Geza Feld

GEZA FELD PASSES AT AGE 90;
7TH ATHLETE TO JOIN USRSA AND ORIGINAL BOARD MEMBER;
CAME UP WITH NAME “STREAK RUNNERS INTERNATIONAL”

By: Mark Washburne

Our running streak association was saddened to learn of the passing of Geza Feld, a retired Bank Officer from Farmingdale, New York. We were late to hear of the news and he actually passed on 13 December 2023 at the age of 90.

Geza Feld was one of our pioneering members being the 7th person to join the United States Running Streak Association (USRSA) on 18 January 2001. He was also one of the original members of the USRSA Board of Directors lasting until his passing.

Geza Feld was also the USRSA Board Member who came up with the name “Streak Runners International.” In that regard, back in January 2012 as the new President of USRSA, I sent an email to the Board suggesting that we invite streak runners from around the world to join our association and that we call the new group the “World Running Streak Association.”

The Board agreed to expand our running streak association but there was some discussion on our new name. Mr. Feld suggested the name that the Board eventually adopted. “The title of the group is a delightfully delicate question,” noted Reza Geza in an email to me dated 6 January 2012. “When you have an organization the words 'Association', 'Organization', 'Group', 'Party' etc...is a kind of implied, it goes with a group automatically. If we drop that 'A', a three-letter abbreviation comes to mind. SRI. - Streak Runners International. The plural in Runners also implies a group. Sri in Sanskrit means Lord. It is also used for veneration of deities. No, I do not imply we are anything like that but we do ignore weather, work, (sometimes family), pain and many other obstacles in our focus on the STREAK. Damn it, we are Sri-s. Lords of the road.”

Over his illustrious running career, Geza Feld had three running streaks. His first and longest streak lasted over 30 years from 1 October 1976 to 27 July 2007. His second streak lasted 4+ years from 1 August 2007 to 11 October 2011. His third and final running streak lasted for a year and a half from 4 November 2014 to 6 June 2016. Geza Feld was 82-years old when this third running streak ended.

We send our condolences to Mr. Feld’s widow Alina, his daughters Anne Lowell and Jennifer Taylor, and all his family and friends. Please click to see his obituary: <https://maconnellfuneralhome.com/tribute/details/8090/Geza-Feld/obituary.html>

Below are some of the updates, advice, and poems we received from (and about) Mr. Feld over the years:

TSR APRIL 2001 USRSA BOARD MEMBERS

Geza Feld of Farmingdale, New York. Although Geza was not a runner in his youth, he was competitive in many other sports, including: soccer, judo, mountaineering and bicycling. He is 67, married to Alina, has two grown daughters, and still works as a computer systems manager. He started to run in May of 1975 because he was overweight and out of shape due to a sitting office job and graduate school at night.

As a result of Dr. Kenneth Cooper’s book “Aerobics,” he began to shed pounds and increase his stamina. Then, on October 1, 1976, he started his streak. Watching Bill Rogers beat Frank Shorter in that year’s New York City Marathon decided him on training to run one. His best year was 1981, when at age 48, he ran personal bests in the mile (5:00”), the 5K (16:52”), the 10K (35:38”) and 10 miles (59:45”). He’s won a number of national and local age group championships at various distances.

TSR FALL 2001 MEMBER COMMENTS

Geza Feld (10/1/76) – “In order to increase my mileage I started to run every day but had no idea or plan for any streak.”

TSR SUMMER 2003
GEZA FELD ON GOOD HEALTH

Dear Geza: I've heard that cardiovascular exercise can prolong life. Is this true? Running in Rochester.

Dear Rochester: Your heart is only good for so many beats, and that's it. Don't waste them on exercise. Everything wears out eventually. Speeding up your heart will not make you live any longer. That's like saying you can extend the life of your car by driving faster. Want to live longer? Take a nap.

Dear Geza: Why do some people say I'm out of shape because I'm round. Lumpy from Louisiana.

Dear Lumpy: Beats me. Round is a shape too.

Dear Geza: How can I calculate my body/fat ration? Aspiring Athlete in Atlanta.

Dear Aspiring: Aspiring is better than perspiring. To answer your question, if you have a body, and you have body fat, your ratio is one to one. If you have two bodies, your ratio is two to one, etc.

Dear Geza: What are some of the advantages of participating in a regular exercise program? Clyde in Cleveland.

Dear Clyde: I can't think of a single one. Sorry. My philosophy is: No pain – Good!

Dear Geza: What's the secret to healthy eating? Polly in Peoria.

Dear Polly: Thicker gravy.

Dear Geza: Will sit-ups help prevent me from getting a little soft around the middle? A potential gym rat.

Dear Rat: Definitely not! When you exercise a muscle, it gets bigger. You should only be doing sit-ups if you want a bigger stomach.

TSR FALL 2003
GEZA FELD ON PROPER NUTRITION

Dear Geza: Should I cut down on meat and eat more fruits and vegetables? A concerned streak runner.

Dear Concerned: You must grasp the logistical efficiencies. What does a cow eat? Hay and corn, right? And what are these? That's right. Vegetables. So, a steak is nothing more than an efficient mechanism for delivering vegetables to your system. Need grain? Eat chicken. Beef is also a good source of field grass, a green leafy vegetable. And a pork chop can give you 100% of your recommended daily allowance of vegetable slop.

Dear Geza: Is beer or wine bad for me? Wondering in Wisconsin.

Dear Wondering: Look, it goes to the earliest point about fruits and vegetables. As we all know, scientists divide everything in the world into three categories: animal, mineral, and vegetable. We all know that beer and wine are not animal, and they are not on the periodic table of elements, so that only leaves one thing, right? My advice: have a burger and a beer and enjoy your solid and liquid vegetables.

Dear Geza: Aren't fried foods bad for you? Thinking about running.

Dear Thinking: You're not listening. Foods are fried these days in vegetable oil. In fact, they're permeated in it. How could getting more vegetables be bad for you?

Dear Geza: Is chocolate bad for me? A rotund runner.

Dear Rotund: Are you crazy? Cocoa beans. . . another vegetable. Good eating to all.

YOUNG AT HEART
GETTING TO KNOW GEZA FELD
INTERVIEW BY JOHN STRUMSKY

I first had the pleasure of meeting Geza Feld almost four years ago, when he and his lovely wife, Alina, traveled down from Farmingdale, New York to attend Bob Ray Day in Townson, Maryland to celebrate then 33 years of streak running.

Geza is a modest and most pleasant fellow who lets his legs do his bragging. Ever since he agreed to serve on the USRSA's board of directors shortly after its founding, we have been unsuccessfully attempting to have him tell us about some of his running exploits. As I finally told him, trying to pry information out of the Sphinx would be less frustrating.

But then, about six months ago, he started providing us with humorous pieces for The Streak Registry, and we used that as a lever to get him to agree to be interviewed by us.

Now, as he enters the 70 and over age group, here is Geza in his own words:

John Strumsky: Geza, thank you for finally allowing us to interview you.

Geza Feld: My pleasure.

John: Before we start talking about running, could you let us know a bit about your personal background? Just some brief information about who is Geza Feld?

Geza: I was born in Budapest, Hungary on October 19, 1933. I am a retired systems analyst really enjoying retirement.

John: Are you married?

Geza: Yes, I'm married to Alina, who is 22 years younger, which is motivation itself to run. I can still outrun her but she can out-argue me as she holds a Ph.D. in Philosophy.

John: Do you have any children?

Geza: Yes. I have two married daughters. The older one is a writer and the younger is a paralegal.

John: Back when you were working, how did you manage your family's needs and your work responsibilities plus meeting your running goals in your lifestyles?

Geza: Frankly, it was not easy. I was working long hours and commuting to Manhattan daily. Since I retired in 2001, I've been so busy that I can't understand how I ever did find time for work and all the other things I was doing.

John: Does your running cause any major conflicts with anyone else in your life?

Geza: None at all. People adjust to a schedule if it is steady. Unpredictability is more frustrating to those around you than predictability.

John: Does anyone else in your family run?

Geza: Both of my daughters do now, but neither one would when I wanted them to about 20 years ago.

John: Do you have any regular training or racing partners?

Geza: I've had a few running partners for a long time. One, Fred Winkel, is a stalker himself, and owns a 24-year streak.

John: Yes, we know Fred. He was the first American, in 1988, to be designated a Swedish Classic Athlete for his prowess in a number of sports.

Do you have any racing buddies?

Geza: Yes. Many of my old competitors became friends after locking horns for decades.

John: Well, Fred always seems to be involved in a slew full of sports. Have you participated in any other sports over the years?

Geza: I was judo champion of Hungary in my youth, and have taken part in many different sports all my life. Some have been extreme, like rock climbing and caving; some mild, like chess; and some in between like soccer and biking.

John: According to our records your running streak started on October 1, 1976. Can you tell us about how it came to be?

Geza: My streak – like most others – did not start with a preconceived plan. I watched the 1976 New York Marathon where Bill Rodgers out-dueled Frank Shorter. After the race, I picked up a hitchhiking Shorter and and Runner's World editor George Hirsch and gave them a ride. At that time, I had a streak that was a few weeks long, and the excitement of those events caused me to decide to train for and run a marathon. That added an extra six or seven months to my 'streak,' and I decided to stretch it to a year. That year turned to five, and then ten, and now it's over 27 years.

John: Did you have any particular reasons for running every day?

Geza: I began to run in 1975, at the age of 42, for the same reason many people had: smoking, overweight, out of shape, and so on. I rode a desk during the day and attended graduate school at night. My life was spent sitting. Then I read Ken Cooper's New Aerobics, which was a best seller at the time, and book in hand, I went to a track the day after graduation. My first mile was over ten minutes, and I almost collapsed at the end of it. But somehow, I liked it. Sticking with it brought my time down to under six minutes in two years. Then the racing bug bit me. Running daily brought steady improvement, and I started reading training and racing books. On the track I met some good runners, and together we started a serious training regimen with intervals, hills, long runs and regular racing.

John: What types of unusual experiences have you encountered over the span of your streak?

Geza: I ran into many problems because I traveled a lot and that became tricky at times. Discounting running in and around airports, train stations, hotel corridors and the other crazy places we run to keep it going. I would sometimes be victimized by my work schedule. For example: I am not a morning person. I did most of my runs after work, and one cold January evening I had to fly to Tampa, Florida. The plane was to leave at 5 p.m., and I figured that by 7:30 or 8:00 I would be in my hotel, have enough time to run and have a leisurely dinner. I was actually looking forward to escaping the freezing rain in New York and running in a balmy 60 degrees in Florida.

