a 50:50 split between road and trail, but my greatest joy is always in the mountains. Still continue cross training with hot yoga and strength exercises to avoid injury and highly recommend this for anyone running in a streak or not.

I have no intention of ending my streak, it's a routine that keeps me going and gives me peace.

MARTIN DAHLBERG'S STREAK HITS 4 YEARS

My run streak is still alive. I never thought I'd continue this long (even though it's still comparably short).

Initially I just did it to activate myself during the pandemic. I kind of expected it to end when I had gotten the virus, but it never happened. I have hurt my toes a few times, but nothing too bad.

A week ago [email dated 23 June 2024] I had some kind of flu with fever and coughing, and it was the first time I had doubts about performing the run streak if it would be harmful for my heart. But I didn't want to end it, so I made my slowest and shortest runs yet (last week was 13,0 km in total). I believe it worked out. Still coughing a bit.

I'm thankful for the other streakers out there that validate and support me in this crazy quest. I love running more today than when I started many years ago.

Maverick and Bryan McCullar

BRYAN MCCULLAR'S STREAK HITS 4 YEARS

I've made it 4 years running each day (with my own personal added criteria of it requiring it to be outside to count).

When I started this thing, Covid was a couple months in and I needed a way to get outside and out of the house to keep my sanity.

Then I just kept that criteria intact as part of the fun (and sometimes part of the sadistic torture depending upon the weather).

But I've never regretted going out for a run. And it always made me stronger for it. Often more mentally than anything.

During this 4-year streak, I logged right at 8500 miles, including 30+ ultra-marathons across the US including Oregon, California, Arizona, Colorado, Texas, North Carolina, Iowa, New York, Oklahoma, and a bunch in Arkansas. The desire to travel and see new topography has always been core to my running motivation. On foot is such a perfect way to explore a new area.

I love getting to meet and interact with many running communities across the country. The common thread that binds them all together is the inclusivity and encouragement that they all have, which makes runners some of the finest people on earth in my opinion.

I welcome any of the folks to join a trail race in Arkansas and experience the southern hospitality! You'll love the scenery, support, and grass roots vibe.

When I'm not running, you'll find me as a desk jockey for a food company for the past 22+ years, or finding the next adventure with my 9-year-old son, Maverick.

Cheers and love to all,

Thank you for checking in! I have officially completed 4 years of running. I have put so much effort and hard work into accomplishing this. This means so much to me! I average up to about 2 miles a day, and have run over 2,800 miles in total!

One of my most memorable runs was when I was flying home from California and decided I was too awake to try to sleep so I decided to run up and down the airport until I had gone about 1.25 miles!!!

Another one of my most memorable (but also worst) runs was when I had a stomach virus and a 101-degree fever! I somehow managed to pull myself together enough to run just over a mile! I am looking forward to another year of running and will hopefully get to enjoy yet another running anniversary!!!

PHIL LUCAS' STREAK HITS 3 YEARS

My run on Saturday 6th of July was day 1096 of successive days of running. I have always been a committed runner but three years ago I decided to attempt a run streak.

My minimum distance is 2km and there have been some challenges over the three years. Some of these include:

Having COVID.

The run after minor day surgery (twice).

Strava not being understanding of crossing the international date line and having to run in Hawaii at 3:30am.

I'm not sure how runners do the streak in cold climates. In the first 2 years I didn't run on a treadmill as I thought that was a cop out. The mild by comparison Sydney winters now have me running on a treadmill at least twice a week to avoid the wind/rain/cold of winter in Sydney.

How long will I keep going? I don't have an end goal - its simply one more day.

DIANE SHUMWAY'S STREAK ENDS AFTER 8,797 DAYS

June 26, 2024, I ran my last day of my 24-year, 31 day running streak or 8,797 days.

Yes, I cried. I am having lumbar fusion surgery in August. My first inclination was to run to the very last day, however, the impact of running was causing excruciating pain. Therefore, I chose my end date. June 26 is my month-a-versary.

When I made 24 years, I was very hopeful that I would make 25, but I was dreaming.

I love to run and have very much enjoyed being part of the United States Running Streak Association. Thank you for making it fun and informative.