Ah, but the plans of mice and men. After sitting on the plane for two hours without moving, I started to recalculate my schedule. The wings were covered with thick ice and a big machine was spraying the plane with hot, salty water. So far so good. The ice melted and we were ready to move, but about 20 planes were ahead of us, some of them under deicing now. So, we waited more and the icy rain kept pouring down, and by the time our turn was up we had another thick layer of ice covering us. The deicing monster came again, and after another hot, salty shower we were back at the end of the queue again. Long story short, I became more and more anxious as seven p.m. slipped to eight and then nine.

By ten we had been sitting on the plane for five hours without leaving the gate, and no one was allowed to deplane. I realized that even if we could take off now we would not arrive until past midnight. And, the streak was over.

This called for immediate action. I walked up to the front of the plane, where the door was connected to the airport with one of those moving corridors which acts as an umbilical cord to bridge the gap between the building and the plane. I politely asked the stewardess to open the door because I wanted to go out to run. Even though this happened years before the 9/11 events, she looked at me like I was deranged, and explained that the gate at the terminal end of the chute was closed.

I explained to her that I was a runner, had a near 20-year streak going, and was not about to break it now. I said if she did not let me out I would run back and forth in the plane for about 9 minutes for my mile. At that point some of the passengers who were now all quite irate came to my assistance by yelling to her to let me out. After a quick conversation with the pilot, she opened the door. I took off my shirt (I had a t-shirt under it), and in street shoes and long pants I dashed out of the plane. It only took about 15 seconds to reach the end of the chute, where the door was indeed closed. I turned around and ran back to the plane, turned around and ran back to the plane, turned around and ran back, then back and forth until my time was up. I even added another minute to the run to compensate for all the turnarounds.

When I finished and stepped back on the plane the passengers erupted in cheers and applause. I took off my t-shirt in the restroom, towed down as best as I could, put my shirt back on and returned to my seat. We got to Tampa well past 1 a.m., but I could not care less.

Then there was the time I arrived in Vienna to discover my running gear went to Amsterdam. But that's another story.

John: How have you incorporated racing into your running streak?

Geza: The streak conditioned me for racing, but I would race with or without the streak. I love racing for the excitement of it. Maybe I'm an adrenaline junkie.

John: How many races have you run?

Geza: 464 and counting.

John: Over what distances?

Geza: From the half-mile to marathons, but mostly 5 and 10Ks.

John: Would you care to share with our members any thoughts you have on your racing times and finishes?

Geza: Someone told me at the beginning of my running, that with good training, one can steadily improve until about six years, then it plateaus and levels off. You reach a point of diminishing returns. That's exactly what happened to me. I ran my best times in 1981 as a 48-year-old.

John: For our readers benefit, let me mention that you've run a five-minute mile, a 16:52 5K and a 35:38 10K. You must have been winning some of those races?

Geza: Yes, in 1984 at age 50, I ran 41 races, winning 39 of them. I also participated in a 4 X 1-mile relay, where our team set a new American record of 20:47 for 50 to 60-year olds. The record lasted for more than ten years, but I did not. I felt burned out, and felt the need to cut back on my mileage and racing. I went from 55 to 60 miles a week to less than 30, but it saved my legs and sanity. Nowadays, my goal is simply to slow down less than my competitors do. I have this feeling that the older I get, the better I was.

John: Overall, do you feel the streak has helped or hampered your racing times?

Geza: It certainly helped in conditioning and mental toughness. Of course, I made sure that the day before a race I did not more than a mile or two to rest my legs.

John: If you could do it over again, what, if anything, would you change?

Geza: If I could do it over again, I would start at age 22, not 42.

John: Do you have any other interests?

Geza: Yes. Music, dance, outdoor life, arts, weight lifting, travel and an all-round healthy lifestyle.

John: Is there anything else that you are looking forward to doing?

Geza: Yes. I can't wait to get my arms around my first grandchild who is due this coming Christmas.

John: Geza, thank you so much for this opportunity. I know you would rather be running than talking. Are there any closing thoughts you could share with us?

Geza: I try to let younger runners in my running club know that they should try to save themselves from burnout and injuries. Don't run too much. Don't run too hard. Run on a soft surface as much as possible. Practice moderation. We are into this for the 'long run,' no pun intended. I've seen too many good runners over train then disappear.

TSR SPRING 2004 GEZA FELD ON GOOD HEALTH

Q: How do you prevent sudden death during exercise?

A: Having never spoken to runners who experienced sudden death, I can't answer that question.

Q: What do you recommend for fatigue of the ventilatory muscles?

A: When you want ventilation, open the windows.

Q: Will blood doping improve my race times?

A: How can a blood transfusion from some dope make us faster?

Q: I suffer from muscle cramps in races. How can I avoid them?

A: Don't run races.

Q. Should I keep a running log?

A: If the log is running, how can you keep it?

Q: Why should I check my waking pulse rate?

A: Because it's easier than checking your sleeping pulse rate.

Q: Is a coach really necessary?

A: Not if you can afford first class accommodations.

Q: How can I tell if I have anorexia nervosa?

A: If the championship chip attached to your shoelaces weights more than you, you are anorexic.

A: You are abnormal, which means you are a normal runner.

Q: As I'm aging, I'm getting flat feet. How can I prevent this?

A: Run ultras and you won't live to get older.

Q: As I get older, should I have regular foot exams?

A: If you are getting older and still running, a head exam is more appropriate.

Q: What can I do for aging feet?

A: Have you considered foot transplants from a younger runner?

A: Don't run.

Q: What are heel spurs?

A: U-shaped pointed devices attached to a coach's boot to be used on his runners to make them run faster.

Q: What running shoes are recommended for durability?

A: Horseshoes.

Q: My problem is hammer toes.

A: I can't nail a solution until you tell me if it's ballpeen, claw, tack or jackhammer.

THE STREAKERS
POEM BY GEZA FELD
SEPTEMBER 2004

You don't need here much support
Running is a simple sport:
Left foot, right foot, one, two, three.
There you go, they all can see.

Dodging all the snide remarks,
Circling people, bikes and cars,
Plastered with mud, foot to top,
While you outrun pesky dogs,

Bundled up like Eskimos, or melting only those,
who run in heat and humidity,
understand with humility.

Climb the hills and run the flats,
Let the downhill make you fast,
Morning, day, night all the same
When you're out there and you claim:

Nothing hurts you, not a thing,
You can outrun everything,
The race is yours, you gladly hear
When they offer you all the beer

What you can drink, and that's a lot,
"Where's the keg, I'm really hot."
Adrenalin ours – just to ease
The pain in your poor aching knees

But one thing you must remember!
Heat of June or cold December
Death Valley or mountain peak;
Run each day to keep your streak.

TSR SUMMER 2005 GEZA FELD RANKED #1 IN U.S.A. FOR 2004 AT NATIONAL MASTERS CHAMPIONSHIP

Geza Feld, then 70, a USRSA board member from Farmingdale, New York won the steeplechase in his age group at the 2004 National Masters Championship in Decatur, Illinois this past August.

Traditionally, the steeplechase is contested over a 3,000-meter course. But in the masters' competition it is run over a 2,000-meter course, consisting of four 30" high hurdles and a 13' water jump.

Feld became interested in the event when he watched athletes of varying ages competing in the event, then decided it would be something new and unusual to try. So, he started practicing hurdles and jumps.

August 8, 2004 found him at the Nationals, where he simply looked forward to competing against the five other men in his age group. At the end of the race, it was he who came in first and captured the gold medal.

Male 70-74 Competitors at USA National Championship

Geza Feld	9:50.17
G. McClenathen	10:06.69
Alvin Ravenscroft	10:42.40
Jim Hite	11:26.36
Hal Higdon	13:41.51
Phillip Johnson	15:50.39

TSR SUMMER 2005 GEZA FELD CHECKS IN

Sorry I've sort of disappeared, but I've been busy lately and have been traveling a lot.

I'm okay and running in spite of a hamstring pull. I can run with it, but only slowly and with a mild discomfort, so my racing times are horrendous this year. On the other hand, I won the National Championship in the 2,000 steeplechase this last August, and have been ranked #1 in the U.S. for 2004 by National Masters News in the March issue.

My best to everyone.

TSR FALL 2005 GEZA FELD ON SIGNS YOU ARE PAST YOUR PRIME

As you sprint to the finish line your false teeth fall out.

You ask if Geritol is available at water stations.

You ask if portable johns are available on the course.

When you got into running you were a blond, and spectators called out, "Go Whitey!" Now they see your sparse white hair and say, "Go easy, Whitey!"

You use early bird specials for seniors to carbo load.

You used to really hammer those short races in light shoes. Now you look for shoes that are a comfortable fit for your hammer toes.

You used to sprint so fast that you worried you would become prostate. Now you worry about your prostate.

Sometimes you forgot whether the race was a 5K or a 10K. Now you forget distance, date, location, your age and your gender.

You remember playing marbles as a child. Now people who see you run say, "That old guy must have lost his marbles."

You look for wheelchair races not limited to the handicapped.

You try to convince race directors to stop using the champion chip and use an hourglass.

You take Viagra to get enough strength to tie the lace on your running shoes.

You remember when a 60+ runner ran in the fun run for kids.

This is an extraordinary year so far. I've got a grandson in California this past January, then a granddaughter in Connecticut in May, then a job for my wife in Oregon in June, so I have been all over the place. That means I'm way behind with my "to do" list. On the other hand, they say "the sooner you fall behind, the more time you have to catch up."

I agree with some of the streakers that the membership dues should go higher. I'm sending an additional $80 to help with the expenses.

I'm looking forward to joining the "Masters" in October!

TSR WINTER 2007-2008
DING DONG, THE STREAK IS DEAD
By: Geza Feld

The streak is over! The streak is over! Oh, what a relief? I don't have to spend time every morning plotting about when, where, how much, how fast, what course, with whom, etc. . . . I can focus on Real life. Real life without running.

I could stand it for only four days. Real life without running stinks!

But let's start at the beginning. Last June my friend, Fred Winkel, also a streaker, invited me on, as he put it "a nice and easy 20-mile bike ride." At 74 years old, I had not been on a bike for more than 10 years, so obviously I told him, "No problem, except that I don't have a bike."