My husband Jeffrey is continuing his streak, as he should, but our combined married couple active streak of 14,094 days has also ended. We have found a lot of joy running together over the years.

I continue to go out with Jeff on occasion walking at as quick a pace as I can and one day I will run beside him again.

Hello daily runners. I'm glad to celebrate 3 years (1000+) days with all of you! The only thing I'd like to add is 1st rule of running every day:

"The hardest part is stepping through the door. Every next step gets easier and easier. But that door part, that's a struggle every time."

I found the balance not to over train so I run more and more daily miles, but at the end of the year I still manage to get 2021, 2022 or in last year's case 2023 kilometers in one year. ;)

Tammy Roether

TAMMY ROETHER'S STREAK HITS A DECADE

WOW! 10 years! I never expected to be running at least 1 mile a day for 10 YEARS!!!

I accidentally started my streak. I was trying to lose weight and was feeling that running wasn't doing it for me. I was considering stopping running all together, out of frustration. Then, a friend mentioned her 'streak.' I inquired what that was! I had already run the past 3 days in a row, so I figured- what the heck! I'll give this a try and if it doesn't work, then I'll quit!

The streak gave me permission to run just one mile. I didn't have to go out for 5, 6, 7, 10 miles every time. I dropped weight like crazy too!

Unfortunately, it hasn't been an easy 'run' since then. I was only going to run for 1 year, but at the 1-year mark, a friend wanted to join me, so I said I would go to 2 years. During that time though, I was diagnosed with MS and learned that it is a very good possibility that at some point, I will lose the use of my legs. I decided to run until I cannot run - and that has been tested recently.

Around year 8.5, I got a bad case of Planter Fasciitis. I am sure many of you know how much that sucks. It knocked me down to one 'lazy' mile a day for almost a year.

I was so focused on that, I took my eye off the ball on my bunion care, which became greatly inflamed. It is difficult for me to have surgery, as I am on blood thinners due to a blood clot permanently living in my brain. So, my 1 'lazy' mile per day continued.

I say 'lazy,' as I am not pushing it. I am just getting it done to keep my streak going and to get some blood flow moving.

Now, due to long work hours, I am having my first MS flare up since being diagnosed, that is giving me significant pain. I am still going to push through as long as I can though.

I was hoping to get back to 1/2 marathon distance by October, but that is not going to happen. Hopefully early next year I will be there!

Until then, keep running and even when it sucks, be happy that you still have running there for you. Appreciate it! and RUN HAPPY!

LISA MCMANUS' STREAK HITS 4 YEARS

Four years. It's funny how time expands and contracts; the longer my streak lasts, the shorter it feels. Three years ago, I would never have imagined how ordinary a four-year run streak feels, but today feels no different, and the streak feels no more or less impressive than the first 100 days.

I continue to learn about myself, plumb new depths, and explore my own physical and mental limits. I continue to get faster, albeit my gains are slower now, and I have found more peace and meditation in my runs than in the past.

I started taking several runs a week without headphones: previously unthinkable. I've become more possessive about my streak, as though admitting to it is akin to worshipping a false idol. If I tell people, they remark on my discipline, but they don't understand that, in truth, it's an excuse for the lack thereof. I never have to decide if I'm going to run today, I only have to determine when.

My daughters are seven now. They join me on an occasional run and they brag about me to their friends. "My mom runs every day!" "My mom runs marathons!" It is the only external motivation I remotely care about, and their appreciation is so sincere it damn near breaks my heart.

And so today, like every other day, I will continue to take the path of least resistance. I will not over-engineer solutions to non-existent problems. I will do the simplest thing in the world and put one foot in front of the other. I will Just. Run.

ANTHONY BISNATH'S STREAK HITS 3 YEARS

The streak that was interrupted and led to starting the current active streak wasn't only for the love of running and fitness, but it was a coping mechanism for the uncertainty of the COVID period, navigating lockdowns and a source of renewing normalcy in an era of chaos.

While it may be an inspiration for those looking in, it's also an inward motivation for me looking outwards. It has developed new habits, discipline and priorities that has not only helped me - but helped me to help others and have a positive influence in work and social spaces that we share.