"I'll lend you one," he said. He owns a number of fancy racing bikes, even one from Greg LeMond, former Tour de France Champion. They are the kind of bikes with pedals where you clip in your cleats and have gears beyond my comprehension. But I went out, bought a helmet and showed it to my wife as proof of my sanity.

Fred and I started out with fearless abandon, recapturing the thrills of our inner, not too bright youngsters. We zipped in and out of traffic, scaring the daylighters out of SUV and truck drivers on roads with little or no shoulders. Once out of town traffic subsided but the hills started to grow.

My running sneakers kept slipping off the pedals and the nice 'n easy" ride turned into a fast, hilly struggle. Fred tried to have a conversation, and I tried to hide that I was panting.

About halfway into the ride, just when I pictured myself as Lance Armstrong smoking the competition in the mountains, I hit a pothole and became airborne, shooting over the handlebars.

Since I had no parachute, I landed on my right shoulder. BANG! The big BANG! Full rotator cuff tear. Fortunately, I did not know it, so we finished the ride, in spite of my throbbing shoulder.

I drove home from his house, steering with one hand. I remembered the saying: "Sometimes you are the windshield. Sometimes you are the bug."

I waited for a miracle for a few weeks, but the pain persisted. An x-ray showed no broken bones so I continued to wait for the miracle. Again, no luck. An MRI revealed the extent of the damage; one full tear and one partly torn ligament.

The injury did not stop my streak. I just had to run slower because of the limited range of movement in my right arm. But the pain worsened. They say, "No pain, no gain." Well this was a lot of pain and no gain. They also say "pain builds character." True, I became quite a character.

Finally, an arthroscopic surgery was scheduled for July 27th. By coincidence, this fell on the same day that Fred's running related knee replacement surgery was scheduled in a different hospital.

I ran at 1 a.m. on the day of the surgery, but the following day, "which will forever live in infamy," I had to end my streak. Fred's streak also ended on the 28th of July, and he is recuperating in good spirits.

I took three more days off. After that my wife said, "Time to start running again. You look miserable."

So, I started a new streak on August 1st. The streak is now 31 days young. It is a far cry of the almost 31 years I had before, but it is a start. If I can build up to another 31 years, I might still become the first centenarian streaker.

I'm not sure if I can make it, but it's an inspiring goal.

TSR SPRING 2010

This cartoon above somehow haunts me.
I am coming back to it for weeks again and again.
It reminds me of running, aging and the human spirit.

We all start out as fresh fish - full of hope energy and running.
Then we accomplish, whatever we accomplish in career, family, PR-s.
We are still the FISH.

But time passes. Not just passes, it flies like an arrow.
You've reached the peak. The only way to go is down now.
You are the 'old men' in your field. The bait to catch.
No More PR-s. The family is grown and gone.

So, what's left? Now, here is where the spirit is coming in.
You are still you. Slower, with aches and pains, but still going.
Your streak is alive and you know that the compost is good.
It is the fertilizer, it is like the money.
In a pile it stinks, spread it and life burst forth.
Spread yourself and give back some of life's gifts.
Make the best of whatever you got. And don't forget;
You are lucky. You are still alive. You are running.

TSR WINTER 2008-2009 GEZA FELD REPORTS HIS NEW STREAK

Things are OK around here except for some aches and pains. But that is par for the course for a streaker who is now 75.

I may send some of my new writing next time.

Geza Feld
Farmingdale, New York

Editor's Note [from 2008]: Geza ended a streak of 30 years and 300 days on 7/27/07 due to a serious bicycle accident. Four days later he laced up his running shoes and started all over again.

TSR FALL 2010 FROM FERRARI TO OLDSMOBILE By: Geza Feld

Once upon a time I was a Ferrari. Well, not exactly, but close to. I did not go from 0 to 60 in 5 seconds, but I ran a 5:38 mile at age 60. Not too bad then it's getting better and better as I age. What did they say? The older I get, the better I was.

Memories have their way of making things look better than they were. So, do emotions. I find again and again my emotions are disproportionate to my size. I'm actually a medium, with extra-large emotions.

That's okay except when you start to compare your old self with the present. Then you just have to, not only realize, but also accept that your Ferrari now looks and moves much more like and Oldsmobile.

TSR SPRING 2011 ADVICE TO A STREAKER By: Geza Feld

You asked me what to do to become a Streaker. Well, it is much more than just running every day. It is a different life.

To become a Streaker, you have to be ready and don't asked me for what. You have to be ready for everything and not just for everything but for the opposite of everything too. Summers are hot, winters are cold, nothing new there, not important.

But be ready for days which seem to have less than 24 hours and commitments exceeding that. Be ready for potholes that are lurking in the dark, cars which hit big puddles right where you are running, blizzards, freezing fingers, heat and humidity over 100.

Try to enjoy it, or at least claim that you do.

Be ready time and again, different parts of your body will scream in protest. Ease up and try to convince them that it is just minor detail; they have to look at the big picture.

Beware of blissful, relaxed runs, when you are in the zone, the pace feels easy and the whole world seems to be at peace until a snarling dog brings you back to reality.

Be ready for exhaustion until it feels comfortable and burning lungs until you can embrace the pain . . .

Dress warm sometimes in the heat and run shirtless in the cold. Laugh with the people who laugh at you. Don't be afraid. Laugh at yourself.

Be sensible with your training but throw caution to the wind sometimes recklessly.

Any time of the day is good up to 11:50 p.m. if you can run your mile under ten minutes. But if can't at midnight; PUFF. The magic is over, just like for Cinderella.

A mile a day, or five, or more? In the long run it doesn't matter. What matters is that you were out there.

Slow or fast? Compared to whom? Your fast is slow for some runners and your slow is fast for others. Time and distance are relative.

But don't forget to have a life. That is absolute. The streak is only part of it. There are about 300 million people in the U.S. and about 300 streakers. That means you are one in a million.

You are obviously not normal. Be proud of it. Celebrate it.

There are rules for this mild madness, but the important thing is that at the end of day you'll know that you are alive, more than millions, and you will go out again tomorrow, and then again. . . and again. . . and again. . . .

Are you sure you are up to it? Really?

Then don't look back. Go full speed ahead.

And as I said: Be Ready and don't miss a day.

[Note from 2011 editor]: Geza Feld was the seventh person to join the USRSA, and is a member of its advisory board. Coincidentally, he is also seventh on the Retired Running Streak List, with a completed streak of 11,257 days, spanning 30 years and 300 days. His original streak ended due to a bad bicycle accident, and his new 3 ½ year streak began four days after his old one ended. He is 77, and runs and writes from Farmingdale, New York, where he lives with his wife, Alina.

TSR WINTER 2011-2012
GEZA FELD CELEBRATES 4TH STREAK ANNIVERSARY

Thanks for the congratulation on my 4th anniversary. I am flattered that you want to have an article on my running, but I think we have to wait with that for a while. The reason for that is that I forgot my age.

I ran 28:20 at a 5K but I was not satisfied. I started to do hills and intervals with intensity not designed for age 78. I developed sciatica so severe that in the last few months I am reduced to run only a mile or two per day, sometimes with severe pain.

I tried everything: pills, doctors, reduced mileage, slow pace and there is some improvement but very slow. I'll try physical therapy and hope it will help.

We should wait to do an article when I am back to real running and have something good to say. Until then, here is a joke for our newsletter:

An old man goes to the doctor. "Doc, my right knee hurts."

"How old are you?"

"I am 97."

"Ninety-seven? What do you expect?"

Well, I expect it to be like my left knee, which is also 97 and doesn't hurt at all."

Maybe this will cheer up some of the wounded warriors.

TSR SPRING 2012
GEZA FELD'S NEW STREAK
ENDS AFTER 1533 DAYS

December 7, 1941 - The day that lives in infamy. Certainly, for the Nation, but for my streak and me it was October 11, 2011. That morning I ran 1 mile, went to see a Physical Therapist and listened to his recommendation to stop running. Of course, this came after a barrage of doctors, tests, chiropractors and the inevitable Kubler-Rossian stages of denial, anger, and acceptance. To start at the beginning, I had a good 2010. I won 7 of 14 races and finished second in the other seven. My 5K time was 28:20 - slower than I used to jog decades ago but at age 77 it was acceptable. The 20 seconds, however, still bothers me.

I set a goal of breaking 28 and forgot my age. I went back to intervals, hill work and racing. I won a couple of races in the spring of 2011, then disaster. The morning after the second race my right hip, groin and buttock were so sore that I could hardly walk. Due to good old streaker tradition, however, I ignored it and ran a mile, then two, then three - trusting my past experience that it will go away like it always did.

This time it did not. So, in came the chiropractor to no avail. In came the doctors also to no avail. I had X-rays, an MRI, and the standard recommendation for hip replacement but I ignored the results. By last Summer, I was down to 7 painfully slow miles per week on the track or grass, limping slowly. My best friend and fellow streaker Fred told me, "This is the slowest and ugliest run I've ever seen you doing." Some friend.

The difference between genius and stupidity is that genius has limits. I did not.

After streaking for 35 years with only a 4 days hiatus once for an accident, running was my addiction and benediction. Even if I did not do anything else, which happens in retirement with 6 Saturdays and 1 Sunday for my week, running gave structure to the days and a feeling of accomplishment. Reliability, however, is sometimes a liability.

Only after stopping one realizes the power the streak has on one's life. The first thing in the morning I still check the weather. I have a portable digital thermometer for travel. It is also a clock with wires extending from it with a sensor at the end. I had to do a lot of explaining to Homeland Security at the airports since 9/11. It is grounded now.

Another thing I used to do in the mornings is to put on a stopwatch. Not anymore. The gym, where I bike and swim now, has clocks and the seconds that don't matter.

Eating? No more "not before the run." I eat anytime now and I put on 10 pounds.

Laundry? No sweat. Once a week is enough instead of the old 2-3 times a week.

Family plans? No problem. I will skip the gym.

Travel? Leave the sneakers, shorts, and t-shirts at home.

My local running store probably thinks I moved away. My faithful confidant, my training diary, must feel like a forlorn lover. At night I used to think where to insert my run in next day's schedule. Now? Whatever.

Convenient? Yes, it is. Stinks? Absolutely. It is like listening to silence. Boring.

Running is an art and quantum mechanics all mixed with Voodoo. You are aligned with the Universe. Since there is no real substitute for running in the Universe, the days flow like molasses. In reality, I am on the mend.

The physical therapy and not running is not important. What matters is that the pain is subsiding, the limping is almost gone, and in a few months, I hope to return to the roads. After all, as someone said, "I aspire to inspire before I expire." They also said, "Father Time cannot be denied," Maybe, but I rather believe dreams don't retire.

TSR SUMMER 2012
SUSPECTUS RUNNERUS
By: Dr. Knows Itall (A.K.A. Geza Feld)

Submitted to the Annual symposium on Obsessive Compulsive Behavior. A short excerpt from my anthropological study on a new genus: Suspectus Runnerus.

While studying the genus "Runnerus" in North America an interesting subspecies came to my attention. They call themselves 'Streakers' and occupy an extreme end of the spectrum of the above-mentioned genus 'Runnerus.' Maybe because of their small numbers they mostly avoided detection and research performed on the well-analyzed and documented species like 'Runnerus.'

They are far more extreme in the pursuit of their goals than ordinary runners. For some unknown reason they all insist on running every day regardless of circumstances and obstacles. According to established scientific classification their activities fall into the category of Obsessive-Compulsive Disorder (OCD). Some symptoms listed below will justify this observation: Increased perspiration, elevated heart rate, free flow of adrenaline, anxiety in the face of threats to their streak, sense of uniqueness and an unusual sense of well-being; all signs of OCD. They also insist that their behavior is completely normal. Clearly grounds for suspicion. The gratification of accomplishment or the lack of it creates bipolar 'high' or 'low' extremes in their life.

The subjects studied were mostly kind, well mannered, and displayed almost normal behavior with only a mild disposition of irritability turning to aggressive behavior as time passed and they were in danger of missing their daily fix. Scientific studies observed similar behavior in case of addicts. Their addiction is also clearly demonstrated by their lack of concern for their own safety. Analysis of available data showed that temperatures exceeding 100 F. arid desert like or hot, humid jungle like conditions or below zero, snowy, icy environs, high altitude or Death Valley like depths, daylight or night, dogs, catcalls or cheers do not alter their behavior and deter them from the pursuit of their single-minded goal of running at least a mile a day.

They are less concerned about the location of their addictions. Some run on beaches, some on track, some choose the tundra's or icy places like Minnesota. The smarter ones prefer southern locations but they can be found in any part of the country. They are classified from 'Neophytes' through 'Highly skilled' to 'Legends' depending on the length of their streak. In spite of sometimes decades long running few shows ill effect on their physics. Au contraire. Strangely, they demonstrate surprising resilience strength and stamina aside from some occasional limping. Even those, who are excluded from the group of 'active' streakers claim higher quality of life, extended life span and counter intuitive as it sounds are mostly yearning to rejoin and reborn with a new streak.

In case of injury or other reasons that might put their streak in jeopardy, they go through the Kubler-Rossian steps of Denial, Anger, Bargaining, Depression and Acceptance. They deny or ignore injuries, angry at failing parts of their bodies, bargain by reducing mileage and/or speed, and get depressed if they are forced to acceptance. While they consider themselves part of a group many of them prefer solitary runs. Their obsession is genetically contagious. Family members are known to succumb to the same addiction.

In spite of the fact that there is no known way to prevent the addiction from spreading from the U.S. to other continents, authorities so far have shown no concern about their obsession. They consider them harmless and legally on parole in the custody of their families.

GEZA FELD WAS YOUNG FREEDOM FIGHTER IN THE 1956 HUNGARIAN REVOLUTION

Editor's note: The following message was received from Geza Feld in response to my post in the last issue of The Streak Registry: "Born in '56, I ran 56 races last year at the age of 56."

I just read your writing on the significance of 56. As a historian it might interest you about another important reference to 56: the Hungarian Revolution of 1956. I was there as a young Freedom Fighter, fighting the Russians. They gave me my first streak of running 2 consecutive days while dodging bullets at the same street, same corner. That was the first crack in the Iron Curtain and interestingly the Hungarians provided the last one too in 1989 when they allowed East Germans to get around the Berlin Wall by opening their border to Austria. Yes, 56 is important for the entire world for more than one reason. Congratulations.

GEZA FELD RECALLS 1981 BOSTON MARATHON

I ran the Boston Marathon in 3:01.28 on April 20, 1981. There is a funny story to it, which, I did not find it funny at the time.

My goal was to break 3 hours and I reached a sign on Beacon St. saying 25 mile in 2:49:30, under 7 min. pace. Piece of cake. I'm feeling good. I have more than 10 min. left. No problem.

At that point a spectator in front of an Irish bar held out a paper cup with transparent fluid in it. I needed water, so I grabbed it and gulped it down. Bang. I had to stop. It was gin. I tried to keep going but it was like a punch in the solar plexus. I staggered on, then walked then ran and walked again, ran again. It took almost 12 min. to do the last 1.2 miles. I stopped running marathons. Man plans, gin decides.

TSR WINTER 2015-2016
GEZA FELD, 82, COMPLETES 1ST YEAR OF 3RD STREAK

I am happy to report that as of 11/04/15 I've completed my year of apprenticeship and I am ready to rejoin the ranks of "the few, the brave, the Streakers." Capital "S" for the irrepressible, indefatigable fanatics who defy age, snow, rain, heat, and common sense in the pursuit of the "STREAK."

After my own two streaks, one lasting 31 years and the other 4 more, it is a great joy to return to the "Active" list. On October 11, 2011, a day of infamy, my right hip did not allow me to call my pathetic daily slugging a run anymore and I had to stop running.

The next year and a half I tried everything short of a witchdoctor: cortisone shots, chiropractic, physical therapy and any ointments I could find to avoid surgery. Nothing helped. When even walking became a problem, I gave in. My hip replacement surgery was successfully done in June 2013. With hindsight I can say I should not have wasted all that time on useless remedies. My doctor said if I resume streaking my hip might wear out in 20 years. I told him I'll be glad to return for a replacement at age 99.

By August 2013, I could start slow jogging and by October, on my 80th birthday, I won a 5K race. To tell the truth it was a piece of cake since I was the only one in the age group.

By 2014, my 5K time came down to 30:56 and I won the Long Island Grand Prix, a series of races, winning 10 out of the 12 I entered. I'm also on my way to repeat this in 2015.

No pain, no cane, just a miracle of modern medicine. Unfortunately, someone in the hospital stole the springs I used to have in my legs but I am not complaining. After all I went into the hospital on a cane and now I am a STREAKER again.

TSR FALL 2016 GEZA FELD'S THIRD STREAK ENDS AT 581 DAYS

I want to inform you that my third streak reached an end due to arthritis. My last day was 6/6/16 after 1 year and 216 days.

My three streak now add up to about 36 and a half years.

I had a hip replacement on my right hip 3 years ago and the next one on the left hip will be probably be done in September, of this year. I'll keep you informed.

STEVE SCALES'S STREAK HITS 25 YEARS

By: Steve Scales

Lake Leelanau, Michigan

Up until now I have not submitted a piece for the US Running Streak Association, so this is my first one. I felt that 25 years would be the milestone to warrant submitting something. First, I would like to thank Mark Washburne for keeping this group together and fostering the community of Streak Runners.

As for me, I average about 30 miles a week. Prior to starting my streak, I ran about 4-5 days a week starting in junior high school. My initial reasons for running were to build cardio and control weight as I was a wrestler. Little did I know that running would become a lifelong passion and a big part of my adult life.

Running has played a significant role in my life including how I met my wife. It has been a stress reliever, as well a terrific way to experience new cities and countries. As a food company executive, I traveled extensively and always looked forward to seeing a place that only a long run allows. You get to breathe the air, take in the smells, and listen to the sounds of a place. You also get to see and experience everything in a way that you would never experience driving by in a car.

In the course of my running, I have been hit by a car (driver jumped the curb and hit me in the grass area of a park—also dodged three close calls (I am amazed how easily drivers get off when they are at fault—same applies for bicycling). I have stopped a home burglary on an early morning run (ran up on him as he tried to open a door on a neighbor). I have been questioned by police about crimes I may have seen—when you run at 5 AM you often see things. I have found countless amounts of money to include 100-dollar bills. Outside of the above I really enjoy running in remote areas (and some suburban areas) and running past wildlife while being careful not to disturb them.

As my own editorial with respect to reading the various submissions and studying the streaks I can only hope that, as we are self-validating, that we are all in fact running every day at least one mile. This means running when we don't feel well as there are (in my opinion) no acceptable excuses to miss a single day. I was admitted to the hospital once (Lyme disease from running trails) and I disconnected my IV and ran the day I was admitted for one night. The run made me feel better. I also hope that the self-reported streaks, that for some that began in elementary school, are in fact real and meet the criteria without exception. I only say this as the integrity, and honest reporting, of our Streaks is the basis of this organization.

In closing I am thankful for this organization and the motivation it gives me. The pictures and articles are great. As Streak runners these articles resonate with me and allows me to connect (albeit in a newsletter) with all the other liked-minded runners.

50 States + DC Streaker Stats Traversing the Tundra

By: Steve DeBoer

Modern streak (daily) running began in the United States in the 1950s. The only streaker we know of before 1966 is 1952 Olympian Ted Corbitt, though people that knew Buzz Sawyer of MD say he had running streaks in the 1950s and early 1960s. In 2012, we finally achieved the 50 States + DC goal – a documented streak runner in them all. In November, 2015, we had for the first time an active registered streak runner in all states and DC. Though that did not last, we have now achieved that goal again.

As of 11/1/2024 49 states + DC have had a female running daily (ND has never had a streaking woman). Below is a list of each state, their first documented streaker and some other interesting statistics. Ages of active oldest runners are as of Nov 1, 2024.

CT – Amby Burfoot ran daily for over 9 months and only missed 3 days for 15 ½ months.

MD –Bob Ray was first American to run daily for 20 & 30 years.

CA – Mark Covert was 1st to run daily for 40 and 45 years; Jon Sutherland was 1st to run daily for 50 years but has moved to UT. Youngest, Sierra Stempke, began daily runs before age 4; has most of any state ever (328 as of 9/20/24).

PA – Bruce McLanahan ran daily in high school (mentioned in Runner's World 1977 article on streak running by Nick Marshall).

MN - Steve, Dave and Wendell DeBoer were first family to have 2 and 3 streak runners. Julie Maxwell has longest retired female streak (33 ½ yrs). MN has had highest rate streaking of all states since the mid-70s.