Like so many other streakers, it started off with "make it to a week," which then turned into shifting the target to a month, and then some more shifting to 50 days, 100 days, 6 months, until Christmas, a year, two years, three years - and now the next goal is Gump Day.

While there are more good days than bad days, even when it seems like it's going to be a challenge to lace up and head out - you know that there's at least one constant that will bring joy - and that is running!

MELISSA CAPPS' STREAK HITS 3 YEARS

July 25th marked 3 years of my running streak. I began on July 26th, 2021 in hopes to regain a sense of discipline and purpose in my fitness.

I've been a runner for over 12 years. I've run 9 marathons, numerous half marathons, and have competed in numerous triathlons including 2 full Ironmans.

When 2020 came, Covid hit and with it my brother's diagnosis of stage 4 Colon Cancer. All my races were canceled that year, minus a 3.5-mile swim. As I walked through difficult times with my brother and his limited treatment options, I continued running and training. But over time I lost my grit (which is one of my defining traits!). It was in the summer of 2021 that I decided to try streaking, needing a fresh new goal.

I found so much more than what I was looking for! Running every day means running on the days I used to take off, being creative when traveling, and running through weather, sickness, and all aches and pains. It also feels more like a "relationship" than it used to be, as it's seen me through many highs and lows in my life.

I completed the canceled races including a marathon, a couple half marathons, and a half-ironman. And I've walked through some very difficult things like my brother's passing in the spring of 2022 after his 2-year battle with cancer.

There are so many aspects of each day that are beyond my control, but my run streak is one thing that I can CHOOSE to do every single day. I am grateful for every single mile that my body allows me to run, and forever hold in my heart those who cannot. Proud to be a run stalker!

REBECCA DETLING'S STREAK HITS 4 YEARS

What started out as a way to get out of the house during Covid turned into a four year and counting daily outdoor running streak for Greenville Ohio's Rebecca Detling.

Although running had never come naturally to her, she decided to try again after travel associated with her work was cut off. By gradually adding on one extra minute per day, she worked up to what has now become a 3-mile minimum daily outdoor run, regardless of the weather, for the last 4 plus years.

Rebecca plans to continue the daily routine as long as she is able.

DAVE MELISSAS' STREAK HITS 41 YEARS

I hit 41 years recently and I am still going strong with no end in sight.

I am starting my 17th season of coaching HS Cross Country and Track in metro Atlanta. I continue to love working with young runners teaching them how to become a better runner and a better person and hopefully setting them up to be happy successful adults. Many stay in contact with me and continue their running careers and I often give them advice on training and provide training guides for marathons and half marathons. I also meet some of my former runners occasionally for an easy run or lunch and even have attended a few weddings!

JENAYA SMITH'S STREAK HITS 5 YEARS

I initially challenged myself to run every day for 100 days after my husband and I moved into a new home that overlooks a large park. My husband, Dean Shears, was (and still is) on a running streak and once I completed my 100 days I decided to continue.

My favourite runs are definitely parkruns and I have completed over 165 parkruns at 62 different locations including one in the USA.

The longest route covered on my streak has been a 50km coastal event, which I completed in 2023, called the Dorset Duddle in which the majority of the running was at beginning and end.

As a teacher I am often found running around the park before heading off to school.

When (and where) to run is now factored into every day and has become part of who I am. I run every day because I can and for that ability I am very grateful.

JOHN WINOWIECKI'S STREAK HITS 12 YEARS

Once again, it is hard to believe this marks another year in the books. The past year has been fairly uneventful, somewhat thankfully. And there is a good chance I am forgetting something(s) as I type this in quick response to the yearly congratulations so that I do not forget!

There have been some minor improvements along the way, which I can admit to. The year did bring some slight increases in average pace which continues to be an encouragement.

As with past years, my focus has remained more or less on personal commitment and continuity. That generally equates to not having participated in any group races or activities. Perhaps that helps explain my lack of personal photos with this update as well.

At any rate, all has been going well for the most part and I am hopeful, Lord willing, to be able to add another, maybe more exciting update this time next year.