WA – Joel Pearson began daily running with his dad, Jim. Jim's other children, Paige and Hopper, and brother Don, make their family the first one with 5 streakers. Thorson family in MN now has the most - 7. Grable family in MO reached 7 in Jan 2024 and may get to 8 by Spring 2025.

IL – Ken Young (IL & AZ) and Richard Westbrook (FL & GA) are the only male runners to be first in 2 states.

TX - Tied CA for most identified run streakers before 10/25/24. Passed MN with most females (126 vs. 123) MN having been in the lead for the last 20 years.

FL – Lois Bastien (age 88), oldest active streak runner ever; Lois Bastien (44 yrs) has the longest identified streak (retired or active) in the world for women and is oldest woman ever.

WY – Elaine Rountree is only female runner to be the first in 2 states (WY & NV). Eileen's first streak is the oldest for women but not discovered until 2011.

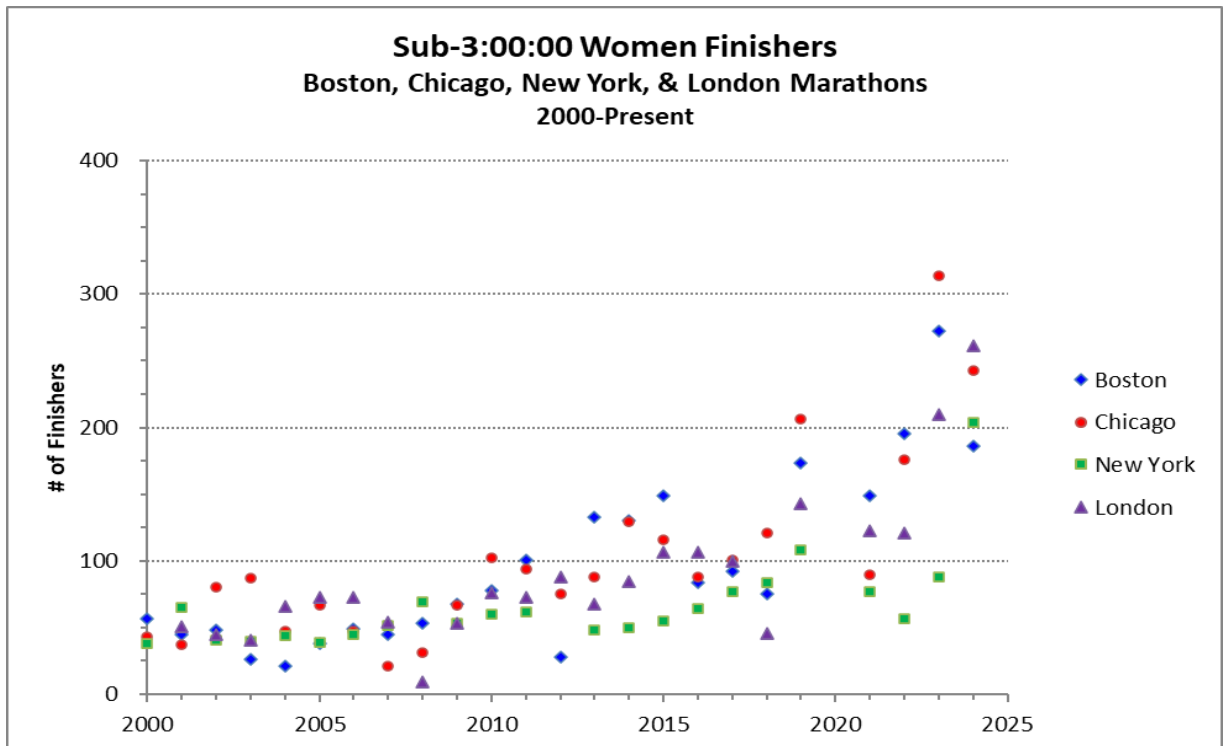

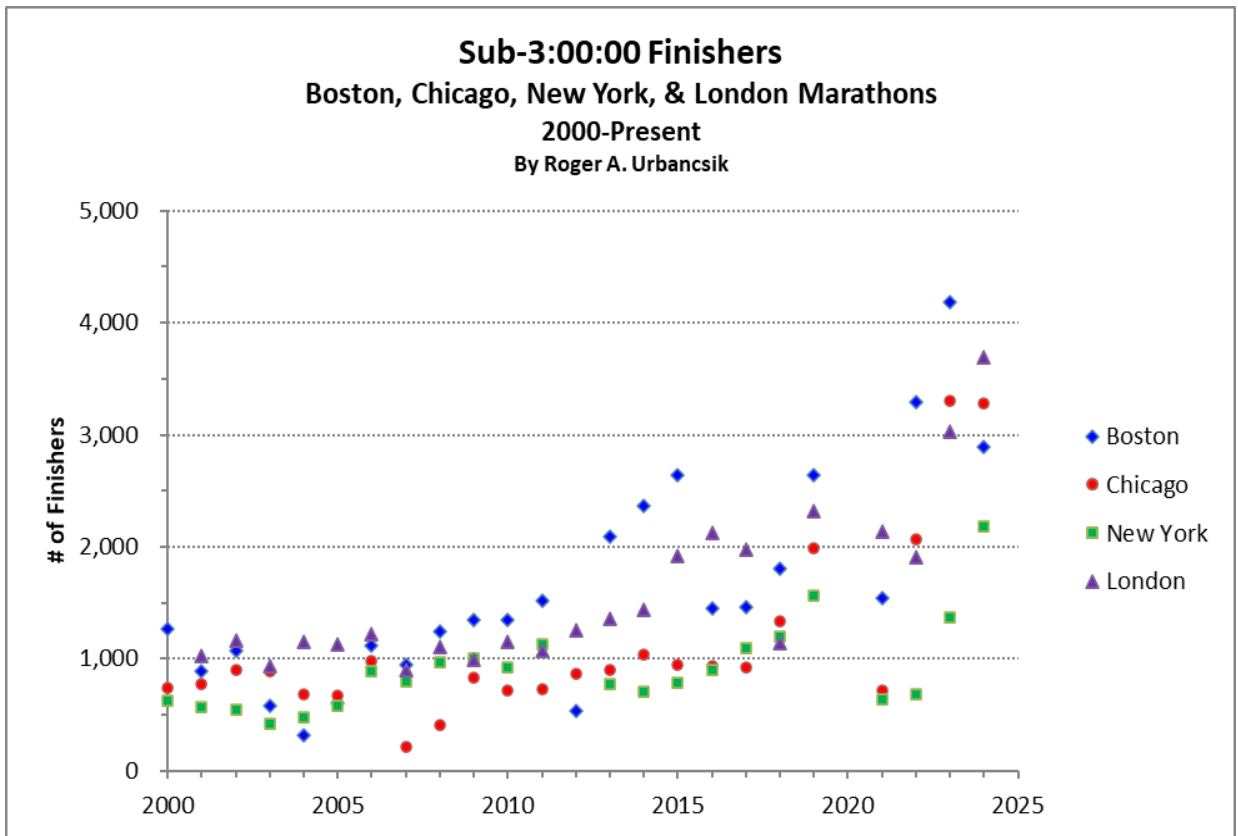

ND – only state never to have female running daily for one year; ND only 7 streak runners ever (6 certified), HI only other state under 12 (11, 10 certified).

MO - Just over one year ago, the Measly Mile Mafia, based in St Joseph, began sending in streaks from their members. The organization now has about 600 members and promotes daily running. From one certified stalker in Jun 2023, the city now boasts 102 as of 10/25/24, only three of which are retired. The huge influx has also resulted in MO going from 90 to 222 identified daily runners, the largest increase of any state ever in one year, moving into 7th place among the states.

AK – Bruce Sackinger reached one year November 2015, first time all 50 states have had an active, certified daily runner, 61 years after Ted Corbitt reached the year mark of the first registered streak in the US.

NM – Last state to have a certified streak when Jared Ostroski reached one year on October 24, 2012.

Currently all 50 states + DC have males actively streaking. Only ND has no active female (and has never had one). AK is the only state that has never had a streak runner over age 60 (Debbie Zulz is 60 currently). There has been at least one run stalker over 70 in 38 of the states. The only state to never have a streak runner age 25 or under is AK (Sara Sharpe was 32 when started). There has been at least one run stalker who started under 13 in 27 of the states.

Jemal Swoboda

JEMAL SWOBODA'S STREAK HITS 7 YEARS

As I celebrate my 7th year of running every day (July 28th), I'm excited to reflect on some of the highlights and challenges of the past year. I've managed to hit some of my fastest half marathon times in a decade and hope to dip below 1h30m in the coming year which is a testament to consistency and running with faster friends!

One of my biggest challenges this year was attempting to tackle 93 miles on the Wonderland Trail around Mount Rainier in a single push. Although the journey ended after 35 miles, it fueled my passion to up my vertical training and come back stronger in this coming year. Running the day after a big distance or big elevation run has always been tough and I've had a few rough streak saver days with all the pounding these big PNW trails put on me.

I'm incredibly grateful for my good health, supportive family, local trail running club, and the absence of injuries which have allowed me to maintain my daily streak plus my 100+ mile per month streak since August 2017. The journey continues, and I'm eager to see where the next year of running will take me!

ADAM FRITZ'S STREAK HITS 14 YEARS

Really no new news for the group to share. Finished up another year, and went over 5000 days at the beginning of May.

Have been running a few less miles due to being a little busier this year than in years past, but still getting at least the minimum. August 24th was day 1, year 15, and I guess I don't know why I'd quit now.

Third longest in South Dakota and #282 (currently) in the world isn't anything to sneeze at, so might as well keep after it. Go Jacks.

BRYAN MCCULLAR'S STREAK ENDS AFTER 1,507 DAYS

I could have easily gone out and ran another day. It was a pre-mediated departure. After surpassing 1500-day threshold and an opportunity to end the streak with finishing Arkansas's Full Moon 50k Ultra 7/21/24, which is where I ran my 1st ultra 10 years prior in 2014. Fitting departure out on top.

Eric Thompson

ERIC THOMPSON'S STREAK HITS 11 YEARS "A GRAND STREAKING ADVENTURE"

Still Streaking at 11-years. Although I have been running that long, I have not had time to train for any races the last year and have kept the distances under 5 miles.

My biggest challenge was a 12-day river trip camping in the Grand Canyon. A trip that depletes the thesaurus on adjectives for fabulous! The challenge was getting a mile done daily on the river banks. I had to run in circles of various sizes to complete a mile every day just after dawn before we had to hit the river. I got it done.