As ever, thanks again to the team for continuing to head up this community, and to all of us out there logging miles every day. Keep it up! I am undeniably grateful for you all. Many blessings!

TOMAS NILSSON'S STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

Hello! Today [31 July 2024] I have been running every day for 2 years. I celebrated with a run equivalent to the distance of a half marathon, coffee and an ice cream boat.

It's been a fun two years with everything from tropical heat to minus 30 degrees, broken ribs and pain in various places but I'll be running again tomorrow!

TOMMI NYMAN'S STREAK HITS 4 YEARS

Today [29 July 2024], I'm celebrating 4 fantastic years of running every day! It's been a journey filled with both sweat and joy. Regardless of the weather, I've gone out and run—whether in scorching sun, pouring rain, or biting cold.

The result? I'm 20 kg lighter, sleep better, and my body feels great. Running has given me so much more than just a strong physique; it's boosted my confidence and made me feel like I can surpass myself every day. As a bonus, I get to set a new personal record each day.

It's been a tough year but I have now completed 115 marathons and joined the 100-marathon club! I have had a few problems with plantar fasciitis and swelling on the side of my foot and I'm working more hours which has affected my mileage but I'm still in the game.

After ending my first run streak at 2,980 days in 2022, my new run streak turned two on August 1, 2024 with the usual "Runniversary Party" at a local bar. Aside from a personal best in the mile (5:48) on New Year's Day 2024, there isn't much streak news to report; just continuing to run my personal minimum of at least 5k per day.

I'm really pleased to have moved up to the "Well Versed" division with my streak having reached 15 plus years. For what started as a goal to run every day for a year to have exceeded a decade and a half is not something I could foresee when I began my streak.

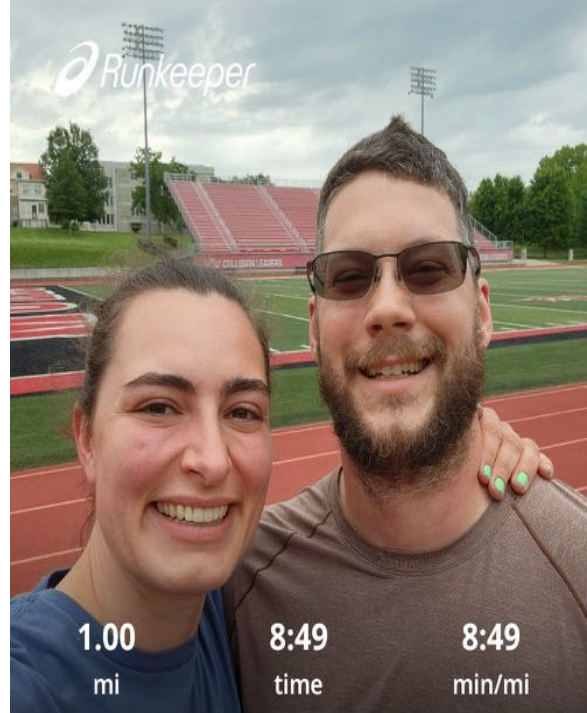

Highlights from the last year include surpassing a decade of averaging more than 10 miles a day, completing my 22nd Full Marathon in Salt Lake City in April-- finishing 42nd overall in 3:03:16, and finishing 6th in the 20th Annual Napa to Sonoma Half Marathon-- my 18th Top 10 finish in that race.

INDIGO GAYDUSEK'S STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

I'm so incredibly grateful for my run streak. It's been something that I've carried for two whole years now.

It feels more like it's carried me though. It's given me 10-15 minutes every day to reset, reflect, and get out frustration. It's given me this needed respite through deaths of two family members. It's given me a reason to show up for myself and never fail at least running one mile. That has given me a confidence in myself.

I ended up running a marathon last year because of the streak too. Got to finish hand in hand with my good friend. Now I don't LOVE running. In fact, most days I'm just getting it done, but man I can see the lasting impact of choosing to do the hard whether you feel like it or not.

SIMONE RUSSELL-MCGUIRE'S STREAK HITS 3 YEARS

Greetings all! Third anniversary happened in spite (warning: bit of a rant) a minor back/hip injury on a giant strength trainer contraption dubbed "Col. Klink."

Some months into the streak run year made me cautious at first, fortunately I had zero pain issues with running. (Hazzah!) Months later and five days before the fifth anniversary of me beginning to run, and donning a shirt emblazoned with the words "Mother Runner"... the doctor didn't talk about what I came for. No, no. The elderly doctor looked at my age, said "it happens to the best of us"... and talked about a very old nemesis of mine.

Wait... but I don't have arthritis pain. I haven't in a few decades. Wait... I know what arthritis pain feels like. I had that in my twenties... crutches, couldn't walk, basketball sized swollen knees and all up and down flights of stairs.

"No more running," he said. Silence. File not found. I blinked over and over amazed that I did not rage in my mind and show tears at the very thought. (I was taught to follow the doctor's advice. Weren't you?) I was very polite, "yes sir"... and very calm as he extolled the virtues of swimming. What?!?

Even when he stated running was "dull and plodding" for the twenty or thirty minutes he decided I ran per week. (Lol, that's so cute...try hours per day, honey.) I truly tried to explain and it made no difference.

In my head I was dumbfounded: "What?!? Never ever again go run with my family three times a week? What?!? They get to run and I don't? Me at home? On a bike? In a car? What... like FOREVER? They get to run past (with head lamps) the glitter-eyed spiders (Wolf spiders) lining the edges of the road in the cool dark of a Florida winter evening... and I don't?

The running path my husband finished (for me) in the backyard that I use ever-y-day.. Whh-att?!? I get to see my son run on it... only he... but... not... ME? (Gasp!)

No more sprinting with absolute joy and glee to the beginning of a live version of Depeche Mode's "Everything Counts" or DM's Chris Avantgarde Remix of "Before We Drown"? Over... my... dead... body."

Running rescued me from debilitating migraines. Running knocked out my asthma. Running has been a God-send for sleep. Life was a living Hell in too many ways. Running has enabled me to live and ENJOY!

My sky, my trees, my birds, my path... I can't know how long my streak running will last. I can't know how long running in general will last. Running and especially a streak seems so fragile. But I absolutely do know my quality of life has immeasurably improved.

Time will tell if I am a fool and pain free running is actually shortening my life. My Latin is too rusty from high school, but the internet translator is hopefully close enough... "Memento Mori" may be "remember you die" (as a side note: thank you DM, please come out with another album... need more to run to)... but I like the phrase "Memento ego curram vivere"... or as Google translates "Remember I run to live"...

I probably should add "and apparently to buy running shoes." 7,000 miles over the years seemed to require a pair or two. (Photo courtesy of husband, and was his idea.)

SIMON ANGELDORFF'S STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

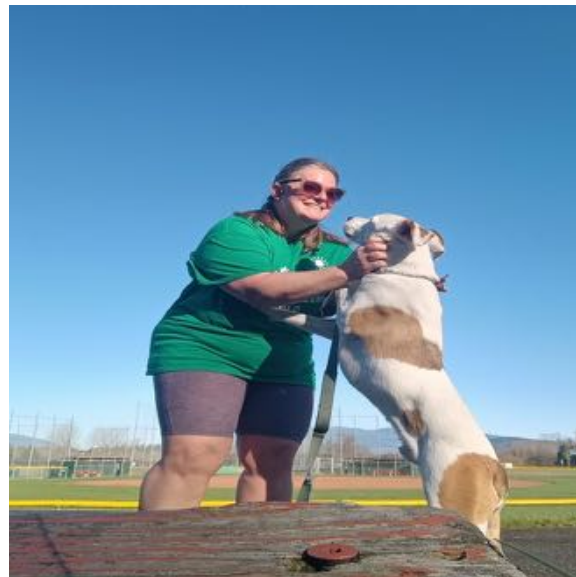

I recently passed my 2-year runstreak anniversary. It feels odd to think about all the crazy places and times that I have run, in order to keep my runstreak. Up and down ski-slopes in winter; with a backpack on my back and wearing formal dinner shoes during a 'close-call' run in Stockholm at close to midnight, as I was late from an event. Regardless, I feel very happy to keep my runstreak, as that is now an unbreakable part of my identity.