The Grand Canyon has its own classification system for rapids and it goes from 0-10 instead of the 0-5 standard. This year was a low river which makes the rocks higher so floating the boat was more challenging. Unfortunately, one of the passengers bounced out onto a rock, peeling off half his face and fracturing his skull, jaw, sternum, ribs and upper arm. The river guide Nicky promptly dove in to get him to our boat. We hauled him in and had to put his face back on as it had peeled half off, stabilize his neck, stop the bleeding and satellite radio for help. As I have worked ER and urgent care most of my career, and taught Advanced Wilderness Life Support Classes, I was there for a reason.

Finding a beach big enough for a helicopter was a challenge as well. I kept him stabilized while keeping him conscious which can help keep the blood pressure up, his airway open and gauge his mental status. It took over 90 minutes to get the chopper to our location and get the poor guy onboard. His wife had to be evacuated as well, not only to support him but he had actually hit her on the way out and broke her nose and upper teeth. The pilot was amazing. She had the skills to land on a small beach!

We would get daily updates and he needed a cranial decompression and a ventilator for a few days. Miraculously he survived and got back home within the month.

SO, this happened on day 6. We had 6 days to go. My new integrative skills were valuable to lead the group in mind relaxation techniques, breath work and a cool thing I learned called neurogenic tremor which helped to calm folks down and help get us through the next 6 days.

Despite the accident, it was one of the best trips I ever took and would highly recommend it. The wondrous beauty of the Canyon could have no match on earth. Sleeping under the stars, cut off from the world, seeing waterfalls and funky rock formations daily was a tremendous treat.

The last day was a lot. I got up at 4 am for breakfast in the dark, gathered my gear and had a tarantula cross my bedroll spot (glad I got up early. :) Took a helicopter ride to the top, was debriefed by the owners, got a shower (ahhhhh), flew to Boulder City, took a shuttle to McCarran airport in Las Vegas, rented a car, drove to Irvine, California to check in to a hotel and shop for clothes for an interview the following day and got my run done! After a day like that, any other “lots on the docket” day seems easy.

I did not take the job at UC Irvine as my wife would not move to Orange County so I am in Minnesota adding to the long list of MN streakers. Onward...

Blake and Charlene Roach

BLAKE ROACH'S STREAK HITS 4 YEARS

This whole thing started as I wanted to run ten days straight. I had always been a runner, 3-4 times a week. Ten days turned into 20, turned into 100 and so on and so on.

Even before I joined the military I was a runner but then I became a little more serious. When I finished the first year, my wife, Charlene, made a couple of signs and put them at the end of our drive way so I would see them when I finished day 365. She is my rock.

I don't run far and I don't run fast. I start slow and taper-off. LOL

I run for ME, for my physical and mental health. I don't always enjoy it but I do it because I need too.

Picture is from 30 Jan 2021, -32C. We did 21km that day.

May the wind somehow always be at your back my friends.

Great year, planning to continue at least until age 75. Still running a minimum of 5 miles per day.

Anna Schermerhorn

ANNA SCHERMERHORN JOINS USRSA FROM FLORIDA

My name is Anna Schermerhorn. I've been a runner for the past 14 years. I started running after the birth of my first child, and it soon became my favorite stress relief routine.

I have maintained my love of running since, including through the pregnancies of my 2 daughters, which I found helped tremendously with having healthy pregnancies and easy births.

I have run around 120 races so far, and after running my first marathon in 2017, I was hooked on distance races. I ran another 4 marathons in the few years after that, and then ran my first Ultra (a 60k), in November 2022.

I have since run another 8 ultra races, including my craziest experience in racing, the Skydive Ultra 50miler; it began with a skydive and then running 7.2-mile loops around some fields, with zero shade but plenty of alligator spotting in the nearby canals.

My longest distance thus far was 51 miles at a 12-hour trail race earlier this year; I'm hoping to beat that distance in an upcoming 12 hour looped course race.

I've been run streaking since July 17th, 2023, and it's been such a great challenge and motivator, and helps to keep me grounded every day. The hardest part of keeping the streak so far was running through sickness; the craziest was running through hurricanes (I live in Florida); the tedious is running when it's record breaking heat with "feels like" temperatures of 115°. But it's always a fun challenge, and I'm looking forward to many more runs in the years ahead.

My name is Bobby Howland and I am a 41-year old living in Branchburg, NJ. I've been happily married for 13 years and am a girl dad to two amazing children.

The run streak started on 11/25/2020 as something different to do as races weren't happening with Covid. I never thought I would still be streaking as the original goal was just to get to the new year.

My longest run during the streak was 41 miles this past June as I run my age every year on my birthday to raise awareness and funds for Duchenne Muscular Dystrophy and the JAR of Hope foundation.

The majority of my runs are done in the early morning in the calm / quiet of the day before parenting and work needs get going.

RYAN TEWKSBURY'S STREAK HITS 4 YEARS

4 years!

Time flies. I've learned so much about myself, and as a runner over this period. When I first started the streak, I had a larger goal in mind. I wanted to use it as training for a much longer race.

Now that I am four years in, I've realized I continue to do it for the love of running.

The busier I am, the more I crave that 10-12 mins (minimum) I get alone on my run each day.

I'd like to thank my partner for her continued support of my health and fitness endeavors. She has held me accountable, and continues to remind me how much this streak means to me (and those around me). She has always helped me to prioritize my run, no matter the situation we find ourselves in. Early mornings, late nights, sometimes right before or after a date! She is always okay with sharing her time with my hobby. I love you so much, Racquel. Thank you for being such an incredible person, and being a part of this experience with me.

Thank you to this community and for the recognition of this accomplishment (which has become a highlight of my life). I hope that this is just the beginning for me, and a much longer run streak! I'm so proud of my streak, and the person I've become over these last four years. I'm looking forward to many more years, miles, and memories in the future!

I regret to inform you that my current running streak came to an abrupt halt on 7 Sep 2024 due to being hospitalized due to pneumonia. The streak ran from 27 Dec. 2021 thru 6 Sep 2024. I did not run on 7 Sep. Was hoping to make it to 1000 days, but, wasn't meant to be. I kindly request to have this streak transferred to the retired list.

Thanks for your time and hope to start yet another streak when physically able.

Micah Jacobsen

MICAH JACOBSEN'S STREAK HITS 6 YEARS

My 6-year streak has been fun! My daily minimum started at 2 miles a day; and around year four, I graduated to a 5K a day as my daily minimum.

No treadmills allowed - indoor track is allowed when the weather is awful.

During the past several years of my run streak, I have run an average of 2200 miles each year but I decided to challenge myself a little more this year in 2024. My goal for 2024 is 3000 miles. I am on track for that. I alternate my distances all the time, some days, running over 10 miles then the next day only a 5k. Average of 58 miles a week this year.

I have run quite a few marathons and ultramarathons during my six year Run Streak. Naturally, the day after a long race is hard to get going again. However, I have learned that a 5k recovery run the day after a race does the body good!

I have been pretty close to ending my run streak a few times. Mainly from getting sick or falling on the trail while running and being a little banged up. I live in CO and weather can be gnarly in the winter as well. Somehow, I have managed to scrape myself up and get out the door the next day and keep going.

At this point, I can't really imagine a day without it. I feel blessed and thankful that I have been able to run this long and hope to continue as long as my body will allow!

ELIZA ESHELMAN'S STREAK HITS 22 YEARS

Hi everyone! I am celebrating 22 years of the daily run today [20 September 2024]. These past few years I increased my mileage slightly because my kids are older and I could leave them alone a bit longer. Since starting my run streak at 16 years old, I would have to say that the hardest phase of life has been running with small kids.

I ran through two pregnancies, every day at 3am while living in southern India, 5 different airports, I ran through labor contractions, many injuries and certainly all types of weather. My last run on the treadmill was in February 2009. My last run on an inside track was March 2019. My minimum has been 3 miles since January 2021 and before that was 2 miles. I ran a handful of 1.5 miles during my pregnancies.

My current life state is busy with work, personal studies and kid's schedules. I have been a single mom the entire time which has made me appreciate the importance of time management even more with no one to watch the kids while I run. I used to get shamed for taking 20 minutes out of the day to run and I am happy that I never let that get in my way of my daily commitment.

For me, the daily run is the most precious gift I have in this life and not a day goes by where I am not appreciative for being alive and feeling alive. If you've been running every day for longer than a decade you will also know that the daily run goes far deeper than just a physical exercise. Daily we prove to ourselves that we can get through obstacles and we can see the silver lining in anything life throws at us.

I have been part of the run streak association since 2004. The byproduct of my daily commitment has been to inspire others to start running. I have studied about running and learned about training philosophies, biomechanics and muscular physiology along the way, but most importantly, I have learned about myself.

Have a great run! Follow @dailyrunwithza.

BRUCE SHEPHARD'S STREAK HITS 16 YEARS

This year for me "16 became the new 80." My 16-year streak came on my 80th year of age. I was fortunate to run in my 7th decade with only minor hamstring and knee issues likely from reduced mileage and steady strength and balance training. My last marathon was on my 70th birthday at Boston.

I enjoy retirement and traveling, and I keep a list of my favorite runs in new countries (up to 82). Much of the joy of running comes from an affiliation with our track club, Forerunners, led by legendary coach Joe Burgasser who has set many national records and won his age group multiple times at Boston.

And here's another streak I'm proud of: this year marks 20 consecutive years doing twice-monthly interval training with Coach Joe. I hope, for all of us, our health and running life continue for many years to come.

PATRICK RUBIN'S STREAK HITS 3 YEARS

Three years ago, I started running daily as a way to find clarity and resilience during lockdown. Today [23 September 2024], I celebrate a three-year streak of daily runs. This journey has taught me the power of consistency and the profound impact of simple, persistent steps forward.

Running has become more than exercise; it's my therapy and my teacher. It has brought mental clarity, physical health, and a deeply connected community into my life. Each step is a reminder that monumental achievements are built on small, daily efforts.

To those contemplating this path, remember: it's not about speed or distance but resilience. Start small, stay consistent, and embrace the transformative journey of running. Let's keep moving forward, together. Every day, every mile matters.

GAVIN SPELL'S STREAK HITS 3 YEARS

Wow! Has it really been three years?? I started attempting to join the USRSA back in 2019, but due to some unfortunate sickness and medical reasons I had to break streak a couple of times before finally reaching a full year and registering this most recent attempt. I blinked a couple of times, and now it's been THREE years.