I feel motivated by the community here, not least by my old schoolfriend Daniel, who has passed the 1,000-day milestone. Well done, Daniel!!

I don't have a 'runstreak target' to meet, just to keep going. Wishing you all continued success on your runstreak journeys!

Kind regards,

NATALIE CUTHBERT'S STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

Celebrating 2 years feels absolutely amazing. Starting this streak after ending my first one wasn't fully planned. I went for a run and said "if I run tomorrow then I'm starting a new streak."

In my second year of this run streak I completed my 21st half marathon (Whidbey Island Half) and got my redemption marathon (Jack and Jill downhill) after a DNF in 2022, and did another Ragnar (Northwest Passage).

I'm so lucky to have people in my life who understand the importance of this to me and will patiently wait when I say "can I just do my mile real quick?" Or they'll say "did you get your run in today?" when it's getting late.

I've been lucky to have friends and family who'll go with me when I'm in unfamiliar places. A good support system goes a long way in maintaining this streak. Let's get to year 3!

Karyn Sable Feder

KARYN SABLE FEDER'S STREAK HITS 4 YEARS

I just passed my 4-year streak! I started running when I was 39 years old. I had never run before that except when I was a little girl playing hide and seek in my Brooklyn neighborhood with the kids on the block.

When I was 39, and still single, I thought I would sign up for a triathlon to meet guys. Yes, I actually did that and not only had I never run before, but I didn't even know how to swim! (Needless to say, I didn't meet my husband that way and he doesn't even run! I guess fate is a real thing!)

After signing up for that triathlon, I trained really hard and learned how to swim and started running. I had biked before so I just kept on doing that. It turned out that I loved triathlon and continued on to do a total of 23 triathlons since then with one of them a half ironman.

Then I made a friend at the end of a NYRR race in Central Park. We just started talking and she was into marathons so we decided to exchange numbers and I would help her with triathlon, and she would help me with marathoning.

In 2006 at age 41, I ran my first NYC marathon and was planning on it being a "one and done" but I loved it so much, I never stopped. I started doing more marathons than triathlons and as of this moment, I have done 34 marathons and one ultra-marathon. This November will be my 16th NYC Marathon. On a side note, I'm up to 85 half marathons!

For many years, I considered doing a streak and would start but only last about a month. I was a teacher in Brooklyn and was so busy that I didn't want to think about running every day. I even thought I would get obsessed and didn't want that for me. I kept trying though and giving up.

When I moved to NJ and had to commute to Brooklyn for work, I had less time but still started and stopped a streak and with the commute, I couldn't even get a month streak done.

I remember coming home one night exhausted from work (I used to wake up at 4:20am and not get home until 6pm) and it was freezing out and the thought of running a mile in the dark and cold convinced me I don't want to do a streak. I didn't have a treadmill back then. Then the pandemic happened and I didn't have to drive to work. It was all online and I had time to run in the morning before work so I thought maybe I should try a streak again.

I started February 1st in 2020 and managed to get 5 months of running every day when I broke my toe at the end of June. The doctor said it was a bad break but it didn't hurt and I didn't want to give up my streak so I kept running with sandals on.

Everyone was yelling at me to stop but I didn't want to. I figured if it didn't hurt why should I stop? I went a few more days like that. When my husband said, "what if you do damage and can never run again?" I got scared and stopped.

I figured it was only 5 months and I will start again when I was healed. That is exactly what I did. On Aug. 5th of that same year 2020, I started again and now it's 4 years later and I'm still going strong.

I don't think of it as being obsessed anymore. It's a part of my life and I can't imagine NOT running every day. It's making me a stronger runner too because I take 2 days to run 1-2 miles just to keep the streak and to me those 2 days are my rest days. I also "run the year" every year now that I have time.

Besides starting my streak in 2020, I also retired from teaching 30 years so while the streak was starting, the career was ending. That was a huge turning point because I had time to do what I really wanted and that was to run every day, train for speed and get faster.

Now I'm turning 59 in a few weeks and I have been placing in a lot of my racing, getting faster and having more PRs than ever and I have no intentions of stopping.