I truly enjoy this sport. Keeping my streak alive keeps me motivated with running. That being said, most of my runs are conducted while coaching Cross Country and Track at a local high school here in Wilmington. The team keeps me young and plugged into improving myself. It's great to have the consistency and structure that daily running has given me. Thanks so much for this community, and support!

SCOTT DEVEREUX'S STREAK HITS 9 YEARS

9 Years and Counting! Thursday 26th September 2024 marked 9 years of my running streak – a journey that began with my best friend and running partner, Mylo, my loyal border collie. Every single day, for 9 years, I've laced up my shoes and hit the pavement, running at least 5km (though I've averaged around 7.5km!).

Before I started, I struggled a lot with weight and body confidence issues. Running has been more than just a physical activity – it's been a way for me to take control of my health and conquer those challenges. It's helped me build confidence and feel stronger, inside and out.

This streak started as something fun, a way to stay active with Mylo by my side. Even though he's no longer with me, his spirit keeps me going every single day.

Now, with the 10-year milestone in sight, I'm setting my sights on an even bigger goal: running the equivalent of the Earth's circumference – that's 40,075 km!

It's been an incredible journey of persistence, dedication, and self-discovery, and I'm excited to see where this road takes me next.

Thanks to everyone who has supported me along the way – here's to 10 years and beyond!

SARAH WILLIAMS' STREAK HITS 6 YEARS

6 years! How did that happen? This year has been a busy one where I learnt a lot.

London Marathon taught me that city running is not for me with too many people, noise and pressure. It made me decide that smaller or trail events are much more my thing where cheers are replaced with cows mooing their support.

Then in the last month I tackled my first 100k and got my first ever DNF. Rather than feeling defeated about this I am proud I got that far. I was at 84k and had been vomiting for almost 30k and had nothing left fuel wise so going back up onto the English South Downs in the dark when you can't walk straight is just foolish and not safe. As someone who ran 2 hours after being taken off a drip in hospital, it was a big thing that I could swallow my pride and call it a day when I really needed to.

I have also really enjoyed coaching a couple of runners this year as well and today [29 September 2024] on my anniversary I was pacer for one of them running their first half marathon. It was such a lovely way to mark my anniversary and so rewarding to see her hard work pay off as she smashed an undulating course. She gave me a lovely glass award celebrating my 6 years as a thank you.

My plan for the next year is to carry on and get to the finish line on a 100k.

I hit 5 years for my streak on September 30th, 2024.

It's crazy to think of my accomplishments from this running streak. Earlier this year, I ran 3:03 at the Houston Marathon and qualified for Boston (I did not get accepted though, another goal to pursue).

Just a few weeks ago I crossed the line at Run Rabbit Run 100 in 30 hours and 37 minutes, finishing my first 100.

After starting my third streak on October 1, 2021, I upped the mileage minimum on my 42nd birthday to 4.2 miles per day. This March when I turned 43, I again increased the minimum mileage to 4.3.

During the first year of the streak, I was averaging 1200 a year. Now that I have begun to follow this routine, I am averaging about 1600 miles per year. During this current streak, I have run in 6 different countries and 10 different states.

I hope to keep the streak going as long as I can but still also play soccer and at some point, an injury will end the streak. Until then I will continue increasing the distance as I get older until I can't anymore.

GREG KANYICKA'S STREAK ENDS AFTER 1,469 DAYS

Knocked out on antihistamines, I realized at 11:55 that I had yet to run. Got out before midnight, sockless, but didn't start until just after 11:59 PM. I am not the Flash, so I was unable to complete a mile before midnight. But my Strava streak continues and so will I. See you in a year, maybe.

Celebrated my 5yr "Runniversary" with my family — ran 23k with the wife and met up for coffee at local spot near home.

We are currently marathon training for Cape Town Marathon and looking forward to an expanded year of races as we fill the calendar in anticipation for a few more Trail Runs and soaking in the South African sun!

Thanks for all of your hard work at SRI — it helps me stay motivated and current on what runners worldwide are working on. I appreciate everything you guys do!

YES, the streak lives!! Since I am afflicted with Parkinson's Disease I have found out the movement inherent with it is excellent therapy as well. My pattern is to hit the streets before the sun comes up in the morning for a 2-mile trek. One day at a time is all that it takes!

GRANT WOODMAN'S STREAK HITS 27 YEARS

On October 6th, 1997, I went out for a run. And every day since then I have gone out for a run. Sunday was Run Streak Day #9863 otherwise known as 27 years of running every single day of at least one mile. (My personal minimum is 2 mi).

Completing year 27 was fun because I got to run in a few different states and accomplish a goal at the age of 50—completing the Marji Gesick 100mi (107mi) run—that I had set for myself a few years back.

Another goal is on the horizon — (10,000 days), so here's to putting one foot in front of the other #EDD.

WILLIAM HOWES'S STREAK HITS 13 YEARS

Yes, my streak just passed "lucky" 13 years! I say lucky because as all of us streakers know, it's takes perseverance but also some luck to keep our streaks alive.

I celebrated the occasion by running 4 miles on a clear sunny day on the Lakefront Trail next to Lake Michigan in Northern Chicago.

Like some of my fellow streakers, I've tried to make a goal of running beyond the 1-mile minimum requirement and running 2 miles per day this year.

I'm thankful this past year has been injury and illness free for the most part. I'm also trying to become more of a morning runner although sometimes that can be tough.

I may have said this before but I'd like to thank my wife Beth for her patience and encouragement during this streak especially when away on vacations.

Best wishes and continued good luck to all of our fellow members! It's quite a club!

My 11th year has been largely uneventful due to long Covid. I have enjoyed many mountain adventures but races have been disappointing. Until the end of August that is when I ran like I used to be able to do and nailed a 50k. Here's to year 12. 🍊

Roger Crossley

ROGER CROSSLEY'S STREAK HITS 13 YEARS

I never expected to reach 13 years with my current running streak and feel very fortunate that I've made it this far.

I've run with broken toes, a kidney infection, COVID, the flu and a myriad of arthritic flare-ups and colds (plus I have arrhythmia issues and am anemic). I'm sure most all those that have long running streaks have been through comparable obstacles.

I started running in my late fifties five years after kicking the cigarette habit and started the streak a little over a year later. I actually started the streak after a 310-day streak came to an end during a business trip.

I pretty much just run on a treadmill nowadays due to arthritis in both knees, both hips and lower back (the joys of being 71). The cushioning in the Sole treadmill I've been using off and on since 2013 (rebuilt several times) allows me to keep going (that and two ibuprofens about an hour prior to my run).

I do occasionally run outside, but only for a mile or so at a time. I've been averaging over seven miles a day for the past four plus years (I'm over 30,800 streak miles now), but plan on cutting back if I make it through the remainder of 2024.

I gave up running in races in late 2019 after getting too close to the thirty-minute mark in 5K races (60 total races). I now run between 10'30" and 11' miles so I've slowed considerably over the past five years. I'm more than OK with that. Again, I've been very fortunate to be able to continue running.

There was the occasional early 3am run before an early flight or a 2k run at the AMS Schipol terminal but in general this year the daily run became a habit and part of the early morning routine. JASON JACOBSON'S STREAK HITS 15 YEARS

"Fifteen Years Without Missing a Day: My Journey as a Runner"

"I am a runner." Four simple words, a short phrase that has defined me and shaped who I am for virtually my entire life. In high school and college, being a runner meant competition—pushing myself to my limits, racing for time, and racing for my team.

In my 20s, it was about finding the time and willpower to keep racing while balancing work and life. I logged miles, endured hard workouts, and searched for races, always chasing those elusive collegiate times.

By my 30s, the focus had shifted. Age group competitions became the new frontier, and I learned to listen to my body, adapting to the changes time had brought. Now, in my 40s and early 50s, running has become my solitude. The days of intense pushing are behind me. My runs are no longer about speed or competition—they are about consistency, reflection, and peace.

I never set out to run every day. I simply didn't like taking days off. Over the years, I would take maybe one or two days off every few years, but one day I noticed something: there were no zero-mile days in my log. I hadn't missed a run. And so, it began—a streak I didn't plan for, but one that grew. One year became two, two became five, and milestones followed. Before I knew it, a decade had passed. And now, here I am—fifteen years without missing a single day.

I've run through snowstorms, blistering heat, fierce winds, and icy conditions. I've run in parking garages, at 1:45 a.m., for as little as one mile or as long as 33. Through heartbreak and joy, through life's many challenges and triumphs, running has been my steadfast companion. As I approach 95,000 lifetime miles, I have my sights set on 100,000, a goal I hope to reach in the next few years.

Running is more than just a daily habit for me—it's my confidant, my time for reflection, my mental escape. It's when I jam out to '80s tunes or country music, when I do my best thinking or sometimes no thinking at all. It's been a constant in my life for 15 years and counting, and I wouldn't have it any other way. "I am a runner."

PEDRO VICENTE'S STREAK HITS 4 YEARS

My name is Pedro Vicente, I'm 60 years old, and I was born and live in Portugal. I'm a musician (pianist) and had never practiced any sport until I was 52, when I started running in 2016.

Since then, I've completed 73 half marathons, 39 marathons, and 14 ultramarathons, along with many other road and trail races at various distances, totaling 374 official races.

On October 1, 2020, I began my running streak, which I plan to continue. I run an average of 14 or 15 km per day, which amounts to 440 km per month and around 5,300 km annually. I almost always run at night after work, and to this day, I've never had an injury. Keep streaking! ☺

I completed my 4-year run streak anniversary last week in warm, sunny Mazatlan, Mexico!

It's been somewhat challenging to continue the streak during travel to Malaysia, Thailand, & New Zealand over the past 2 years—not to mention the limitations imposed by COVID. However, it has been rewarding to maintain my streak.

Thank you so much for the attention on my run streak's fifth birthday!

I'm basically not a very sporty person and am very proud to have kept it going for so long. I can't boast of either speed or distance but I like that the streak gets me out for a while every day regardless of the weather, fatigue or how the planning looks.

For a while I was bored and thought about breaking up, but I concluded that I didn't find any good enough reasons for it. As it feels now, I will continue one day at a time until something out of my control goes away.

Yes, I'm still running and with some help from my community Sweden Runners we celebrated my runstreak this Saturday 26th of October.

We did an event like a small backyard.

To celebrate my 5th year, we ran 5 loops in the forest with each loop being a 5 km. We started every hour and we did it 5 days before the anniversary. I love numbers.

It also will be my 5th year as a member in Sweden Runners community so they helped me with a lottery of starts for different trail race among those who run with me.

It was a great day and they treated me like a queen. A golden cape, of course, a medal, and champagne.

I send you a collage from the day, everybody is ok with the exposing.

GUY ALMOG'S STREAK HITS 5 YEARS

I can't believe it's been 5 years since I started this wild running adventure. In total, I've logged 28,713 km across 1,866 runs — that's almost enough to run 3 times around the moon!

Throughout this streak, I've taken part in 3 Great-Munich-Brewery-Ultras and 3 Brewery marathons. I guess you could say I'm running for both fitness and froth!

I also had my share of injuries which made me doubt how long this streak could last. But I managed to go out and squeeze 2 km and recover relatively fast.

I know this streak will end one day, and when it will, I hope to be able to cherish it as one of the craziest, most fun things I've ever done. For me it's the journey that counts!

These days I try to combine running a half marathon a day while training to run a Boston Qualifier in March, which might get quite tricky, but I am ready for the challenge! Long live the streak!

TOPHER CISAR'S STREAK HITS 5 YEARS

The streak is still going strong. I have found that if I keep my weekly total around 20-25 miles, my knees hold up well. More than that, things start to show their age. With that, I try to keep a 3 mile per day average. Some days it's more, some days its less but I'm usually pretty consistent with weekly mileage in the low 20's.

The main challenge that continues to rear its head, is time. We have two kids in college, two in high school and one in grade school...all of which are involved in numerous activities. This leads our evenings and weekends to be fairly busy. Some runs are early at 4 am before we hit the road or others are in the evening at the end of the day. Some are on college campuses, some are around hotels in different towns and some are on the same good old bike trail that is my norm.

One of this year's challenges, other than time, was having to go through that procedure that most middle-aged men go through when they've decided that they've fathered enough kids...yep, that one. The day of, I got up early & ran, and the following day I procrastinated until about 8 pm just to give myself as much recoup time as possible. I'll spare the detail on the "support" techniques that were utilized in order to make the runs possible...Ha!

After that, I spent the next few days logging a slow & steady mile, and eventually worked back up to my normal pace & distance. Fast forward a few months and turns out, the procedure needed to be repeated. Ugh. I did the same early run the day of and evening run the day after followed by about 5 days of slow & steady miles accompanied by the same good old "support" techniques prior to the runs. I'm now in the clear and back on track with my 20+ miles per week...and still only have 5 kids. :)

My 17 year old son, Hudson, continues to be 151 days behind me and will be closing in on his 5 year streak this spring. He continues to amaze me with his dedication to wrestling as well as taking the time to keep his streak alive.

With the days becoming shorter, the night runs are creeping in. Time to break out the high viz and head lamps. See ya on the trails.

Still going! Started my first streak in 2012 that ended with a broken ankle in 2016...then tried again in 2017 that lasted a year with an overnight hospital visit...third and final attempt was November 3rd, 2018 on what would've been my dad's 70th birthday.

My dad had his own streak in the 70s/80s and wanted to reach 2,131 days in a row (a nod to Lou Gehrig's games played streak) but he never got to complete it.

After he died in 2011, I decided to try myself and hit that goal in September (FINALLY!). Still going strong because hey, why not?

TRISTAN HYDE'S STREAK HITS 2 YEARS

Hi All! Still going! 2 years and counting.

I was lucky enough to be in Germany on Remembrance Day and get the opportunity to visit the grave of my Great Uncle at Rheinberg War Cemetery on the exact day of my 2-year running streak anniversary.

I love my daily run as it gives me a chance to think about life, family, friends and everything else.

Visiting the grave of my Great Uncle and 5000 other men who gave their lives for our freedom in WW2 brought sharp focus to my 2-year Anniversary run that day. A sobering poignant run that made me thankful and respectful for the freedoms they gave us, but also thankful for the freedoms being able to run every day gives me.

I don't know how other streak runners feel day to day as I've not met any. However, and without being cliché, it feels like a personal journey you repeat daily. An inner determination that you enjoy but sometimes one that is hard or difficult, but you do it anyway.

After finishing Year 1 with a flourish, I decided to increase the amount I ran. My Year 1 was developing the routine. I began to incorporate Parkrun again to increase distance and into Year 2 this desire took off - longer runs and faster runs.

My worry about injury, which has plagued me before with double plantar fasciitis, disappeared as my body settled into a new routine. This took hold on holidays especially where I would use the opportunity to run much longer distances (by my standards) managing 4 x 10k plus runs in a row when I went home to Cornwall and all along the beautiful Cornish Coastline earlier this year.

Another favorite being a February 2024 holiday to Mallorca where the pleasant weather was a relief from the dark, cold and wet runs throughout the winter 2023 into 2024. I peaked in the summer 2024 with distance but trying anything like this during my summer holiday to Spain 2024 became too difficult with the heat.

After this, I eased down and became less hard on myself. Just being able to do it and listening to my bodies signals with built up fatigue but also illness and minor injury were important. Recently I've struggled some days to feel the energy at the end of long work days to get out. But I did anyway.

I'm currently reinvigorated during the work trip to Germany I referenced at the start. Visiting different places gives me a chance to engage my favorite past time of running tourism. Today [14 November 2024] a run to the Rhine River at sunrise in Koblenz, Germany to see where the mighty river meets the Moselle River.

Time to get out there.

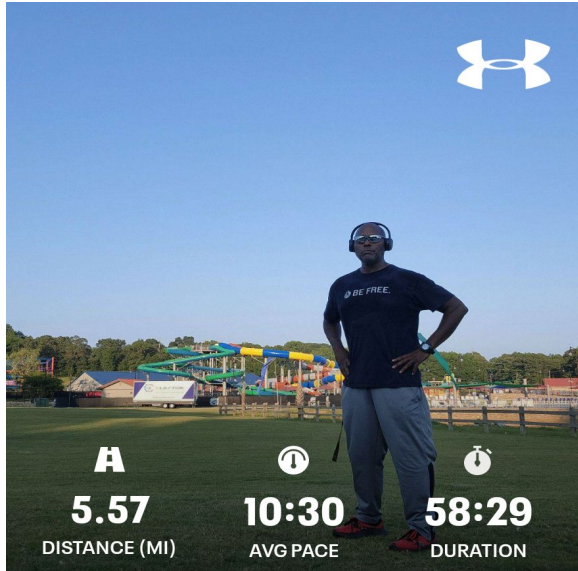

Good luck everybody with your own streaks. Keep going. Stay safe and healthy.

Honestly, like many of you, this started as a simple challenge to myself and remains so - though what I have learned about myself, how good a daily run makes me feel, and how I have been able to (unintentionally) motivate others to take on health related challenges has kept the motivation going.

THE FINISH LINE

By: Mark Washburne

During the last quarter, we were saddened to learn of the passing of Geza Feld, a retired Bank Officer from Farmingdale, New York. We were late to hear of the news and he actually passed on 13 December 2023 at the age of 90. Geza Feld was one of our pioneering members being the 7th person to join the United States Running Streak Association (USRSA) on 18 January 2001. He was also one of the original members of the USRSA Board of Directors lasting until his passing. Mr. Feld was also the USRSA Board Member who came up with the name “Streak Runners International.” Over his illustrious running career, Geza Feld had three running streaks with his longest streak lasting over 30 years from 1 October 1976 to 27 July 2007. Over the years, Geza Feld shared updates, advice, and even poems with our streak running membership via THE STREAK REGISTRY that we have reprinted in this issue (please see page 6). We send our condolences to Mr. Feld’s widow Alina, his daughters Anne Lowell and Jennifer Taylor, and all his family and friends.

As I mentioned, we were late to hear of the news of Geza Feld’s passing. I actually learned of the news by accident when I sent out an email to the Board and his email came back undeliverable. I then Googled his name and discovered his obituary on-line. While this might sound a little morbid, we encourage all of you to share our email address (USRSA@yahoo.com) with your loved ones and have them contact us if you are incapacitated and unable to report the end of your streak or, even worse, are no longer with us. You are all important to us and when the time comes (and it will for all of us) we want to celebrate and pay a final tribute to you with our streak running family.

Speaking of celebrating, we salute Jim Pearson, from Marysville, Washington, USA, for becoming the second athlete in the world to reach 20,000 consecutive running days (54.76 years), a “fete” (or more appropriate for our group “feet”) he accomplished on 18 November 2024. Jon Sutherland, from Washington, Utah, USA, was the first to reach the 20K mark in February 2024. If all goes well, the next to reach that milestone is Steve DeBoer, from Rochester, Minnesota, USA, who hits 20K in March 2026. Congratulations again to Coach Pearson and Coach Sutherland on 20,000 days and fingers crossed for Mr. DeBoer as he nears the goal.

Someone else that is near a streak running goal is Robert “Raven” Kraft, from Miami Beach, Florida, USA. If all goes according to plan, Raven Kraft will become the 7th athlete in the world to reach the 50-year running streak mark on 31 December 2024. My wife, Diane, and I have booked our flights and hotel room and plan to be in Miami Beach for the big end of year celebration for Raven. Steve DeBoer, and his wife Gail, have made similar plans. The 50th anniversary year run, like all the runs before it, will start at the 5th Street Lifeguard stand at 4p.m. Also, if you want to become an official “Raven Runner,” please note that you must run 8 miles continuous on the beach, so please do 3 miles before or after the main 5 mile run to qualify for the group. All are invited to the New Year’s Eve celebration for Raven whether they run 8-miles, 5-miles, or just want to say hello.

If you do decide to come to Miami, please also consider coming a day earlier. My running streak hits 35 years on 30 December 2024 and I plan (fingers crossed) to do my anniversary run with Raven on the beach.

As always, I also want to wish all of you good luck as we each run the roads and trails – every day!

YOU ARE INVITED TO JOIN
ROBERT “RAVEN” KRAFT ON HIS
50TH RUNNING STREAK ANNIVERSARY

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 31, 2024
RUN STARTS AT 4 P.M.*
5TH STREET LIFEGUARD STAND
MIAMI BEACH, FLORIDA, USA

Raven Kraft

 To be an official “Raven Runner,” you must run 8 miles continuous so please do 3 miles before or after the main 5-mile run to qualify for the group.