THE FINISH LINE

By: Mark Washburne

Twenty-five years ago, on 1 September 1999, John and Dawn Strumsky of Millersville, Maryland met with an attorney to discuss their dream of forming the United States Running Streak Association (USRSA). The next year, on 7 August 2000, the Articles of Incorporation for USRSA was accepted by the State of Maryland. As we head into our Silver anniversary year, we want to thank the Strumskys, along with George Hancock of Windber, Pennsylvania, who created the first running streak list back in 1994, for their efforts in organizing our running streak group.

For the first twelve years of our running streak association, USRSA only listed streaks from the United States but, starting in 2012, we opened up our lists up to the world and Streak Runners International (SRI) was born. A dozen years later, SRI now lists streaks from athletes located in 77 countries with the top three countries with active and retired streaks outside the USA being Sweden, United Kingdom, and Canada.

In this issue, we salute one of our international runners from Canada. Doug Dixon, who lists his occupation as retired from Minden, Ontario, holds the third longest active running streak in Canada. His streak hit 20 years in May. Besides being an every day runner, Mr. Dixon is also a marathon runner who has finished several Boston Marathons over the years. Please see page 11 for his story.

This Fall issue also features another streak runner who has completed several Boston Marathons. In April 2024, Dave McGillivray, from North Andover, Massachusetts, finished his 52nd consecutive Boston Marathon with his daughter Elle and son Max. What is truly amazing about Mr. McGillivray's accomplishment is that he is the race director of the Boston Marathon. Wow! Please see his story on page 13.

Unfortunately, in the last quarter, we had some long running streaks end. George Church, from Cockeysville, Virginia, tripped, fell, and fractured his left hip on 17 July 2024 ending his streak after 13,136 days (35.96 years). Diane Shumway, from Corvallis, Montana, ended her streak on 26 June 2024 after 8,797 days (24.08 years) in anticipation of having lumbar fusion surgery. Kenny Booth, from Kirkland, Washington, ended his streak on 16 June 2024 after nursing a torn tendon in his knee for a year. Mr. Booth's streak ended after 7,350 days (20.12 years).

The longest running streak to end last quarter belonged to George Brown, a school principal from Richlands, Virginia, but the story is sadder than just ending his streak. On Saturday, 27 July 2024, George Brown passed away unexpectedly after running 4 miles the day before. Started on 6 January 1981, Principal Brown's streak ended after 15,908 days (43.55 years) and his streak now appears 12th on our retired listed.

We also learned that Peter MacFarlane, from Albuquerque, New Mexico, passed on 23 July 2024, while out for a run. Started on 11 May 2020, Mr. MacFarlane's streak ended after 1,535 days (4.20 years).

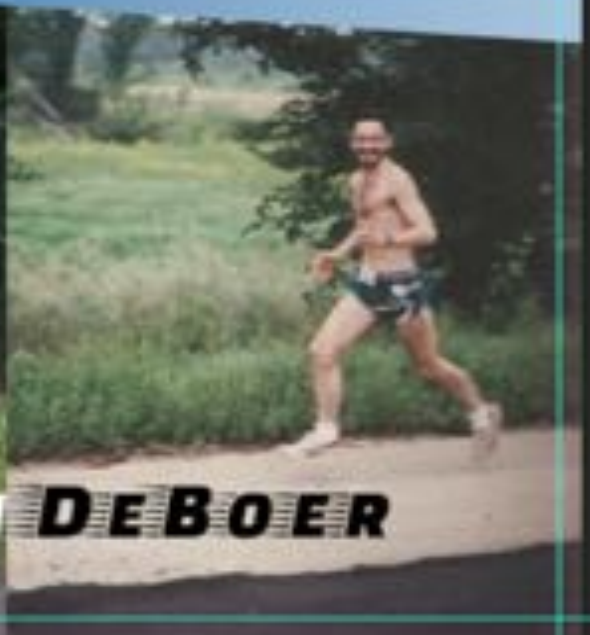

We send our condolences to the Brown and MacFarlane families. As always, I also want to wish all of you good luck as we each run the roads and trails – every day!
